News of Young Ladies. How Old Is Zaro Agha? New York for Gambling. Freedom for Haiti.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

IN NEW YORK, a charming young girl of nineteen, named Gertie, blind for fifteen years, her sight now restored, is anxious to see wonderful things of which she has heard.

But it is not the Taj Mahal, shimmering in India's warm sunshine, the Bay of Naples, Melrose Abbey by moonlight, the mysterious sphinx looking out over the sands, or the great wall of China, that she wants to see.

She tells the New York Evening Journal that she wants to see BABE RUTH AND JACK DEMPSEY.

Poets may not, nature will approve that desire, for mother nature wants young women to be interested first of all in powerful young men that can do things.

YOUNG LADIES appear in the news in several places. Detectives are following and investigating one young person supposed to have led an old and rich man to a convenient place on a high sea wall, where the men with whom she worked pushed him off, robbed him and let him drown.

OUTSIDE THE Shreveport court house in Louisiana two beautiful young ladies standing on a truck shrieked at a fighting crowd of three thousand:

"Him" was a 38-year-old salesman of artificial butterflies, a white man, who had confessed killing a 16-year-old girl.

ZARO AGHA, Turkish gentleman, married many times, came here saying he was one hundred and sixty years old. Americans believed it, as they believe anything, interestingly announced.

Dr. Voronoff, gland specialist who makes old men think they are young, offers to find out scientifically the exact age of Zaro Agha, but the aged Turk says "No, no."

The late Professor Shaler, of Harvard, says that no human being has ever been proved to have lived longer than one hundred and ten years.

Science assures you that in the future men will live to about one hundred and fifty normally. The wise man will say:

"No, thank you, it is too much trouble to live even to eighty. I should rather stop and start again."

NEW YORK STATE has apparently decided to legalize race track gambling by a subterfuge, although the state constitution forbids it.

The matter is not practically very important, dishonesty of public officials and the public passion for gambling having long since made the state constitution and laws ridiculous.

It will make gambling easier, with less blackmailing of gamblers, make more young men into thieves, and more young women into something worse. But that is the trend of our present "civilization." Men "of character" are actually discussing the establishment of public lotteries, to help public finances.

ACCORDING TO Washington, United States marines that have been in Haiti for nineteen years will be withdrawn in October, and Haiti will manage her own affairs, including her finances.

Everybody will hope for good results, not everybody will expect them.

The Haitians will find useful warnings in what Froude wrote about one of Haiti's neighbors. One side of a West Indian island with well-built wharves, brick warehouses, other civilized equipment was turned back to complete control of natives. The other side of the island was retained by Englishmen. Presently the natives that had received "complete control" came around from their side to work for the Englishmen, while their own wharves and brick buildings fell into decay.

It is easy to work for a so-called civilization, difficult to build or maintain one.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, son of former President Roosevelt, distant cousin of Franklin D. Roosevelt, calls the "New Deal" "reactionary and un-American."

Some "best minds" had already called it "un-American," but hardly "reactionary."

WASHINGTON REPORTS that President Roosevelt has decided against the McLeod bill, that would have the government take over assets of closed banks and pay depositors their claims in full now, up to $2,500.

THE PRESIDENT is quoted to the effect that many depositors have already settled with their banks at fifty cents on the dollar, and it would be unfair for the government to pay others 100 cents.

The President denies that the government is responsible for the NATIONAL banks and says that the government, to keep banks from closing, urging the people to leave their money on deposit, involved no moral obligation.

It will be said by some small depositors that the government, perhaps, was under no moral obligation to send ninety million dollars in a great hurry to a bank in Chicago, that was in trouble. The reply is, that happened before President Roosevelt's time.

THE NATIONS seem worried, as much as it is possible to be worried when you are already

Martin Put on Spot By Vets as Shannon Stays in Race

By MARK SHIELDS

Announced support of regular Republican organization leaders for the gubernatorial candidacy of Attorney General William A. Schnader was met in Pittsburgh today by definite opposition from men who have been closely identified with the political fortunes of Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Senator Frank J. Harris greeted Schnader's arrival in Pittsburgh with an emphatic declaration for the candidacy of Attorney Charles J. Margiotti.

At the same time it was learned that Judge Ralph H. Smith and County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, Pinchot leaders in Allegheny County, are unfriendly to the Schnader candidacy because of its support by the Mellon-Vare-Grundy interests.

Schnader arrived in Pittsburgh this morning to confer with local leaders, including the Pinchot group.

No question was left of the preference of the Grundy-Vare-Mellon group for Schnader, who was finaly agreed upon yesterday.

MARTIN HOLDS OUT

Martin, the only hold-out, has not yet defined his position as between Schnader and Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon, but it is reported he made an effort to persuade Shannon to withdraw from the contest. Martin would not confirm this, but admitted he had advised Shannon and Schnader to "get together." In view of the preference of the Mellons, with whom Martin has always teamed, for Schnader, this was generally interpreted as meaning that Shannon should withdraw.

This the Lieutenant Governor flatly refused to do, declaring he would continue in the campaign to the finish.

Martin is in an unenviable position. Soldier associations entangle him with the Shannon can-

Former Star Saved From Pauper Grave

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 19.—(AP.)—With only a handful of friends in attendance, funeral services were held here yesterday for Karl Dane, film comedian who last Saturday night shot himself to death.

Dane, unable to obtain work in talking pictures although he once was a star in the silent films, was saved from a pauper's grave through the generosity of the studio where he had formerly worked.

Father Ryan's Will Makes Priest Heir

The Right Rev. Msgr. Martin Ryan, pastor of St. Brigid's Catholic Church, disposed of his estate, worth at least $10,000, in his will which was filed for probate today. He leaves his books to Duquesne University and the estate to the Rev. John A. O'Connor, of Clairton.

Bank Bill Showdown Near

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Sponsors of legislation to rescue depositors who lost their savings in bank crashes were stirred into redoubled activity today by a statement of President Roosevelt opposing the McLeod payoff bill.

The advocates immediately called for a showdown with the administration and decided to present another petition in the House to force a vote on the measure this session.

The petition, requiring 145 names, will be filed Monday or Tuesday. It is aimed to discharge the Rules Committee from further consideration of a rule for a vote and to bring the bill before the House for action on May 14. That is the earliest a vote could be obtained under the parliamentary procedure.

Since 145 names were obtained for the petition to discharge the Banking Committee, it was considered a foregone conclusion sufficient signatures will be obtained on the new petition to take the bill out of the Rules Committee's pigeonhole.

The President said he was not impressed by the argument that the government, which urged the people to keep money in the banks, was under moral obligation to the depositors. He asserted many

CAT SHUNS SITE OF 6 MURDERS

International News Service.

BREMERTON, Wash., April 19.—A black and white tomcat, sole survivor of the "mass murders" here, refuses to live in the house of horrors where bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flieder, the cat's master and mistress, and four other victims were found March 31.

Mrs. Flieder's sister and brother-in-law are now occupying the home. They said today.

"The cat won't come in the house. When we bring him in, he howls terribly and fights to get out. He is scared to death of the place. If that cat could only talk . . ."

The couple declared the animal needed all its nine lives to escape a fate similar to the massacre victims.

"The killers tried to finish him, too. His head showed that a bloody hand had seized him. He evidently wriggled loose and hid in the house."

Wrestling Match Fatal to Spectator

MIAMI, Fla., April 19.—(AP.)—The excitement of watching a wrestler twist a towel about the neck of his opponent proved too great last night for Guy L. Sanders, 54, of Lima, O.

Sanders collapsed before the wrestlers settled their differences in the ring aided by flying chairs from the booing spectators, and died two hours later in a hospital. Physicians blamed a cerebral hemorrhage.

Glesenkamp Charges Mayor and Board Acted Illegally

Attorney Ben L. Steinberg today asked the courts to reinstate two men fired by Mayor McNair.

They are Louis Glenkamp, city paymaster, and Harry Sikov, paymaster's clerk, who were dismissed 10 days ago.

Attorney Steinberg filed a petition for a writ of mandamus against the Mayor and three members of the Civil Service Commission, Julia M. Doyle, chairman, Fred W. Miner and Walter O. Boyer.

Glesenkamp and Sikov were dismissed by the Mayor after the Civil Service Commission had removed them from the non-competitive to the exempt class. This took away from them their Civil Service protection.

Steinberg contends the whole proceedure was illegal, that the Civil Service hearing was secret, and that the two employes were not allowed counsel.

Steinberg charged that McNair deliberately caused City Solicitor Cornelius D. Scully to carry on these proceedings before the Civil Service Commission.

Kreuger Estate Files Income Tax Appeal

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP.)—A petition asking a redetermination of a 1929 income tax claim of $17,089 assessed against the estate of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish industrialist who committed suicide in Paris, was filed today with the board of tax appeals.

The action, brought by James F. Egan, New York County public administrator, as administrator of Kreuger's estate, asserted the government erroneously taxed as a taxable dividend a payment of $127,149 to Kreuger by Jordahl & Co., Inc.

Daughter of Church Leader Asks Divorce

SEATTLE, April 19.—(AP.)—The former Gwladys Matthews has filed suit in San Francisco to divorce her husband, Maurice Sachs, French lecturer, author and art critic.

Mrs. Sachs is the daughter of the Rev. Mark A. Matthews, former moderator for the United States of the Presbyterian Church. Her mother disclosed the divorce complaint, which charges desertion.

Siamese Prince, 11, Bows to Spaghetti

NEW YORK, April 19.—(AP.)—Prince Varnand, 11-year-old kinsman of the King of Siam, arrived on the S. S. Champlain today to attend a private school in Washington, D. C.

He was accompanied by two countrymen, also connected with the Siamese dynasty. They said the young prince displayed a passion for spaghetti during his sea voyage.

Fire Truck Crashes On Way to Blaze

The truck was answering an alarm to the second floor apartment of Miss Marie Davis, 11 Federal street, where a can of wax exploded, blowing out window panes and burning draperies. Damage was estimated by firemen at $50.

Abandon Myth of Stork, Priest Tells Parents

CLEVELAND, O., April 19.—(AP.)—An admonition to parents to drop the stork myth in explaining birth and life to the child comes from the Rev. Felix Kirsch, of Catholic University, a speaker at the Catholic conference on family life.

It is better to give the child instruction in sex matters a year too soon than too late, he declared before the thousand parents and educators attending the conference.

Parents have placed the responsibility for sex education, which he said rests entirely with them, too much in the hands of pastors and school teachers, Father Kirsch asserted.

The younger the child, the less embarrassment there will be for both parent and child, he added, when the time comes for a clear explanation.

Killer, Gang Reported Fleeing Toledo; U. S. on Trail

COLUMBUS, O., April 19.—(AP.)—The Ohio Highway Patrol radio station, WPGQ, this afternoon broadcast an alarm to peace officers to be on the lookout for a sedan carrying Indiana license plates and carrying four men and a woman heavily armed. The report said the quintet left Toledo at 12:30 p. m.

The broadcast followed quickly revelation that a threat on the life of Gov. George White, apparently emanating from Dillinger gangsters is under investigation of postal authorities.

The Governor said the threat was made in a letter mailed in Chicago and signed by "Friends" of Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley, Dillinger gangsters under sentence of death in the electric chair for slaying Sheriff Jess Sarber at Lima during a raid in which they liberated Dillinger.

Gov. White disclosed the letter said that if he did not pardon "Harry and Charley" before the execution date, July 13, he would not live out his term in office.

Gov. White said there would be no increase of the guard at the executive mansion at this time. The guard was posted several weeks ago by Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson, when the Dillinger gangsters were removed from the Lima jail to the Ohio penitentiary.

MAN IN HOSPITAL HANGS SELF

A patient in Mercy Hospital hanged himself from a fire escape on the third floor early today, the Coroner's office reported.

He was listed as Floyd C. Ostensen, 33, laboratory assistant of Gulf Refining Company.

Ostensen, who had been in the hospital for three weeks for his nerves, used a strap from his suitcase. He reached the fire escape by a window from his room. A nurse discovered the body.

Ostensen came to Pittsburgh recently from Texas.

Mercy Hospital physicians today are fighting to save the life of Mrs. Elizabeth Pfouts, 62, wife of a Carnegie Tech instructor, who attempted to hang herself in the basement of her home, Woodlawn place, late yesterday, according to a police report.

Her husband, William Pfouts, of the School of Industry, Carnegie Institute, cut the clothes line that suspended her from a cabinet in the basement, where she had been hanging nearly an hour, police said.

He administered first aid until police arrived. Pfouts told police his wife was suffering from a nervous condition.

Brother of 'Hymie' Fined $50 in Lottery

Three men, including Nathan Martin, 235 Dinwiddie street, brother of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, were fined $50 each today by Magistrate J. W. McGowan for operating a lottery.

Frank R. Boyd, captain of detectives, testified in Central Police Court they were arrested yesterday as they were walking out of 75 Roberts street, where his racket squad was making a raid. The other two men are George Roth, of South Twenty-second street, and James George, Cliff street.

Starlings Retreat Before Sprigle But Not Far

Today was moving day for the starlings — the downtown starlings who have been annoying Ray Sprigle, the county purchasing agent.

With a haughty ha-ha for Mr. Sprigle, they moved from their winter home atop the county jail just across the street to the roosting place of the Courthouse.

Mr. Sprigle's forces have been bombarding the starlings with Roman candles but the starlings have merely been giving Mr. Sprigle's forces the bird.

Lindy Chase Links Touhy Gangster

International News Service.

BOSTON, April 10.—An alleged member of the Roger Touhy gang, of Chicago, serving a sentence in the Leavenworth Penitentiary for passing counterfeit money, will be questioned by agents of the Federal Department of Justice in connection with the kidnaping and hoax ransoming of the Lindbergh baby, it was said by federal officials this afternoon.

The man is serving a three-year sentence for attempting to pass a counterfeit $100 bill for a trip by airplane from this city to New York, police said.

When arrested, a piece of jewelry was found in his possession. Investigation revealed that the trinket had been purchased by some of the ransom money which figured in the Lindbergh case.

The suspect is a former resident of Roxbury who moved to Chicago where he is alleged to have joined the Touhy gang which figured in one of the many Lindbergh baby kidnaping investigations.

United States Marshal John J. Murphy today reiterated he would like to have Dr. John C. Condon, the "Jafsie" in the Lindbergh case come to Boston and view a photograph he had in his possession. Murphy said:

"Even if the 'excellent clue' proves to be worthless, at least it merits recognition."

Four Hurt in Blasts Wrecking Restaurant

CHESTER, Pa., April 19.—(INS.)—Three violent explosions of dynamite bombs wrecked the Dutch Grille night club here today, sending four men to Chester Hospital with serious injuries and burns. The blasts shook the neighborhood for blocks around.

Three of the injured men were under police guard at the hospital. They will be questioned concerning their proximity to the scene of the mysterious explosions.

Stenographer Lists 'Debts' in Millions

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—(AP.)—Bankruptcy court clerks gasped when Miss Marion Pratt, a stenographer, filed a petition showing $5,034,361.58 liabilities and $225 assets.

Her attorney said Miss Pratt, as an employe of a now defunct securities company, signed scores of mortgages and trust deeds. She seeks to be formally absolved by the court of any possible liability.

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP.)—Senator McAdoo, of California, is in the Naval Hospital reported to be recuperating from a nose infection resulting from a cold.

5 MILLION SUIT FILED BY STATE

The State Insurance Department has filed two suits seeking to recover $5,000,000 from a group of business men formerly connected with the Pennsylvania Surety Corporation, some as officers and directors, it was revealed today.

The suits were filed in Common Pleas Court here April 7 by Joseph F. Marion, special deputy, acting as agent for Charles H. Graff, Acting Insurance Commissioner, who is statutory liquidator of the Pennsylvania Surety Corporation

Papers in connection with the two suits were missing today from the office of Prothonotary John Vogt. Vogt declared that he did not even know the suits had been filed. He said he believed the "papers might be in court."

The suits, one in trespass and one in equity, named F. T. Aufderheide, C. A. Bardolph, Walter J. Curley, John M. Freman, Edwin Hodge, Jr., E. M. Love, F. E. Markell, Herbert A. May, Harry W. Nethkin, Benjamin D. Phillips, Joseph T. Riffle, W. H. Robinson, W. C. Rice, Albert D. Reynolds, H. C. Ward, J. W. Ward, the Colonial Trust Company, executor of the estate of George T. Kirkbride; Albert C. Martin, executor of the estate of S. C. Martin; the Allegheny Trust Company, administrator of the estate of H. H. Patterson.

Millworker Leaves $20,000; No Will

MONESSEN, April 19. — Attorneys today were unable to find a will for the estate of Zako George, 40, millworker, who died Monday. His estate is valued unofficially at $20,000. He leaves two brothers.

Dillinger, Pals Linked In Duel With Lone Sleuth

International News Service.

WESTON, Mass., April 19.—Search throughout Massachusetts was launched today by state police for an automobile bearing Illinois and New York registration plates, carrying six men, one believed to be John Dillinger, notorious Mid-Western bandit, following a gun duel here between them and a lone policeman.

Three of the men were believed to have been shot by Motorcycle Patrolman Arthur Raynor, who fired a total of 17 shots at the bandits, and dodged a barrage of machine gun fire in return.

One of the men was handcuffed, according to Patrolman Raynor. He saw them as the automobile raced by him traveling at nearly a mile-a-minute clip.

Illinois Bank Looted, Dillinger Blamed

PANA, Ill., April 19.—(INS.)—Four unmasked men held up the First National Bank here today and escaped with $30,000 in cash.

The proprietor of a business house adjoining said he was positive "one of the robbers was Dillinger." Officers, however, were inclined to doubt this.

Dillinger Risks Capture For Home-Cooked Meal

MOORESVILLE, Ind., April 19.—(INS.)—His hair dyed a flaming red, John Dillinger, notorious outlaw, risked capture by visiting the home of his father, John W. Dillinger, here, April 7 and 8, because of a craving for good old home-cooked ham and beans, his father revealed here today.

Dillinger was accompanied by a beautiful brunette whom he introduced as his wife. The elder Dillinger said:

"My boy came through the orchard back of the house and he was limping. I didn't ask him, though, whether he had been shot."

Man Falls Ten Stories To Death Downtown

Falling 10 stories to the sidewalk, after a scaffolding rope broke, William Crumm, 25, of Wilbur street, was fatally injured today. A fellow worker, Peter Boehm, 24, of 512 Sherman avenue, narrowly missed a similar fate.

As the rope snapped and Crumm began his fall, Boehm reached quickly for a dangling end of rope and clung in mid-air until rescued by other workers.

Crumm and Boehm, employes of a building maintenance concern, were adjusting the scaffold on the tenth floor of Kaufmann's store building, on Fifth avenue, when the rope at one end suddenly gave way.

Crumm toppled through space.

Many persons witnessed his fall and watched Boehm dangling from the rope until aid came. Crumm was taken to Mercy Hospital, where he died several hours later.

G. E. Hennon, foreman, and George Matthews, another employe of the Edward N Johnson Company, on another part of the tenth floor rushed to Boehm's rescue and pulled him to safety through a window.

Trembling through nervousness Boehm, after his rescue, said:

"I didn't have time to think. I just grabbed. I looked down and saw Crumm falling. I only had to hang on a few minutes, but it seemed hours."

MRS. PINCHOT SHIES AT STEEL WORKERS' FACTIONAL ROW

MILITANT LABOR TO LEAD U. S., SHE SAYS

Governor's Wife Here For Talk at Union Convention

Disciplined, militant forces of labor will lead America forward, but both men and leaders must keep their vision firmly on the ultimate goals to be won, Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor, declared here today.

Arriving here for three addresses in the district, two of them before steel workers, Mrs. Pinchot urged the labor leaders to "look forward and adopt progressive policies."

But her advice, she said, had no reference to the inter-factional fight between the old conservative leaders and the younger, more liberal elements of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers in annual convention here.

TO ADDRESS DELEGATES

Mrs. Pinchot's main address in the district will be before the 200 delegates to the convention, which is being held in Elks' auditorium, Seventh street and Duquesne way. She will speak at 7:30 o'clock tonight in a session open to the public. Later she will address a gathering of steel workers at Hazelwood.

At 5:30 p. m., she will give a political address at Latrobe.

United States Senator James J. Davis addressed the steel convention yesterday and sharply denied that he "had played ball with company union representatives" from Gary, Ind.

A handful of delegates, including several who had attempted to bar Davis from speaking, walked out of the hall and did not return until Davis had finished his hour and a half talk.

HITS COMPANY UNIONS

Hammering with his fist on a table on the platform, he shouted that company-dominated unions were "nothing but a sham." Emphasizing his own connection with the Amalgamated Union of Steel Workers from the days when he himself was a "steel puddler," he added:

"I am in favor of collective bargaining and workers must be entirely free to select whomever they wish to represent them. I want you to understand that, because my real opinions apparently didn't sink into the minds of some men."

DEFENDS VISIT

Defending his visit to a steel plant in Gary, the Senator said he had a "perfect right to go anywhere he minded at any time." He explained that his time was so limited he had no opportunity to visit either the local headquarters of the Loyal Order of Moose or the local headquarters of the Amalgamated Union there.

His failure to pay respects to the local union, he asserted, was only because of lack of time and not that he was "playing ball with company union men."

He added:

"This union, of which I have been a member since I was 16, taught me to be a free man. I was brought up under union leaders who taught me to be fair and square.

"I know that these new strip mills will replace the old plate and steel workers, and I went there to see the new machinery.

"How could I talk to you or to my colleagues in Washington if I didn't go out and get this information?"

BADGE OF CONFIDENCE

His talk occurred at the end of a closely fought, all-day struggle between the delegates over one of the oldest of the convention rules.

International President M. F. Tighe today denied there was any "differences" between the old conservative element in the union and the younger lodges.

HARDING EXPOSE PLAN REVEALED

SEATTLE, April 19.—(AP.)—Col. Charles Forbes, veterans' bureau administrator in the Harding administration, is declared by his wife to have deserted her seven or eight years ago.

Mrs. Kate M. Forbes, a cripple, made the disclosure in testifying yesterday in the grand larceny trial of James Ashe, literary agent. Walking to the witness stand on crutches, Mrs. Forbes told how she nearly entrusted the manuscript for a book, including "hitherto unrevealed secrets of the Harding administration," to Ashe.

She said she had not heard for several years from Forbes, who resigned under fire and served a two-year term in Leavenworth Penitentiary for defrauding the government.

Mrs. Forbes testified Ashe had called on her at her home, urging her to write all she knew of the Harding regime under the book title "An Administration Wife."

BRIDGE BILLS ADVANCED

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Action by the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce yesterday in reporting the Kelly bridge bills paves the way for the work of the Allegheny County Authority.

The bills introduced by Representative Clyde Kelly authorized construction of six bridges in the county, four across the Monongahela and one each across the Allegheny and Youghiogheny rivers.

Representative Kelly said:

"The bills will be placed on the House calendar and their passage is expected on Monday, April 30."

Turner Appointment Sent to Senate

The appointment of William M. Turner as postmaster at Pittsburgh was sent to the United States Senate by President Roosevelt for confirmation yesterday, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington.

The President also sent two other Pennsylvania nominations to the Senate. Harry W. McArthur as postmaster of Conneaut Lake Park and James W. Hatch of North Girard.

AUTO INDUSTRY GAINS TOLD

Pittsburgh can do most to fortify its position as the principal source of materials for the automobile industry by making full use of its great laboratories and technical schools, Charles E. Wilson, vice president of General Motors Corporation, declared today at a joint luncheon of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

In reviewing the position of the automobile trade he said that General Motors is employing 10,000 more workers than at the height of 1929 prosperity and that the industry as a whole is employing fully as many workers as in 1929.

VOTE ON FUND IN MT. LEBANON

Mt. Lebanon Township voters today went to the polls in a special election to ballot on the proposal to issue $90,000 in bonds for improvements.

The plan calls for the Public Works Administration to buy the bonds and for the township to repay the government in 30 yearly installments.

In addition, the government is to grant the township $29,000 to aid in carrying out the program.

Troops Disperse Marching Miners

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 19.—(AP.)—A new march on the Edgewater mine of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company by several hundred striking miners today was checked by a company of Alabama National Guards and quiet was preserved throughout the district.

Sheriff J. F. Hawkins was at the scene with a picked squad of deputies and reported that the men dispersed when challenged at a bridge leading to the company's property.

EARLE ON TOUR OF DISTRICT

Advocating stricter control of public utilities, George H. Earle, candidate for Democratic nomination for Governor, was speaking in the Pittsburgh district today.

Arriving here this morning, Earle planned to talk in Washington at noon, and later in Waynesburg, Donora, Monongahela and Charleroi. With him are Joseph F. Guffey, candidate for United States Senate; Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers and candidate for Lieutenant Governor, and Thomas A. Logue, candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Earle pledged himself to the enactment of a public service law giving the maximum protection to consumer and investor.

Earle will return to Philadelphia tonight to establish Guffey-Earle headquarters. He expects to be in Pittsburgh again early next week.

TAX MEN TO O. K. CANDIDATES

Sixty-three counties will be represented at a meeting of the executive committee of the Affiliated Tax Leagues of Pennsylvania at State College tomorrow.

I. Leonard Aronson, president of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League, and C. V. Shoup, league executive director, will represent Allegheny County taxpayers. H. L. Shank, president of the Tax Justice League of Pennsylvania, will preside.

Plans will be made at the meeting regarding indorsements for candidates seeking state-wide offices.

Talbot in Pittsburgh Opens Headquarters

Shaping up his campaign for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, Grover C. Talbot, of Delaware County, Speaker of the State House of Representatives, today opened headquarters in the Pittsburgher Hotel.

Speaker Talbot will remain in Pittsburgh, conferring with Republican leaders in Allegheny and surrounding counties.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Scrapping of the permanent labor board bill of Senator Robert Wagner (Dem.), of New York, chairman of the National Labor Board, and the substitution of a measure creating a giant conciliation board as a "court of appeals" for all industrial labor disputes, was proposed to President Roosevelt today.

This body, it appears, is to be a super-conciliation board, which is to place Johnson and the National Recovery Administration in complete control of the entire recovery program and will place Senator Wagner and his National Labor Board in complete eclipse.

Sitting with the President in an attempt to build a permanent system of arbitration of labor difficulties were Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, Senator Wagner, Donald Richberg, counsel for the NRA, and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

The proposed legislation which is expected to supersede the bill recently introduced by Wagner, is expected to abolish the whole National Labor Board setup, with its state and regional boards, and place under the jurisdiction of the super-conciliation board all labor controversies not settled by the various trade conciliation boards which Johnson expects to set up.

The recovery administration already is operating under the assurance that the National Labor Board is to be scrapped, following the President's establishment of the national automobile conciliation board.

Two weeks ago the recovery administrator announced it was his intention to place each industry under a board, chosen from within the industry, to decide all cases concerning labor as well as trade practices. Its decisions, Johnson announced, would be subject to final action by a supervising body to be created under the proposed bill.

CITES CANNON'S SILENCE PLEDGE

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP.)—A witness at the trial of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., quoted the churchman today as saying at a conference in Richmond:

"I'll go to jail before I divulge names of persons to whom money was given in the 1928 anti-Smith campaign."

Frank Dunford, a Richmond packer, said the conference was attended by Miss Ada L. Burroughs, who is on trial with the churchman on a charge of conspiring to violate the corrupt practices act by not reporting all of a campaign contribution.

The witness said at Cannon's request he made at that time a "pencil memorandum" of disbursements in all the 10 Congressional districts of Virginia except the Fourth, on which he said he had incomplete data.

Asked by John J. Wilson, government prosecutor, if it was not agreed "that none of you would tell what mney was spent as a matter of honor," the witness replied:

"Bishop Cannon said: 'I do not intend to furnish the names of parties to whom funds were given in the Virginia campaign and I'll go to jail before I divulge them'."

50 Go on Strike At Apollo Plant

APOLLO, Pa., April 19.—About 50 employes of the Pittsburgh Steel Drum Company went on strike today. A. E. Jesser, superintendent, said the men are asking a 40 per cent wage increase and union recognition.

He declared the company has offered them a 5 per cent increase to start May 1 and another 5 per cent increase, to start July 1.

Frederick Backs Kaufman in Race

Dr. F. H. Frederick, North Side political leader, has indorsed the candidacy of David E. Kaufman for Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor. Frederick, campaign manager for the late Mayor Charles H. Kline in 1929, said of Kaufman:

"His ability as a lawyer and his service as minister to Bolivia and Siam should commend his candidacy to every Republican voter."

Congressman Brooks Opens Headquarters

Congressman J. Twing Brooks, up for renomination, has announced the opening of headquarters at 400 Federal street. A meeting will be held there tomorrow evening. James Murtha, chairman of the North Side Democratic organization, is in charge of the campaign.

Eberharter Speaker At 15th Ward Meet

Herman P. Eberharter, legislative candidate in the Third district, will speak at a gathering of the Fifteenth Ward Non-Factional Government Group in the Greenfield school tomorrow night. Mrs. Viola E. Worral is chairman.

PINCHOT AIDES HERE BALK AT SCHNADER

Mellon 'Tag' Resented As Attorney General Bids for Support

didacy, while his Mellon affiliations urge him toward Schnader. Veterans backing Gen. Shannon were today expressing displeasure at the attitude of Martin, whom they blamed for so muddling the Republican political waters as to endanger their leader.

Before he leaves the Attorney General will designate a campaign chairman for Allegheny County, and arrangements will be made for the opening of headquarters. Next week Schnader expects to swing back into Western Pennsylvania counties for a campaign tour.

Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor, who is a candidate for the United States Senatorial nomination, also was in the Pittsburgh district today, and was understood to be friendly to the Schnader candidacy, despite the fact that the same organization chiefs who approve the Attorney General are battling for Senator David A. Reed against her husband.

SEES JUDGE SMITH

Judge Ralph H. Smith, recognized Pinchot leader here, under whose auspices Pinchot headquarters were opened today in the Law and Finance building, was one of those with whom Schnader talked. Neither would reveal the results of the conference, but from another source it was learned that the judge does not favor the Schnader candidacy.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, long active in Pinchot campaigns, is another independent who is opposed to Schnader.

Neither has indicated support for a rival candidate, but Shannon workers are seeking the aid of both.

Schnader today denied that he was affiliated with any slate of candidates, and declared his candidacy was not inimical to the Governor, despite the tie-up of his organization backers with Reed.

The rabid Pinchot followers, interested first in having the Governor nominated as a senatorial candidate, declared the Schnader set-up could not but prove a danger to Pinchot. Reed is known to have been consulted by former Senator Joseph R. Grundy before indorsement of Schnader was decreed by the organization chiefs.

COYNE INVOLVED

State Senator Harry B. Scott, as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor, is unquestionably teamed with Schnader in the primary campaign. Support for Scott won to Schnader Auditor General Frank Baldwin, who hitherto has been lukewarm to the candidacy of the Attorney General.

Baldwin's adherence to the Schnader banner brings in State Senator James J. Coyne, who through Baldwin is given control of patronage in the inheritance tax division of the Register of Wills office in Allegheny County.

No agreement has been reached by the organization on a candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs. There is a division between Philip Dewey, incumbent, and M. Harvey Taylor, Dauphin County, who is not acceptable to the Philadelphia organization led by William S. Vare.

No formal indorsement of Schnader will be made either by Grundy, Vare or W. L. Mellon, the political representative of the Pittsburgh banking family. Within the next few days, however, lieutenants of these leaders will make individual announcement of their support. In Philadelphia it is planned to have the ward leaders individually declare for the Attorney General, a plan designed to win the independent leaders without the appearance that they have been whipped into line by Vare.

Grundy is given credit for having engineered the agreement for Schnader. Baldwin was the most reluctant to go alone, but eventually capitulated. Martin, torn between his alliances, declared he couldn't tell where he stood, but affairs proceeded without considering him.

WITHDRAWALS DUE

A part of the agreement is understood to call for the withdrawal of two or three other candidates within the next few days. Among them will be Judge Robert E. Lamberton, of Philadelphia, who for a time was the favorite of the same group which now has swung to Schnader.

Slating of Scott with Schnader gave rise to reports that David E. Kaufman, of Towanda, who has been active in Pittsburgh this week, might eventually be designated by the Shannon group as its preference for lieutenant governor. Some Pittsburghers today discussed a rival ticket which would comprise Shannon, Pinchot and Kaufman, the ill feeling of many Shannon backers toward Reed having been intensified by the Mellon support for Schnader.

night visited former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips in Butler, today said he had made no commitment to Phillips, also a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

TIPTOES IN FEAR IT'S DREAM

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Gertrude Musier, 19-year-old girl, was blind for 15 years and now sees.

Her happiness is perfect—well, almost perfect.

"How can I be perfectly happy when all my blind friends still are blind?"

"I feel ashamed, somehow, before them—me with my sight restored and they still in darkness. If only I could share my sight with them!"

Miss Musier lost her sight as a result of infantile paralysis at the age of four. She learned to knit, play the piano and operate a typewriter. She attended the New York Institute for the Blind at Pelham, N. Y., and was graduated from there last June.

Then, last summer, the miracle began to happen. Black darkness turned to gray. Slowly she began to distinguish large objects and blurred faces. She didn't understand what was happening to her. And now, at last, she can really see. Like a little child, she is learning to read. Next she wants to play tennis.

She has always been interested in sports — Jack Dempsey and Babe Ruth are her heroes. She saw her first major league baseball game at the Polo Grounds yesterday.

Sometimes when she is alone, she says, she "feels like tiptoeing so as not to disturb the miracle."

And in the middle of the night she likes to switch on the light to prove to herself that it is not a dream.

Girl Regains Speech After Twenty Years

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 19.—(AP.)—Restoration of audible speech to a young Philipsburg woman who for the first 20 years of her life had been able to speak only in tones approaching a low "stage whisper," was described last night by Herbert Koepp-Baker, speech clinician of Pennsylvania State College.

NO AX TO GRIND, SHANNON SAYS; STAYS IN RACE

General Lists Planks Of Platform in Airing Views

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, April 19.—Declaring himself a liberal and open-minded public servant with no axes to grind, enemies to punish or friends to serve, Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon today announced his platform in the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Like the one announced by Gov. Gifford Pinchot in the Republican senatorial campaign, Shannon's platform was comprised of 13 planks. Shannon said:

"As a candidate for Governor, I stand for:

"Preservation of law and order. Racketeering, banditry and the gunman must go.

"Betterment of relations between employers and employes. My record of 37 years as an employer of labor without a strike or a walkout speaks for itself.

HARMONY STRESSED

"Parliamentary government. The executive and legislative branches of the government must work together. This will result in enormous saving to the taxpayers.

"A strict accountability of all governmental officials.

"Real economy and efficiency in government. The cost of government must come down.

"Equalization of taxes. Real estate taxes must be lowered.

"Local government is self government. It should control the cost of its administration and the salaries of its officials.

"Honest, scientific and economical property assessment and tax collection.

BACKER OF SCHOOLS

"I am a product of the public school system of Pennsylvania, and am sincerely interested in the promotion of the educational welfare of the children and every proper encouragement of the teachers of the commonwealth.

"Modernization of the penal systems and prisons of the state. I propose to find out what is wrong with this system and to apply common sense to an effective solution.

'The highways of the commonwealth should be constructed and maintained by the motor vehicle funds and contributions made from these funds to municipalities for road maintenance and improvement. I am opposed to the use of these funds for other purposes. I believe the cost to the motorist should be lowered."

SAFETY MEET HEARS EXPERT

A 14 per cent increase in traffic accidents during the first quarter of 1934 may or may not be partly due to the free flow of liquor, W. H. Cameron, managing director, National Safety Council, said here today.

He speaks tonigh' at Pittsburgh's eleventh annual safety conference and exhibit in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Cameron points out that many other factors besides repeal must be taken into consideration, including the severity of the winter, and the increase in traffic due to better business.

Dr. R. R. Sayers, who heads the industrial health and sanitation division, Bureau of Public Health Service, was the principal speaker this afternoon. He discussed poisonous substances used in industries and their relation to safety.

Relief Work Jobs Again Face Halt

A new order from Harrisburg requiring complete data on the number of men needed and the money estimated to complete each Relief Works Division program today threatened a complete shutdown of all RWD work in Allegheny County. Job supervisors were undecided how long it would require them to obtain this information for Harrisburg officials.

More than 400 projects have been forwarded to Harrisburg for approval under the RWD regulations, Philip H. Lantz, deputy administrator, said.

Rival Air Mail Lobby Called 'Pest' at Probe

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Lobbyists urging cancellation of air mail contracts descended on the Postoffice Department "like a cloud of grasshoppers" when the Roosevelt administration came into power, the Senate air mail investigating committee was told today.

The witness was W. W. Howes, first Assistant Postmaster General and formerly in charge of air mail.

To questions by Senator Austin, Republican of Vermont, conducting the Republican minority examination, Howes asked:

"Do you mean did the lobbyists and people wanting cancellation, and people complaining, come to see me?"

Austin said:

"Yes."

"Why they came like a cloud of grasshoppers, and they were just as much of pests. I couldn't keep them away."

Trolley Operators Win 16c Pay Rise

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 19.—Street car operators in East Liverpool and Steubenville, O., and Newell, W. Va., were granted a 16 per cent wage increase today, effective May 1, under an agreement between the union and the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction and the Newell Bridge and Street Railway companies.

7,000,000 to Lack Jobs, Students Told

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—(AP.)—Prof. A. A. Berle, former advisor to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, says the United States will have 7,000,000 unemployed when recovery reaches the 1927 level and "fireworks" may result. He addressed University of Pennsylvania students yesterday.

Lexington's New Shot Heard in Congress

LEXINGTON, Mass., April 19.—(AP.)—From Lexington, where "the shot that was heard around the world" was fired 159 years ago, another shot was fired today—this time at Congress.

A protest, signed by more than 1,200 citizens of Lexington and addressed to Massachusetts members of Congress, was carried to Washington, criticizing, among other things:

"Federal interference in business under the guise of promoting social reform and economic recovery . . .

"Indefinite extension of legislation originally designed solely for emergency purposes . . . and

"Passage of legislation without more careful consideration by Congress."

A reading of the petition also was part of the exercises on the Battle Green in observance of the 159th anniversary of the skirmish April 19, 1775, between the Minute Men and the British.

Drawn in the form used by Lexington citizens in Colonial days, to protest to provincial and state authorities, the "declaration" concluded:

"We are resolved that the individual's rights of private enterprise and its rewards must continue, free from unreasonable interference by the federal government, and we demand their preservation at your hands."

BRIDE WAVERS IN LOYALTY TO BOYS ACCUSED OF MURDER

NORMA MILLEN ACTS TO SAVE HERSELF

Murt and Irving Cool Toward Girl and Abe Faber

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

DEDHAM, Mass., April 19.—The quadrangle of the three musketeers and their grand lady seems to be falling apart today.

The Millen brothers — Murton and Irving—were thinking bitter thoughts as they paced their cells during a lull in their murder trial. Abe Faber, honor graduate of M. I. T., also is a defendant.

The selection of the jury which will decide whether they live or die for the alleged murder of two policemen during a bank robbery was put over until tomorrow because of Patriots' Day, a legal holiday throughout the Bay State.

GIRL WEAKENING

The adamant loyalty of lovely 19-year-old Norma, five-month bride of Murton, was weakening.

Norma, under the constant pleading of her father, the Rev. Norman Brighton and the pressure of captivity, has dropped her melodrama.

Since she was arrested on the charge of being an accessory after the fact in connection with the robbery and murder, she has reiterated steadfastly that she would "stick with Murt."

But much sunlight has cast hungry shadows through the bars of her lonely cell. And now she has decided to move to save her own skin.

She finally gave acquiescence to a legal move to quash the indictments against her The motions to abate and dismiss the indictments were filed in Superior Court by George Douglas, her attorney.

TREACHERY CHARGED

Murton Millen, who has been buoyed up in his ordeal by the feeling that Norma was supporting him, views this move of his bride as rank treachery.

He ignored her affectionate salutation as he passed her in the jail rotunda when taken back from the court session. Norma threw him a kiss from her fingertips.

Murton did not even smile at the girl he used to call "Kitten."

There was also an obvious coolness growing between the Millen brothers and Abe Faber.

The trio, in their iron-bound cage in the courtroom, are involuntarily shackled together. But not once during their last sojourn in the courtroom have either of the brothers spoken to Faber.

DOCTOR ADMITS RICH WIFE PAID HOME COSTS

Large Checks Offered As McCready Will Suit Evidence

The high cost of living rested lightly on the shoulders of Dr. R. J. McCready, Allegheny County's oldest practicing physician, he admitted today in Common Pleas Court, where he is suing for a larger slice of his late wife's $1,500,000 estate.

Under cross-examination, Dr. McCready admitted his wife, Mrs. Matilda Craig McCready, had paid all household and other expenses from the day of their marriage in 1924.

Checks payable to Dr. McCready totaling $78,300 were offered in evidence. Dr. McCready admitted that $18,300 of this amount was received shortly before their marriage.

ANTIQUES PURCHASED

He declared that he had spent some of the money on Mrs. McCready, pointing out that she would often ask him to buy antiques while they were on a European trip.

He declared that a Mediterranean voyage which they made had cost $7,200.

So numerous were the checks that Mrs. McCready gave the aged doctor that he became confused in recalling the reasons for what they were drawn, he admitted.

He said that two checks totaling $5,468 had been used by him to pay off two notes.

MONEY FOR WEDDING

A check for $1,000, given him the day before his marriage, was for "spending" money on a wedding trip to Arizona and not for professional services as he had previously testified, he revealed from the stand.

Dr. McCready's claim for $5,000 against the estate of Edwin S. Craig, a brother of Matilda, who died in 1924, was cut by the courts to $2,250, but Miss Craig made up the difference with a check for $2,750, the doctor testified.

Asked if he expected payment for medical services even after his marriage, Dr. McCready replied from the stand:

"Not necessarily."

WANTS MORE MONEY

So Dr. McCready — an octogenerian — maintains Mrs. McCready should have left him more than the $12,000 annuity she thought sufficient.

He signed a pre-nuptial agreement which would prevent him from contesting the will; now he wants to abrogate the agreement because Mrs. McCready didn't tell him all about her resources.

The doctor wants a half interest in the estate to which he'd be entitled if he'd signed no agreement.

Mrs. McCready left most of her money to charity.

PITTSBURGHER REJECTED IN DEATH TEST

Young Doctor Fears Murder Charge by Experiment

International News Service.

BERKELEY, Cal., April 19.—Dr. Robert Cornish, brilliant young University of California scientist, today explained his reasons for rejecting the offers of six persons who asked to become "human guinea-pigs" in his partly successful "life-restoring machine."

The six applicants — five men and a woman—declared they were willing to be put to death so Dr. Cornish could bring them "back to life" with his weird devices. Among them was a 21-year-old Pittsburgh youth.

Dr. Cornish said:

"It would be impossible to accept the offers. The laws of California prevent my accepting. If I accepted, my associates and myself would be hanged.

"To start the experiment it is necessary to put the patient or subject to death. To do this to a human being would be murder. Even if the experiment was successful, it would still be a case of technical murder."

Although denied "human guinea-pigs," Dr. Cornish continued experimentation with dogs. A canine, put to death last Friday and brought back to life by the Cornish method was still alive today, setting a new "second life" record. In two previous cases, dogs had been brought back to life for five minutes and twelve minutes, respectively. Dr. Cornish asserted:

"The animal is still conscious. But I doubt whether it will survive. The animal is breathing very hard and may wear its heart out."

Mob Boiled for Her

MISS GEORGIA LINDLEY, 22 . . . REVENGE SOUGHT FOR HER

Miss Lindley, Colorado College girl whose story of how she and James L. O'Brien had been waylaid on their way home from a dance brought out a Colorado Springs mob that was twice dispersed by police protecting a Negro prisoner. O'Brien was beaten unconscious, the girl seriously injured, stripped of her clothing, they told police. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

SATAN'S VISIT PREDICTED BY VOLIVA

Zion Religious Leader Opens Schools, Calls Foes 'Yellow Curs'

ZION, Ill., April 19.—(AP.)—Wilbur Glenn Voliva allowed his Parochial High School and College to reopen today and announced at the same time that he planned an intense campaign to inform the public that control of the world by Satan is imminent.

The religious colony overseer said reopening the schools was not a concession to his opponents, but rather to allow students to obtain their diplomas. The grade school connected with the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church remained closed.

Voliva indicated he hoped by a tour of the country to raise sufficient funds to free Zion Industries, Inc., once a $10,000,000 corporation handling all of Zion's commercial enterprises, from receivership.

In making a prediction that Christianity would disappear from the earth beginning next September, Voliva quoted from chapter 16 of the Book of Revelation in the Bible, regarding Armageddon. Voliva said:

"I predict the anti-Christ period forecast in the Bible will start within a few months. The period will end with the end of the world. The populace must be warned."

Volvia said his opponents in the battle over Zion's schools were not able to "put up a good fight." He referred to them as "yellow cur dogs with their tails cut off, and blind in both eyes," adding:

"They couldn't make enough trouble to make a mosquito jump three feet."

BENNETT'S WIFE IN HOSPITAL

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Richard Bennett underwent a plastic surgery treatment a few hours after withdrawal of her battery complaint against her actor-husband, it was learned today.

Taken to a Los Angeles hospital late yesterday, she was operated upon last night. The exact nature of the treatment was not disclosed.

Discharge of the complaint, filing of which last week-end climaxed the Bennetts' marital difficulties, followed a conference between Mrs. Bennett and her parents.

Efforts to reach an amicable settlement between the pair were carried on today by their attorneys. Milton Cohen, for Mrs. Bennett, said that if the conference failed his client would sue for separate maintenance or divorce.

GIRL SPANKING LAID TO PRANK

TOPEKA, Kan., April 19.—(AP.)—Four of 10 girls from whom Miss Georgia Hill seeks $25,000 damages for a spanking testified today that the episode was "a high school prank." They said there was no malice in the hazing.

Miss Hill, who lives in Silvis, Ill., testified earlier that she was beaten severely and "hurt dreadfully" by her former schoolmates at Goodlawn, Kan. An examination the next day, she said, disclosed a misplaced kidney.

PASTOR'S PLEA FREES YOUTH

The Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, was appointed parole officer today by Magistrate J. W. McGowan of a young man who, police say, attempted to steal Dr. Shelton's automobile.

The paroled man, John McMullen, of Tokio street, Brushton, was arrested last night after Carl Yeager, Kennedy avenue, North Side, discovered him entering Dr. Shelton's car, which was parked near the church, according to testimony given in Central Police Court today.

Dr. Shelton asked McGowan to discharge McMullen with the understanding that McMullen would report to him every Sunday evening for six months.

EDITORIAL MEN FORMING GUILD

Pittsburgh newspapermen, now organizing a guild, today announced officers would be elected at a meeting to be held by April 27. Thus far 100 charter members have joined.

Editorial workers on newspapers and news service employes are eligible. Employes of each paper will elect three representatives to an executive council before next Tuesday. Each news service will have a representative.

A temporary constitution, effective until July 31, has been adopted.

The way is open for the new organization to be affiliated with the American Newspaper Guild which has chapters in 60 cities.

TROTZKY GOING TO SPAIN

PARIS, April 19.—(AP.)—Leon Trotzky, the man no country seems to want, was served today with a formal notice that he was being expelled from France for his revolutionary activities.

A village constable was refused entrance to the Bolshevik's cottage near Barbizon, 35 miles from Paris, but two gendarmes entered the exile's refuge and handed him the document which tells him to get out.

Trotzky's departure for Spain appeared imminent with the appointment of Inspector Vilchien to accompany him to the frontier.

In order to avoid a demonstration, the exact time of the exile's departure was kept secret, but it probably will be tonight or early tomorrow morning.

Youth Held in N. Y. Extortion Ring Plot

NEW YORK, April 19.—(INS.)—A youth arrested in connection with an extortion plot involving Mrs. Barron Collier, Jr., was believed by police today to be a member of a ring of blackmailers who have been terrorizing wealthy persons in all parts of the city. The prisoner is described as Frederick Potter, 18, of New York.

The police trapped him in an uptown telephone booth from which he is alleged to have made calls to Mrs. Collier demanding $200.

WALL SLAYING QUIZ HOLDS 5

A charge of murder was placed against John Arendas, 22, of Wall, by the Coroner today and he was recommitted to the County Jail pending an inquest into the slaying of Constable Martin Pluter.

Paul Harden, 22, of Wall, was ordered held by the Coroner on a charge of being an accessory in the shooting of Pluter, and three other youths were ordered held as material witnesses.

New Official Named By Presbyterians

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—(AP.)—The Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church has elected the Rev. Dr. Harold McA. Robinson as general secretary.

Dr. Robinson, the present administrative secretary, will succeed Dr. William Chalmers Covert, who retires in October on account of age.

'POLICE' SEIZE BUS RIDER

The young man who stepped off an inter-state bus into the arms of four armed men in Mt. Lebanon was among the missing today, so far as the police were concerned.

The bus was en route to downtown Pittsburgh from Indianapolis. A representative of the Greyhound line said the young passenger had asked to get off in Mt. Lebanon.

As he stepped from the bus, the four men, one of them displaying a revolver, flashed fake or genuine police badges and prepared to drive off with him in their automobile.

But city, county and state police today said they knew nothing of the incident, that the four men were strangers.

And another passenger, a woman, said the young man had told her he was returning to Pittsburgh to "settle up some trouble."

Stolen Doctor's Kit Hunted in Sewer

Police may empty a sewer in Seventh avenue, near Grant street today in a search for a medicine kit reported stolen from the automobile of Dr. Samuel Perrin, of 401 Butler street while it was parked nearby. Four empty medicine bottles were found near the sewer.

WIDOW SHARES COW'S STALL

CHARLEROI, Pa., April 19.—Mrs. Annie Sedor, 75, a widow, preferred sleeping beside a cow in a stable to living in comfortable quarters at the Washington County Home, County Relief Investigator John Ferry disclosed today.

The aged woman disappeared from the County Home five months ago, Ferry said. Unnoticed until recently she had made her home in one room above a cow stable owned by Nick Chupasko, unemployed coal miner with seven children, near here.

Wrapped in old blankets, she lay in straw beside the cow on cold nights. She told Ferry.

"The cow was so warm. It saved me from freezing."

The aged woman pleaded not to be taken back to the County Home. It is "too big," she complained. Mrs. Chupasko offered to take her in but she refused.

Weather Conditions.

A disturbance, central north of the lakes (Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., 29.64) extends southeastward in a trough to the Middle Appalachians and thence southwestward to the West Gulf, while high pressure, central over Northern Wyoming (Sheridan, 30.54), overlies the plains and Northern Rocky Mountains. Showers have occurred in the Upper Mississippi Valley, the lake region, the Upper Ohio Valley, the Central and Southern Appalachians and the Gulf states. It is raining in Tennessee and Texas, and snowing in North Dakota this morning. It is somewhat warmer in the lower lakes, the Upper Ohio Valley and the plateau district and colder over the plains and the Northern Rocky Mountains.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 4.4 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 12.4; Pittsburgh, 13.8; Dam No. 4, 10.0; No. 6, 13.5; No. 10, 12.2, and No. 12, 13.5. The dams are down. The rivers will continue to fall.

Circus Engagement Of Stone Boy Denied

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 19.—(INS.)—Reports that Benny Hendricks, 9-year-old Larksville boy, whose body is slowly being ossified, would tour the country with a circus for $200 weekly, were denied today.

Members of his family said the "stone boy" will remain at home, where treatment of the rare malady has been abandoned.

WORK CONVICTS IN HARNESS

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., April 19.—(AP.)—Convicts did the work of mules today, tugging at the traces of cotton planters in the fields of the Arkansas penal farm.

The use of the convicts was made necessary by a shortage of mules and a late start in planting because of excessive rains, Supt. A. G. Stedman explained. He said:

"We are confronted with the task of getting the crops in right away. The men are not being given harsh treatment, and have no objection to the work. As a matter of fact, they are not doing any more work than they would do otherwise."

Every available mule on the farm also is being used, he said, but there are not enough.

Six "teams" of six men each, guided by a seventh man, draw the planter, which weighs less than 100 pounds and penetrates the pulverized seed bed only an inch.

ROBIN RESCUED FROM CHIMNEY

Somewhere in the South Hills today a robin is winging his way through the spring air, free and unharmed after a two-day solitary confinement.

Forty-eight hours after the bird had become trapped in the chimney of Miss Agnes Reising's home, at 757 Woodbourne avenue, Miss Reising decided it was time to go to the rescue and had a neighbor remove her fire-place.

Out fluttered a feather creature that at first looked like a raven. But after a ducking in a bowl of water, the red breast showed through the soot and the prisoner's identity was established.

After a light lunch of bread crumbs the robin was released and immediately flew away to catch up on the business of telling the world that spring is here.

Denies Helen's 'Booping' Inspired 'Betty' Flicker

NEW YORK, April 19.—(AP.)—His own imagination, not Helen Kane, was responsible for the creation of that pen-and-ink character known as "Betty Boop," Max Fleischer, artist, testified today.

Miss Kane, whose contribution to music is her "boop-oop-a-doop" style of singing, is seeking $250,000 damages from Fleischer, the Fleischer Studios and Paramount Publix Corporation on the ground the Betty Boop movies are based on her inimitable song technique and personality.

Cross-examined by Samuel R. Weltz, counsel for Miss Kane, Fleischer told of seeing the plaintiff at an entertainment given by the Paramount company in 1928. That was two years before "Betty Boop" made her debut. Miss Kane sang at the party, the cartoonist said, and received great applause.

Weltz asked:

"When you saw Miss Kane in 1928, did you look at her nonchalantly or studiously?"

Defense counsel objected to that and Justice McGoldrick sustained the objection.

Murderer of Two Turns Gun on Self

ST. LOUIS, April 19.—(AP.)—George Brown today shot and killed his divorced wife, Mrs. Genevieve Brown, her employer, Christian Hasenpflug, Jr., then probably fatally shot himself.

A note in the slayer's pocket said he had sued Hasenpflug for alleged alienation of Mrs Brown's affections, and was dissatisfied with efforts of his attorneys to settle the suit.

Petting Charge Against Former 'Miss America'

PAWHUSKA, Okla., April 19.—(AP.)—Testimony that Mrs. Norma Smallwood Gilcrease was seen "petting" with another man while her husband was out of town has been introduced in the divorce action of Thomas Gilcrease, wealthy oil man, against the 1926 Atlantic City beauty contest winner.

F. L. Myers, Tulsa locksmith, said that while on a business trip to the Gilcrease country home, near Tulsa, he saw Mrs. Gilcrease and a man he could not identify "petting" in the parlor. Mrs. Gilcrease jumped to her feet and closed the portieres, Myers said.

Norman Gilcrease, a nephew of the oil man, said he saw his aunt sitting on the floor at the home while a man he said he "thought" was Charlton Genet, of Tulsa, lay with his head in her lap. Kenneth Heywood, a builder, testified Genet went often into a studio he had constructed for Mrs. Gilcrease.

Connie Gilcrease, a brother, testified he often had seen Mrs. Gilcrease and Genet, son of a pioneer Tulsa businessman, go into the studio, draw the curtains, and remain there until midnight.

Gilcrease, who has spent much of the last five years abroad, alleged infidelity in his petition. Mrs. Gilcrease has filed a cross-petition.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

'Gold Dust Twins' Coming Home to Wall Street

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Everything is going to be all right now. Ben Smith and Tom Bragg are coming home.

That may not mean much to an outsider, but the boys in Wall street will catch on.

Messrs. Smith and Bragg left the country at an opportune moment about two months ago. When the Senate stock market investigators started looking for them, they had just set sail for Honolulu, or Australia; no one knows which. They were beyond the reach of a subpena which would have required them to testify about certain adventures they had in aviation stocks.

They also are selecting an opportune moment for their return. The stock market investigation is over. Only a few days after that news got out they notified friends confidentially that they would be back in New York early in May.

UPS AND DOWNS

When these boys get back to Wall street, there will be something doing. They are the most ferocious of all the bulls and bears. Their comrades in margins call them "Peck's Bad Boys" and "The Gold Dust Twins." They won the latter title by betting right when we went off the gold standard. At least, they received inner acclaim for having bet right, although no one ever knows exactly where they stand, or even where they are.

They bob up in more unexpected places than Mrs. Roosevelt. They managed somehow to get on the inaugural train from New York to Washington. They even managed to get a business appointment at the White House executive offices on one occasion. They carry an air of knowing at least a few of the right people.

The only trouble about their return is that no one can tell whether the market will go up or down. They have worked both sides of the Street with equal success.

HEAT

A slick scheme for boiling down the veterans' lists by publicity heat is under serious consideration by those here with authority to carry out their ideas.

They would post the name of every veteran on the rolls in the post office of the city in which he resides. The amount received by each veteran and the reasons therefore would be posted alongside his name.

In that way, each community would be able to judge for itself whether its veterans were legitimately entitled to their disability and presumptive allowances.

Sponsors of the plan believe it would result in 15 to 25 per cent of voluntary withdrawals from the rolls.

MARINES

The plan probably would be put into operation in a minute if it were not for Congress.

Just now, the administration is trying to quiet down the wild horses on the hill. It does not want to do anything which could be considered a direct affront after the overriding of the President's veto on veterans' restorations.

There is no real basis for objection to the scheme however, and it undoubtedly will be put either after Congress goes home or after the next elections.

As matters now stand, the Veterans' Administration keeps its rolls to itself. It will answer specific inquiries as to whether a certain person is on the rolls, but it does not like to.

UNDERSTANDING

The President's "tough guy" speech to Congress and all the current bickering about taxes, silver, etc., make it appear that the White House and Congress are at swords' points.

That is true only on the surface.

On the inside, the White House and the Congressmen are going to great lengths to keep from fighting each other. The Congressional leaders have been permitted to understand on the Q. T. that President Roosevelt will do everything he can to help Democratic congressmen get re-elected. He actually has planned to make a statement at the end of the session congratulating Congress on its work.

There has been some suggestion that he issue a public appeal before next November for election of a Democratic Congress. He probably will not go that far, not because of any personal feeling but because past experience proves that Presidents always get in bad when they try to influence congressional elections.

NOTES

Congressman Blanton's rantings against the press do not mean anything. He has two buttons off his vest and has had for a long time . . . Newsmen got the lists of House signatures on discharge petitions from a couple of congressmen who went so far as to have copies made, segregating the signers by states. Blanton's attack on the newsmen was repudiated by other members of the House who realized they had no right to conceal their signatures . . . Reporters have various ways of getting stories. One day, recently, a newsman, with better than average eyes, stood in the press gallery 10 feet above Vice President Garner and read a note Garner was writing to a Senator. Garner does not know yet how the news about the note got out . . . Assistant Commerce Secretary Dickinson and Frank Walker are working out a plan to publish once a week the regulations issued by all the government departments, so each will know what the other is doing. Lawyers and business men will be permitted to buy the collection at a small price so they can keep track of things . . . A young Anthony Advocate recently gave this definition of a brain truster, "Any one with more than a high school education who happens to disagree with you."

Thousands of Girls menaced by COSMETIC SKIN adopt Hollywood's Beauty Method

You can use all the Rouge and Powder you wish, yet guard against ugly COSMETIC SKIN this modern way...

"CAN my pores be growing large? And horrors! Is that a blackhead?" Suddenly some unhappy girl discovers her skin is growing coarse, unlovely—she is being robbed of beauty!

She may not realize it, but she has COSMETIC SKIN—a modern complexion trouble easy to guard against.

Cosmetics Harmless if removed this way

Cosmetics need not harm even delicate skin unless they are allowed to choke the pores. Many women who think they are removing cosmetics thoroughly are leaving bits of stale make-up in the pores day after day. When this happens, the pores gradually become clogged, distended. They cannot function normally and soon the warning signals of cosmetic skin appear.

Don't run this risk. You needn't. Lux Toilet Soap is made to remove cosmetics thoroughly. Its rich, ACTIVE lather sinks deeply into the pores, carries swiftly away every vestige of dust, grease, stale cosmetics. Before you apply fresh make-up during the day and ALWAYS before you go to bed at night, remove stale make-up thoroughly the modern Lux Toilet Soap way.

Precious elements in this soap

Remember, Lux Toilet Soap contains precious elements. Nature herself puts in skin to keep it youthful. The Hollywood stars, whose complexions are worth millions, have used it for years.

"Of course I use cosmetics, but thanks to LUX Toilet Soap I never worry about Cosmetic Skin"—says GINGER ROGERS

WAR PROSPECTS HALT JUNKING OF U. S. SHIPS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Far Eastern war clouds are considered so serious by the administration that it has halted all scrapping of shipping board vessels, it was dicisode today by a high government official.

At the same time Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper was preparing a bill for the consideration of the House Merchant Marine, Radio and Fisheries Committee under the chairmanship of Representative Schuyler Bland (Dem.), of Virginia.

Roper revealed the shipping board has approximately 270 uider tis direction, half of which he declares are of questionable seaworthiness.

Officials in charge of the scrapping of abandoned or unused Shipping Board vessels refuse to discuss the origin of the order stopping the scale of scrapped vessel, but a study of exports of scrap metal to various world powers reveals Japan has been the largest buyer of this class of material in recent months.

Irked Washington Sees Treaty Violation by Japan

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Administration officials are puzzled and not a little irritated over Japan's newly announced policy of assuming a virtual protectorate over China.

They are puzzled over just how far Japan intends to go in carrying out her self-appointed role of "preserving peace" in the Orient, and irritated over the manner of its pronouncement.

Thus far, no Japanese diplomat has acquainted the American government officially with the new policy, and no note has been received. It is rather a new wrinkle in international diplomacy for any government to announce such a far-reaching policy casually to the press.

If Japan literally carries out her announced intention of establishing hegemony over China, officials here construe such action as a direct violation of the nine-power treaty, signed in Washington in 1922.

Of course, this treaty was pretty well messed up by Japan's war on Shanghai several years ago, and her subsequent invasion and conquering of Manchuria.

Tokio dispatches, obviously from official sources, report that the new Japanese policy is aimed to prevent sale of foreign airplanes to the Chinese Nationalist government, and to prevent "politico-economic" loans.

This is interpreted here as directed squarely at the United States. American airplane manufacturers have been selling many planes to the Chinese government, and a large corps of American aviators has been instructing the Chinese in flying.

M'FADDEN ASKS MELLON PROBE

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP.)—Representative McFadden (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, charged in a speech in the House that Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, was permitting the operation of a powerful "clique" in his bureau that was "aiding and abetting illegal practices."

Calling for appointment of a committee to investigate, McFadden said:

"It's a racket, a ring. It's not political, it's financial."

McFadden referred to Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, and Henry L. Doherty, public utilities magnate, as among a group of outstanding "tax evaders" who had benefited by the operations of the "ring" in the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Russia's Stand On Debts Strains U. S. Patience

By KINGSBURY SMITH

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Friendly relations between the United States and Soviet Russia, established less than six months ago, are in serious danger of becoming strained as the result of an abrupt about-face by Moscow on the question of meeting American debt and damage claims.

This was learned from an unimpeachable source today as American officials ponder the question of what effect a sudden cooling off in cordiality towards Soviet Russia would have on public opinion in this country.

Moscow's reluctance to meet the American debt and damage claims after Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar, had given assurances it would be prepared to do so, is responsible for the development of a situation which threatens the future relations of the two countries.

The feeling prevails in high official circles that the Soviet has failed to live up to promises made during Litvinoff's visit here last November when recognition was granted them.

Furthermore, the manner in which the Soviet has acted has led to suspicions that Moscow may not have given serious heed to the promises it was making in its haste to obtain American recognition at a time when a conflict with Japan appeared imminent.

ENDLESS CHAIN RULE IN AUSTRIA

VIENNA, April 19.—(AP.)—A system of government operating on a sort of "endless chain" principle is provided in the new "corporative" constitution which has been completed by the cabinet after a four-day discussion.

The key officials provided for, and their relationships with each other are:

The President, elected by Mayors of cities.

Provincial governors, appointed by the President.

District governors, appointed by the provincial governors.

Mayors, elected by town councils, subject to confirmation of district governors, who hold the power to remove them.

Certain checks on the direct appointive power are provided.

No decision has been made as to the manner or time of putting the new constitution into effect.

ONE-MAN BOAT TO TOUR WORLD

LONG BEACH, Cal., April 18.—(AP.)—Planning a one-man cruise of the world in a 40-foot boat, Daniel J. Healy, 38, Boston-born soldier of fortune, will set out from here June 1, he said today.

Healy, who says he has received 11 wounds in three wars and four rebellions, is completely re-outfitting his heavily constructed auxiliary sloop Scorpion, which will be equipped with the latest in marine gear.

He plans to venture among the tropical islands off the coast of Asia and in Borneo, to offer services of himself and boat to Prof. William Steuber, naturalist, for an expedition up jungle rivers.

Bombing in French Political Strife

BRITAIN LEANS TO ARMS PLAN OF ITALY

LONDON, April 19.—(AP.—The opinion that the Italian plan now is the only remaining hope for European disarmament was expressed widely in unofficial quarters today following publication yesterday of an uncompromising note from France on the subject.

Official quarters, however, said that no communication was planned with Premier Mussolini, originator of the Italian plan, on the subject.

(The Italian plan was communicated by Premier Mussolini to Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, January 4, and suggested a partial rearming of Germany, re-formation of the League of Nations, and supervision of the armaments of other powers.)

Diplomatic circles freely discussed the possibility of an unrestrained European armament race and the collapse of prospective disarmament parleys. It was known that the government was anxious regarding the outcome of the disarmament steering committee to be held April 30, in Geneva.

It was assumed that the meeting will be held as scheduled and that participation of the United States is anticipated.

¼The seriousness of the situation was suggested in well-informed quarters as typified in the fact that Germany has offered to return to Geneva only after the question of disarmament is settled, and France, in the note made public yesterday, insists on Germany's immediate return to the league.

It was expected that the full disarmament conference will meet May 23 in view of the declaration of Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, that if a treaty cannot be obtained "disarmament must die with a bang."

Man Hit With Brick During Quarrel Dies

Nazi Leader's Stand Dims Kaiser's Hopes

Imperial Crown Not Worth Fighting for, He Declares

BERLIN, April 19.—(AP.)—A Nazi leader's stern stand against monarchism dimmed further today the hopes of Germans who long for restoration of the imperial Hohenzollern dynasty.

"The imperial crown lies on the battlefield.

"I doubt whether the German people wish to fight for it there."

Capt. Roehm uttered the warning in an address to foreign correspondents and diplomats last night in which he discussed Nazi ideals with particular reference to the functions of the group he heads. He declared:

"If the German people wish to give themselves an overlord again, they would do so against, rather than in behalf of, reactionaries."

"Reactionary" opponents of the Nazi regime were warned by Capt. Roehm that they were doing "no service to monarchial ideas" by writing "monarchism on their shield."

Capt. Roehm said that neither reaction nor Marxism is dead, and that it is the task of the storm troopers to see that the will of National Socialism is carried out until every German is "100 per cent National Socialist in his heart and his deeds."

The storm troopers' function is quite apart from that of the army, he said, but in case of invasion from the other side of the frontier, the invader will find the whole people ready.

The loss of livelihood by "a few thousand Jews" and the exiling of "a few tens of thousands of inferior characters," he declared, are puny details compared to the bloodshed involved in the French Revolution, the Spanish Inquisition and the conversion of Central and South American natives to Christianity.

LEGION BACKING ARMY INCREASE

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Secretary of War Dern and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, will give their views on the Thompson bill, to increase the regular army by 50,000 men, at the next session of a sub-committee of the House military affairs committee on Friday.

Strong indorsement of the bill was given yesterday by John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion, and L. Kemper Williams, executive officer of the Reserve Officers Association.

Thomas told the committee the bill, sponsored by Rep. Clark W. Thompson (Dem.), of Texas, embodied a program for which the legion had been working for 10 years, namely, to bring the army back to a peace-time standard of 165,000 enlisted men and 14,000 officers, and to provide training for additional reserve officers.

Cowboys Give Show for Homeless

A troupe of cowboys and a cowgirl passing through Pittsburgh last night gave a performance to homeless men at the Duquesne Building of the Improvement of the Poor. The program consisted of stunts of lassoing and rope and lariat throwing, a quartet and instrumental numbers.

D. A. R. DEFENSE TEST LOOMS

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP.)—The Daughters of the American Revolution set aside today as a great one for vice presidents, arranging to elect seven from a field of 11.

Behind the balloting for the vice presidents general, however, there was political talk in plenty about next year's election of a new president general.

The campaign for this D. A. R. highest honor will put to the test the national defense policies of Mrs. Russell William Manga, now president. It was she who led the daughters away from merging with other patriotic societies.

More aggressive members today had as their candidate for president general, Mrs. Flora Myers Gillentine, of Tennessee, who yesterday announced for co-operation" with other patriotic societies.

Opposing her was Mrs. William A. Becker, of New Jersey, making a direct bid for the Mrs. Magna's mantle by declaring for her type of program.

Welcome Back TO QUALITY

DURING the past few months we've had the pleasure of welcoming back many familiar faces that we haven't seen for a long time.

Some frankly admitted that they "fell" for so-called "bargains" that looked good but didn't wear so good. They're cured.

Some practiced "economy" at the expense of appearance. They, too, have learned it doesn't pay.

We're glad to see so many of our old friends and customers coming back to us for their clothes. It repays us for sticking to quality and proves once more that in the long run, quality is the best policy.

The same old price of $22.50 still gives you unrestricted choice of any Richman Brothers suit or topcoat

ORGANIZATIONS AID RUSHMORE TEXT DRIVE

Organization participation occupies a foremost place in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial nationwide inscription competition, national and sectional groups conducting their own competitions in co-operation with regional judging committees throughout the country.

Millions of participants are being encouraged by such nation organizations as the National Council of Women, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Catholic Daughters of America, Boy Scouts of America, Camp Fire Girls and Lions International.

The thousands of members of these and other organizations, including public and parish schools, in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia, including Pittsburgh's three universities, are actively supporting the patriotic project through the Pittsburgh Rushmore Memorial Committee.

C D OF A PLANS

Entries of the Catholic Daughters of America in this district are being received by the organization's special competition chairman, Miss Catherene Monahan, at 904 Phineas street, North Side, Pittsburgh. The supreme regent of the national organization, Miss Mary C. Duffy, has named a special national committee to stimulate interest among members in the competition which is being sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers for the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission.

This quest for the 600-word history of the nation's progress that will become the basis of the final inscription on the national monument being carved on the South Dakota mountainside, has stimulated the patriotic interest of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. Robert F. Metcalfe is the competition chairman for this district's participation, receiving entries from members at 5412 Howe street, Pittsburgh.

WOMEN'S CLUBS ACTIVE

The 90 000 members of 114 women's clubs affiliated with the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs are sending their entries direct to the chairman, Mrs. E. D. Harshbarger, at 239 Gladstone road, Pittsburgh.

Two separate competitions are being conducted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its auxiliaries for the district's membership. The auxiliary members are submitting entries through the chairman, Mrs. Amelia Kane, 232 Sycamore street, Pittsburgh. The veterans are competing through their own organization under the direction of Chairman Frank L. McGowan, 125 Elizabeth avenue, Avalon, Pa., who is district commander.

RULES SUBMITTED

Read the rules in an adjoining column. Cut them out for future reference. Hear "The Voice of America" program at 8:30 o'clock tonight over Radio Station WJAS for the helpful dramatization of an episode. Dr. John W. Oliver, of University of Pittsburgh, was discussing three of the historical events in a special program at 5:45 p. m. over Station WCAE.

Obtain a special free folder giving complete competition details at the Sun-Telegraph downtown office, Fifth avenue and Market street.

HERE THEY ARE—COMPLETE RULES FOR THE MOUNT RUSHMORE TEXT CONTEST

Herewith is a complete set of rules for governing the Mt. Rushmore national memorial inscription competition.

1—The competition is open to every man, woman and child in the United States or its possessions.

2—No entry fee, subscription or other consideration is necessary to submit texts in this competition.

3—All grammar school students must submit their entries to the teacher or the school committee appointed for the school which they attend.

4—All high school students must submit their entries to the teacher or committee at the high school which they attend.

5—All college students must deliver their entries to the college committee appointed to take charge.

6—In the event that there is no committee in charge of the competition at the school or college of any entrant, such entrant may mail his entry to the publication office of this newspaper, at the same time certifying the class in which he is competing and the school from which he is entering.

7—Any man or woman, not an enrolled student, may send in his or her entry direct to the publication office of this newspaper. All entries must be addressed to the Pittsburgh Rushmore Memorial Committee, care of the Sun-Telegraph.

8—No text will be considered which exceeds 600 words in length.

9—All entries must be received by the school or college committee of each school for enrolled students, or at the office of this newspaper for adults, unenrolled competitors and enrolled competitors where there is no school or college committee in charge, not later than 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, May 12, 1934.

10—All school committees must complete the judging of the entries in their schools and certify the winning entries to the local Rushmore Memorial Committee, in care of this newspaper, not later than 12 o'clock noon Memorial Day, May 30, 1934.

11—Each board of judges in the cities of publication of each newspaper will certify the winners in each class in their area not later than June 16.

12—The winners in each class must be delivered by each local committee to the national committee not later than Saturday, June 23, 1934.

13—The national committee will endeavor to publish awards and findings on July 4 if the work can be completed at that time, or as soon thereafter as possible.

14—Every entrant in this competition agrees, as a condition of his entry, to accept the judgment of any school or local or intermediate board of judges, as well as the judges of the territorial board and of the national board, as final and without recourse.

15—All cash prizes, scholarships and medals will be awarded on the basis of the final judgment of the national committee.

16—The certificates of merit will be awarded on the basis of the judgment of the school committee in each case.

17—In the event of ties for any of the prizes, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

18—The winners of the first prize in each case will receive their awards at the hands of the national committee in the city of Washington. The expenses of the winner of the first prize in each class, for railroad transportation to Washington, two days' stay in Washington and return to his home, will be paid by this newspaper.

19—Entries will not be returned to any contestant, and this newspaper will not undertake to answer inquiries concerning any awards in this contest. This newspaper does not accept any responsibility for entries lost or miscarried. Proof of mailing cannot be accepted as proof of receipt.

20—Texts submitted in this competition must deal with all of the following nine episodes in American history:

21—Certificates of merit will also be awarded for the best text written in each group of Boy Scouts and other organizations when such group submits 25 or more entries.

1—The writing of the Declaration of Independence.

3—The Louisiana Purchase.

4—The entry of Texas into the Union.

5—The ceding of the Floridas to the United States.

6—The acquisition of California.

7—The settlement of the Oregon boundary dispute.

8—The Alaska purchase.

Prize List

JUNIOR BIRDMEN OF AMERICA

Junior Birdmen Wings Are Here; Memberships Start Leaving New York Headquarters Today!

By J. JAMES MOORE, Pittsburgh Wing Commander

Greetings, members! Here is some great news for you! The wings are here! The memberships are going out! And by Saturday and Monday thousands and thousands of boys and girls in and around Pittsburgh will be wearing their Junior Birdmen emblems and sporting their gold or silver membership cards. Pretty soon every one of you will be nose diving into actual column features, and doing wing overs about our many activities!

Every Junior Birdmen of America wing in the country is sending out their memberships today and the nation is now on its way towards having its first real active group of airmen of the future.

Your Membership Is Coming

If you do not receive your membership tomorrow or the next day, just remember that there have been thousands and thousands of applications received by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph wing and we are getting them into the envelopes just as quickly as our large staff possibly can.

Each member will receive a wing-pin, membership card, official notification of acceptance by the membership committee and a leaflet explaining how each one can form a Junior Birdmen of America flight squadron in their own town or neighborhood. On the back of this leaflet members will also learn how to receive an eagle and ace membership ranking with bars to attach to your wings.

We are not going to keep up an appeal for membership much longer, as there are too many other valuable items that will occupy this column space beginning Monday. So be sure that you join now and become an early bird of the Junior Birdmen. Of course, our membership application coupon, which appears under this column today, will always be published so that boys and girls can always join our ranks and affiliate themselves with our organization. But don't wait. If you do you are going to miss some good times.

While hundereds and hundreds of letters are coming in each day, bearing applications for memberships, hundreds more are being received from boys and girls who already sent in for membership asking for various questions to be answered in our column. I'm coming to make a pancake landing right on top of this first pile today and choose those that I think most important to answer first. However, the other answers, for which I have no room today, will appear shortly. Watch for yours!

Answers to Members Mailed Questions

There is no annual membership fee or dues of any sort for junior birdmen of America. Once you are a member, you are always a member, passing into the general council when you become 22 years of age.

An official junior birdmen model-plane kit for beginners will be announced shortly. There will be a further line of official junior birdmen kits for advanced model fliers.

Girls are entitled to the same privileges as boys. They are classified into the two age groups just as the boys and are not to be separated in any other way. I know of many girls who are equally as good model builders and fliers as boys and the same goes for actual flying. Look at Amelia Earhart, Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, Helen Richey, Helen MacCloskey and others.

Frank Hawks cannot be reached at his New York office. He is presently in China demonstrating American-made bombers to the government.

It will be necessary to have 20 members to organize a flight squadron. They must be boys or girls who are already members of the junior birdmen. Further information about organizing these units will appear in Sunday's column.

There will be many activities for members who are not interested in model building. However, with the model builders' course for beginners, which will soon appear in these columns, most every member will be building his or her own models by the time the warm outdoor model flying season begins.

There are several fine kits of the new Waco "C" cabin type biplane already on the market. Any store selling model kits and supplies should have them on hand.

The junior birdmen of America model contest rules will be similar to N. A. A. regulations, but simplified and easier. There will be a few variations such as the number of flights permitted, requirements and others.

The only junior birdmen wing in Pennsylvania is the Sun-Telegraph wing. Eastern Pennsylvania members may either join through the Pittsburgh or New York wing.

A special junior birdmen board will compile and maintain official junior birdmen national records for model plane flights and make awards and certificates of proficiency to all members establishing new national and world records.

I think that that is enough for the questions and answers today. We will have more in a few days.

Junior Birdmen Flight Units

One of the members above made reference to the organizing of junior birdmen flight squadrons. No doubt a great many members are already planning to start one of these units in their neighborhood, school or church. Sunday's column will contain the complete details. It will explain fully just how you can go about organizing and building your own junior birdmen flight squadron and send for your official charter, officers' bars and book of rules and regulations. Flight squadron units may be governed by their own commander and captain or have an adult sponsor guide them in their meetings and activities.

Don't forget to tell your friends, school chums and neighborhood pals about the junior birdmen and our daily column. Get them to join at once so that you will be ready to build your flight squadron at once.

Yours for—Happy Landings!

LUMBER DEALER DIES IN CHURCH

Frank E. Willson, 68, of 1901 Shady avenue, died suddenly in the Sixth Presbyterian Church last night a few minutes after he had concluded a talk in connection with the annual congregational meeting.

Mr. Willson became ill as he sat down, and died before a physician could be summoned.

He was president of the Willson Brothers Lumber Company, which he organized with his brother. He had been a resident of Pittsburgh 40 years, having come here from Belle Vernon. He was first employed as a salesman for the Babcock Lumber Company.

Mr. Willson was associated with a number of fraternities and civic organizations.

PHARMACY FETE AT DUQUESNE

The seventh annual "Pharmacy Night" will bring thousands of visitors to the Duquesne University campus tomorrow night. Students and faculty of the university will hold open house with demonstrations, exhibits and entertainments in Canevin hall, science hall and in the campus theater.

A special feature will be a radio play broadcast from the stage of the university theater by student members of the Theater of the Air. Station WWSW will broadcast the complete "Pharmacy Night" program.

Dr. Hugh C. Muldoon, dean of the school of pharmacy, will supervise the exhibition.

MR. RAND FINDS AMAZING "Plus" VALUE IN LOW-PRICED TRUCKS

CHECK THE LOW-PRICED TRUCK FIELD FOR HIGH-PRICED FEATURES THAT GIVE SENSATIONAL SAVINGS IN GAS...OIL...TIRES...UPKEEP

*List prices at factory, Detroit, subject to change without notice. Special equipment, including dual wheels on 1½-ton models, extra.

Also, Heavy-duty models up to 9-ton payload

FROM coast to coast—everywhere—buyers of low-priced trucks are switching to Dodge by thousands. The reason is simple. Over two dozen "plus" value features are built into Dodge... each one recognized by truck men instantly as "better building"...each one a money-saver doing its part to cut down gas, oil, tire and repair costs. Figure for yourself how hydraulic brakes, that stay equalized, decrease the wear on tires, save adjusting expense. Look at the extra strength in the full-floating rear axle. Notice how the oil filter, air cleaner, crankcase ventilator and full-pressure lubrication give you a "plus" on engine life. You want the truck that gives you the most in costly money-saving features like these.

BANK PAYOFF SHOWDOWN DEMANDED

banks were kept open too long. The McLeod bill, he said, would virtually put a premium on bad banking.

Rainey Favors Relief For Bank Depositors

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(INS.)—Speaker Rainey of the House, discussing the McLeod bank pay-off bill today, said that he personally favored action to relieve depositors in closed banks if possible.

After saying that he doubted that there would be action in Congress on the bill of Rep. McLeod, the Speaker said that a group of members is seeking to work out a compromise plan. Rainey said:

"The question is how much may be loaned on the assets of closed banks. Members are trying to work out something. I can't tell what the outcome will be until we see what is worked out."

New Bank Survey Proposed By U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(INS.)—A new survey of the "frozen" assets in closed banks, with a view to determining whether the government can finance a further release of deposits, was considered today by the administration as a means of satisfying demands for enactment of the McLeod closed bank pay-off bill.

This possibility developed from a conference between Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, with directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. One plan discussed was the use of FDIC funds to aid depositors. J. F. T. O'Connor, E. G. Bennett and Leo T. Crowley were the directors who conferred with Glass.

A further survey of assets in closed banks might show a decided change in the value of various securities, because of the upward trend of business conditions since the last survey was made. If the survey disclosed greater value for the "frozen" assets, it was contended, the FDIC could be used to furnish the desired aid.

NEW BANK BILL BY MULDOWNEY

By JOHN COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 19.—A bill releasing immense funds in banks and for the relief of home owners was introduced in the House today by Representative M. J. Muldowney (Rep.), of Pennsylvania.

Legislation under his bill would amend the existing Federal Reserve Act and give the right of rediscount to banks now holding first mortgages on residence real estate that would permit trust companies, national banks and other financial institutions the right to post as collateral their first mortgages at Federal Reserve banks.

The banks would have the right to rediscount such mortgages not exceeding $10,000 on individual homes in an amount not to exceed 80 per cent of the face of the mortgage.

This collateral would then have the right of currency issue of the Federal Reserve System and would thus augment the present efforts of mortgage relief as being practiced under the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

It would thus provide a rediscount privilege for mortgages of this class now held by banks which are too non-liquid to permit the extension of industrial and further mortgage loans.

Pay Bank Depositors

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS:

As an important help toward national recovery, the undersigned urge passage of the bill introduced by Representative McLeod, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System.

Toward this end we urge that the RFC make loan arrangements with the closed banks.

This procedure would give positive stimulus to business by converting frozen, idle and at present useless bank deposits into immediately available purchasing power.

Religious Order Asks Bank Payoff

Members of a number of the United Russian Orthodox Brotherhoods are planning to send Sun-Telegraph petitions and personal letters to Congressman William M. Berlin, of Pennsylvania, urging him to support the McLeod bank payoff bill, it was announced at the national headquarters in the Columbia Bank Building today.

Peter Ratica, national president, made a speech at the district meeting of Western Pennsylvania lodges in Russian Hall, Monessen, Sunday, in behalf of this legislature. He not only supported the provisions of the bill and its benefits, but pointed out that the measure would pay many people's debts and mortgages and take thousands off relief lists.

President Discusses Banking Situation

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today discussed the general banking and financial situation with J. H. Perkins, chairman of the board of National City Bank, and W. W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of Chase National Bank, both of New York.

Bank Tax Measure Favored in House

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP.)—A bill to permit states to tax national banks was approved today by the House Banking Committee.

It stipulates that the state levy must not be higher than that placed on the income or profits of a business institution in the state.

Burgess' Assault Hearing Postponed

Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Johnson, of Munhall, last night postponed until Friday night the hearing of Burgess Richard Lawry, of West Homestead, on a charge of aggravated assault and battery. Lawry is accused by David Webber, of 313 Seventh avenue, West Homestead, of knocking him down and kicking him when he tried to enter a dance hall last Saturday night.

Council to Hear "Waste" Charges

Charges of "waste and mismanagement" in the county relief administration were to be aired again at a meeting under auspices of a state legislative committee in Council chambers this afternoon. Assemblyman Joseph A. Rechtenwald was to preside.

At a sismilar meeting last Thursday Assemblyman Joseph G. Steedle charged that "there is a tremendous leak" in relief expenditures in Allegheny County.

Safety Engineers To Make Awards

No-accident trophies and certificates to winners in the sixth inter-plant safety contest, and the eighth inter-fleet contest, will be awarded at a meeting of safety engineers in the Fort Pitt Hotel tonight. Capt. William B. Rodgers, president of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, will make the awards, and William H. Cameron, managing director of the National Safety Council, will speak.

VARIETY SHOWS, DRAMA -:- Rudy Vallee Show Boat -:- ON AIR TONIGHT

Inventions Described In Drama

"This Wonderful Age," with its airplanes, electrical wizardry, medical science and great steel, glass and oil industries is to be described in a new series of Thursday night radio dramas beginning over KDKA tonight at 10, under sponsorship of Reliance Life Insurance Company.

The weekly half-hour dramatizations will deal with many modern wonders of the world, reviewing their development from the inventors' first conception to completion.

Tonight's program reviews the progress of aviation. An orchestra furnishes incidental music.

The newest wonder of the world, by the way, is the great stone face memorial carved in giant proportions on the granite heights of Mt. Rushmore, and for which Sun-Telegraph readers are asked to suggest an inscription. (First prize, $1,000.)

This afternoon at 5:45, WCAE begins a short series of broadcasts intended to help Mt. Rushmore contestants to write prize-winning suggestions.

Dr. John W. Oliver, head of the history department, University of Pittsburgh, will give WCAE listeners some helpful information.

MORE HELP

So important is the Mt. Rushmore project that CBS-WJAS presents a dramatization in connection with the contest, on the Voice of America program tonight at 8:30.

Cross and Dunn, song team, and Orth and Codee, vaudeville comedians, are among the Vallee guests.

Waring's Pennsylvanians play the score of their own musical revue, "Rah! Rah! Daze!" on their WJAS program at 9:30 p. m.

* * *

Humorous events of the day and yesterday will probably engage the attention of James Thurber, artist, historian and ertwhile newspaper reporter when he embarks on the strange (to him) seas of radio tonight at 10:45, over CBS-WJAS.

Gloria Swanson

WIZARD

Yankee persistence is the subject of tonight's Death Valley drama, on KDKA at 9 o'clock. Josh Baker, jilted by Abigail Herrick in Boston, follows her for 25 years, into the gold fields of California.

* * *

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Several days ago a school girl asked me whether or not Admiral Byrd had claimed "Little America" for the United States.

I wrote for information to the National Geographic Society at Washington and the answer today says that "Litfle America" is not situated on land but on the shelf ice of the Ross Sea, a number of miles from land. It, therefore, could not constitute territory claimed by any nation.

However, I believe the Admiral did claim part of the mainland for the United States and I will write to the State Department at Washington for information as to the status of the claim.

Lieut. Griffith has sent over another batch of answers to queries about State compensation. Most of the queries are relative to the time necessary for acknowledgement by the Department of Military Affairs of the receipt of the application. About eight weeks is required.

The Boy Scout Globe Trotters will be interested in a statement made by Warden John McNeil, of the Allegheny County Jail. He says that in those communities which have sponsored Boy Scout movements the percentage of crime has decreased from 25 per cent to 8 per cent.

You know that the stone used in the construction of the jail and the court house comes from Vermont and is part of the finest granite quarried in that state.

The cleaning process has brought out the true beauty of the stone.

Mrs. L. J. McClellan, of Salina, Pa., has observed the stories about those unfortunate people suffering from leukemia, that strange dreadful malady.

Mrs. McClellan's letter holds out hope for the sufferers. She writes of her brother who contracted this disease some time ago and who now is healthy and boasting of a normal blood count.

A twilight organ recital by Ted Yearsley and Ernest Neff, played over WWSW at 6:45 p. m., includes Schubert's "Serenade" and "The Rosary."

Pittsburgh Makes Mark In Radio

By AIRCASTER

Pittsburgh, the pioneer city in radio broadcasting, continues its contributions to that great industry.

Recently, Jesse Kaufman passed on up from manager of WCAE to the job of supervising all Hearst-owned radio stations in the country.

Col. Hedges

On Monday, Bill Hedges, general manager of KDKA, was summoned to Merlin H. Aylesworth's executive suite in Radio City; given a proud pat on the back, and told that henceforth he was to manage all NBC-managed-and-operated stations in the United States—16 of them, including the pioneer station.

"While I am pleased in the new position which places me in charge of all stations owned and operated by the National Broadcasting Company," Col. Hedges gracefully gestures, "nevertheless, I feel a certain regret in leaving Pittsburgh.

"The people of Pittsburgh with whom I've come in contact have been very kind to me, and very helpful in bringing KDKA to its present high level.

"I expect to spend considerable time in Pittsburgh, keeping in close touch with affairs here, but the other stations in other cities will have demands upon my time.

"Francis H. Conrad will serve as acting manager of KDKA pending final settlement of a permanent appointment."

Congratulations to Bill Hedges, who has earned his promotion in doing a thoroughly businesslike job, fairly and squarely, and a degree of sympathy to a young man with 16 stations on his hands.

SOUND EFFECTS

The sound which the radio listener hears most often on the air (if we exclude music, spellbinding and studio applause) is the simulation of an automobile motor.

Automobiles are used more profusely in drama, ballyhoo and comedy than any other means of transportation.

It has been so for seven years and there is no prospect of change according to Mrs. Ora Nichols, who directs the Columbia system's sound effects department.

The machine age has gripped all such departments in recent years, with mechanical devices replacing man power, but nothing has been invented to improve the effectiveness of cocoanut shells as horses' hoofs.

The only concession to modernity in this case is the use of sand instead of a marble slab, on which the shells, originally, were pounded.

In the early days of radio, Mrs. Nichols recalled while reminiscing yesterday, no spectators were permitted in the studios, and when applause was needed, a large piece of linoleum, equipped with flapping strips of the same material, was dragged in and shaken vigorously for the desired effect.

Nearly all the effects today are manufactured by recordings. The real art lies in their presentation. One person has the use of as many as six records at once, and it requires the utmost skill to "mix" the sounds for just the right results.

Baseball Scores On WCAE

The Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter broadcasts over WCAE at 12:15 and 2:15 this afternoon.

"Aircaster" is heard over WCAE and WJAS at 6:30 p. m.

Scores of the Big League baseball games are announced over WCAE at various intervals during the afternoon and evening.

The LOVE LETTERS of CHARLES DICKENS

To Maria Beadnell

The publication of this series of hitherto unrevealed letters written by Charles Dickens to Maria Beadnell, whom he had loved and lost but found again after twenty years, is of profound importance to every admirer of the works of this great novelist.

Jilted by Maria Beadnell in his youth, given by her only misery and regret in his early manhood, the loss of her love drove Dickens to the fierce labors which made him the greatest novelist of his age and one of the greatest of all time.

To her coquetry—to her throwing over of the impecunious young "Shorthand Reporter," the world perhaps is deeply indebted to Maria Beadnell for being partly responsible for the success of one of the outstanding literary geniuses of modern times.

These letters reveal an intimate and personal side of Dickens not touched on in any of his biographies. They throw light on a romantic interlude of Dickens the man as well as Dickens the novelist.

'Merry-Go-Round' A Sensation

WCAE's "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round," on the air from 7 to 7:30 this evening, pulls more enthusiastic fan mail than any other current program.

Gene Llewellyn, newly-betrothed to Tenor Howard Price, is heard over the Sun-Telegraph station at 5:30 p. m.

Ends Dates When She Finds There's Another Girl

Mary has found out there is ANOTHER GIRL.

And it is not so pleasant. For she had been sure it was CLEAR SAILING for her.

Right up to the very port of matrimony, she had even imagined this little boat for two would carry her.

And now she has heard of the OTHER GIRL. And one who has known the boy friend longer than Mary has known him.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am 18 years old. There is a young man whom I have known for two years and who has shown in many ways as I thought, that he cared for me, and for whom I care, and who recently, I have heard, has another girl, and of older standing than I.

Miss Brunot

Since I have heard this he has asked me so often for dates. But I have refused in what I call justice to the other girl. But he keeps on smiling and treating me the same.

He asked me recently if I wasn't ever going to give him a break.

I would think he wouldn't want to look at another girl but his steady.

SHE LOVES HIM

Of course there may be a possibility that the girl runs after him. Yet I would think he should be able to manage such a situation. I consider he is unfaithful to his regular girl. Yet I love him.

Now, Miss Brunot, I want you to tell me exactly what you think of this man. Do you think I should go out with him? Should I tell him my reasons for not accepting his invitations?

Thank you for giving me your best advice. You said in your column you would always do that. And I trust you. I hope to see my answer soon. I read every word you write, and enjoy it. Sincerely,

MARY.

Going over the border fences, and into someone else's property never is looked upon as sporting, Mary. And especially when that property is another girl's man. Yet we all know the triangle exists. We read of it in poetry and in prose, and it often litters the front pages of the news.

HAVE TALK WITH BOY

And sometimes it seems it cannot be helped. We go on caring somewhat for a person, and for ever so long, and then to meet someone else who awakens in us a deeper emotion. And who can say this is wrong? It seems to be nature's way.

Yet the way we sacrifice others, and for ourselves can be wrong. We have no right to make a mess out of any other person's life. And when we know we are doing so.

So have a talk with this fellow. Make him tell the truth to you. And also look about for yourself, not trusting implicity what is told you by acquaintances. But making a point to find out for sure just how seriously this other girl looks upon this boy friend's attentions.

You see, after all, you will also be looking after yourself. For history repeats itself. And history seems to be MAN. And a man who gives one girl a rough deal, will do the same with you, Mary.

If you find it expedient to forget him, it may not be so hard as you think. Spring is here. There is a willow tree in the rear yard of the apartment house where I live. And it is budding. The long, lean tendrils trail earthward and wave in the breeze, and the sun strikes it, giving a silver glow to the branches. It says that summer soon will be here. The time for meeting new people, and perhaps truly mating with some one person.

LOVE SERIOUS THING

There may be a new boy friend just around the corner, Mary. One who hasn't promised his heart to another.

Love is a serious thing. Plighting one's troth to another, and for a supposed lifetime, is even more serious. There are so many complications in the day-by-day living together, that it always takes a certain trust to be right beside you, to make it tolerable at all.

Remember this, and treat it with will power, as you have been doing. Emotions are all right. Perhaps they are the cream on the milk of life. But there is much more milk than cream. We all know that.

However, consider that what you have heard may be partly hearsay. Chatter goes around freely. We are surrounded by it as with air. It can be all filled with the germs of maliciousness, you know. There are those who do not like to see others happy. In your insisting upon knowing the truth about this young man, remember to be FAIR to him, as well as to yourself.

Never allow the old heavy garb of suspicion to be worn in the warm season.

It is like wearing your flannels in June.

In Yellowed Love Letters of Teacher, Fay King Finds a Moral

By FAY KING

The long and useful life of an aged school teacher came to its peaceful end the other day.

Had she not requested that a yellowed packet of love letters be buried with her, the world would not have noted her passing or known of her romance.

At 18, her sweetheart then 21, died a week before they were to be married.

For 70 long years she treasured his letters and remained true to the memory of his love.

But she seems less foolish to me than some of those who, too, may be alone at the end, with three or four ex-husbands about somewhere who do not miss and will not mourn them.

Given in Marriage :-: A Sequel to Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Husband Hears Edith's Accusation

As I made my low-voiced plea to Katherine to permit Edith Fairfax to stay in the library, where they had carried Dicky, Edith straightened herself from her drooping posture and faced me with eyes that flamed almost insanely.

"I'll take no largesse from you," she said venomously. "I have as much right here as you have. More, for my heart belongs to him, while at least half of the thing you call yours belongs to—"

She did not finish the sentence, at least not in my hearing or Dicky's, if, indeed he possessed consciousness enough to hear her. With a quick movement, almost unbelievable for a man of his stature and bulk, Harry Underwood had put a hand over her mouth, while with his other arm he had lifted her and carried her out of the room before she could possibly know what had happened to her.

"I'm more sorry than I can tell you," Lillian said, with a contrite glance at Katherine and me, "that I didn't have Harry turn that little trick before. She was too strong for me. I couldn't budge her an inch. And she pleaded so pitifully to stay, promised so faithfully to be quiet, that when Madge nodded her assent to me, I stopped pulling at the lady. But if I had guessed she was going to throw any spasm like this—" She spread her hands expressively.

HUSBAND HEARS

Her voice was so low that it did not seem possible Dicky could have heard it, yet it was his voice, weak, halting, but holding—could I believe my ears—distinct amusement, which answered.

"Some spasm!" he said. "How about it, old darling? Shall we go 50-50 upon the misinformation Ede was dishing? I'll agree to count out the accusation that I've only half your heart, the other being given to somebody Ede didn't get a chance to name, but whose moniker I can guess, if you'll discount for nothing her spiel about me."

I looked at Katherine inquiringly

"Dare I answer him?" I asked.

"If you make it short," she said, after a second, looking up.

I ventured to his side for the first time, and closed my hand over the one which feebly moved to greet me.

"I'll say, or do, or believe anything you want me to, sweetheart," I told him. "There's only one thing that matters to me, and that is that you're living."

He smiled up at me.

HOLDS HER HAND

"So the old girl wouldn't like me to be off the earth," he said. "Glad to hear it, old dear. I'll stick around awhile, just for that."

"You'll also stop talking, both of you," Katherine said in kindly but firm tones. "I'll relieve both of your alleged minds by telling you that I've changed my mind about you since you were brought in here. I'm not sure that you even need a doctor now, but I prefer to have one; for, as you know, a good nurse never diagnoses or prescribes."

She quoted with a whimsical little smile the aphorism I had heard so often from her lips, and I wanted to tell her, as I had so many times before, that I would rather have her diagnosis than that of many physicians. But I kept silent and tried to pull my hand away from Dicky's. He held on to my fingers, however, with such surprising strength that I flashed an appealing glance at Katherine, motioning, as I did so, to his clinging fingers.

"Of course," she said, nodding. And it was thus that the physician found us when he arrived a few minutes later.

Hints for the Household

Soft collars are improved in appearance and keep clean longer when put through weak starch and ironed while a trifle damp.

To preserve furniture upholstered in leather, rub occasionally with linseed oil to which a little turpentine has been added. Polish with a soft rag.

Potatoes baked in their jackets lose only 1 per cent of their food value in cooking. Cooked in boiling water without their skins they lose 15 per cent.

Contract Bridge :-: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Interesting Bidding

One of the most popular features of the Eastern Tournament, held recently in New York, was the mixed team-of-four event, in which each pair of each team consists of one lady and one gentleman. Leaders of society and leaders of the Bridge world vie with each other in preparing teams to compete in this event. The entry this year brought out 29 teams-of-four, a very large list for any event. The contest was brief, the event being decided upon the basis of board-a-match play, and every one of the teams playing two matches or boards against every other contestant. Thus in one afternoon and evening 58 boards were played.

There were a number of extremely interesting hands, some of them developing into Slams. One of the most interesting was the hand below, where Mrs. Francis Tilgman Silver was seated North and Walter Malowan South.

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♡	3 ♡ (1)	4 ♡ (2)
Pass (3)	Pass	4 N T (4)	Pass
5 ◇ (5)	5 ♡ (6)	6 ♣ (7)	Pass
7 ♣ (8)	7 ♡ (9)	Pass (10)	Pass
7 ♠ (11)	Pass	7 N T (12)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—While North has not strong support for partner's bid suit, she has a very strong hand containing four honor-tricks and feels sure that later a fit in the hand can be discovered. Hence the immediate "tip-off" to partner that there are no losers in the heart suit.

2—A very good non-vulnerable bluff. As a matter of fact, East and West have a cheap sacrifice against a game contract if they are permitted to take it.

3—Mr. Malowan makes a Forcing Pass at this point no doubt much better than showing diamonds.

4—North must do something, and while there has been no agreement as to a suit as yet, she feels that the showing of three Aces, which on the basis of her partner's vulnerable Opening bid must place all the Aces for him is more important than the bidding of a suit. She has already made up her mind that the hand should play at not less than six.

7—This is the first time that clubs have been bid—at the range of six. A most unusual bidding situation, indeed!

8—South carries the hand to its logical end—namely, a contract to take all the tricks.

9—Again West seeks to stop the inevitable. The bid is not a bad one, based upon the fact that no fit in spades has been disclosed.

10—Again a Forcing Pass. North does not know whether to attempt the Grand Slam in spades or in notrump or whether South prefers to double.

11—South's hand does not suggest the probability of any considerable set, and the Slam looks reasonably safe.

12—In view of the unusual bidding, Mrs. Silver rightly decided that it was safter to play the hand in notrump, thus avoiding the possibility of a first round ruff in any suit by East.

In the play of the hand there was but one question involved and that was the handling of the club suit. When this situation developed, Mrs. Silver had already obtained sufficient information so that she finessed in the right direction and thus fulfilled her contract.

Washing Colored Woolens

Colored woolens should be washed separately if inclined to run and a little vinegar added to the rinsing water. Eiderdowns may be mangled, but never squeezed or rubbed—it damages the feathers and produces uneven drying. They are best dried on a windy day and should be shaken from time to time.

Lots of women still suffer each month when there is really no need to. It's just too bad for the girl who doesn't know she can keep her dates and keep comfortable. For painful periods, you need simply do this:

Watch the calendar. Just before your time, take a Midol tablet and drink a glass of water, and you may escape the expected pain entirely. If not, a second tablet should check it within seven to ten minutes. Midol helps the woman who has always had a very hard time. And the relief is lasting, two tablets see you through your worst day. Yet they contain no narcotic, nothing injurious. They're as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. But don't be fooled by ordinary pain tablets offered as a specific for "regular" pain! Midol is a special medicine, for this special purpose. Your druggist has it on the counter—or just ask for Midol.

How to Keep Well

How to Give the Baby His Bath

Within the past few years, infant care has been simplified. The young mother is guided by text books, periodicals and magazines, all published to aid her in solving her many problems. Despite these many modern advantages, most young mothers confess anxiety and even fear when bathing the young infant.

Dr. Copeland.

I am glad to say that it isn't long until the mother becomes expert. This daily task becomes one of her joys. To those who are still hesitant and feel incompetent to undertake this resposibility, I would suggest the following simple rules:

Baby should be bathed every day. Arrange the time so that it will not conflict with other duties. The best time is usually in the morning, before the mid-morning feeding and preferably after the first elimination. Never bathe the child until at least an hour has elapsed since the last feeding. Some mothers prefer giving the bath at night just before bedtime.

I am often asked what the temperature of the bath should be. The water should be just a little above the temperature of the body. This is approximately 100 degrees F. I strongly recommend the use of a bath thermometer to determine accurately the temperature of the water. It is an inexpensive thing and will eliminate guessing and fear as to whether the water is too cold or too hot.

Before placing the baby in the bath, make sure the room is comfortably warm, the windows closed and that there are no drafts from open doors. Do not have the room too hot, because it may cause the baby to perspire, then get chilled and so catch cold. Have the tub in a comfortable position and close to towels, soap, clothes and other necessary items. Never leave baby alone in the tub, not even for a minute. It nothing worse happens the child may become frightened and ever after fear the daily bath.

Another mistake the young mother may make is to allow the soap to get into the baby's eyes. The child cries, kicks, and its anger terrifies the young mother. Support the baby with the left arm and use you right hand for washing purposes. Avoid soap on the face and when you wash the scalp make sure soap does not run down to the eyes.

When baby is taken from the tub, it should be placeed on a dry towel and slowly but carefully dried. Make sure the entire body is dried. This will prevent chafing. Powder may be used, but avoid an excessive amount. Above all keep powder away from baby's reach.

A good plan is to gently massage the baby before completing the dressing. This is best accomplished by gently rolling the flesh with the palm of the hand. Gentle massage stimulates the circulation and hardenes the skin.

If I Were Their Severest Critic
(Instead Of Their Best Friend).

I'd tell Primo Carnera and his manager that the threat to walk out on the Baer fight is pretty small-time. (They demand that the Milk Fund be dropped from the gate—it was the Milk Fund which made the bout possible!) And that it is the surest way of winning everlasting contempt not only from fight fans, but from indorsers of that charity.

I would tell Rudy Vallee not to be such a pill just because a pair of Westerners once told him that it isn't pronounced "doa-gee" but "doh-jee," because "doh-jee" not only is wrong but comical.

I'd tip off Bob Hope that his "Hmmmm" (which he hmmmms when his stooges are talking) must be very amusing on stage where you can see it as well as hear it—but over the microphones—the "Hmmmm" sounds as tho Hope is either nervous or going to be ill.

If I were certain stars, who are clever enough to stop the show (after the next act came on and started singing) I'd merely say to the applauders out front: "Thanks very much, but the next act is much better" and race off stage. This brief speech would be sure to make the audience like me lots more for being thoughtful of the embarrassed entertainers whose routine was interrupted. The chap who stopped one show the other night and waved off the players might not have meant to be offensive—but the razzberries he got were deserved.

If I conducted an orchestra featuring popular tunes I'd never omit such lovely old melodies as "Lady Be Good" and "In a Little Spanish Town," which one crew played last night and rocked the house.

I'd get rich quick making newsreels that omitted CWA officials who make long and dull speeches which slow up the film.

I'd tell the type of lad who thinks he has to be insolent to be amusing that he is clowning himself into a benefit.

I'd urge Ben Hecht to stop wasting his life even at $1,000 a day writing for Hollywood.

I would tell Ted Husing that as a radio babbler he is swell, but the bell bottom pants he wears went out with the bunny hug.

I would tell the boss of the Hapsburg House, who has pretty good victels and a mess of charm in the joint, that it is an okay rendezvous but that his zither player has an aggravating habit. The zither player asks you (if you are with a chomming lady) if "you'd like to hear the same song he played last night when you were with that other girl?"

I would salute the Palais Royal management for the lovely costuming and girls and entertainment, and tease them about some of the stage curtains which clash with the class of the place.

I'd tip the Casino de Paree management off to this constructive criticism. "Why not have the gigolos remove the green carnations (their badge) when they go up on stage to fox-trot with women?" And thus keep many of the ladies from being embarrassed when they think they're conspicuous dancing with a gigolo. . . And if they don't think many women are embarrassed—watch them remove the carnations themselves.

Oh, I know that nobody has a real reason to tell Eleanor Powell how to improve her grand routines, but I'd like to see her girlish figure in a dress for a change—on stage, instead of trousers.

If I had more time to waste annoying Tallulah Bankhead, I'd clip all those notices by Percy Hammond and John Anderson and other critics—who gave her a shellacking for smoking ciggies from her orchestra chair at various play premieres. Hammond described it best with a neat slap when he wrote: "It's probably her way of being inconspicuous."

I'd call Mary Pickford's attention to Olin Miller's counsel about her plan to stage a comeback. He points out that Mary will never again be America's Sweetheart so long as we have Roosevelt.

I'd tell the writers of Connie Bennett's "Moulin Rouge" that it would be just dandy if when they like anything good enough to take—to at least send a note of gratitude to the column from which it was tooken. As for instance that story about Richard Halliburton. Who flattered a femme chairman of a woman's club by giving her 11 American Beauties with a card saying: "The 12th, of course, is yourself."

Then about the type of gal who wishes herself on people in public places. One of them left her table last night and fell all over various musicians while they played. The type is called: "Anytime Annie."

To George Gershwin I'd pass along the tip that diminished 7ths and abstruse harmonies may impress music arrangers, but Mary and John can't sing them—and not to forget the people who responded so robustly to the simplicity of "I've Got Rhythm."

I'd tell several of the star comedians to freshen their material which they've been using for years before they wake up one day and discover that the parade has passed them by. The worst trick that can be done to them is not listing them by name now—but the list would be too long. I can't think of one, however, that the shoe won't fit.

If I were that group of "gentlemen" burglars who almost were trapped recently, but got away with it, I wouldn't risk the shady scheme they are promoting again. People are beginning to talk.

And if I were Bernie I'd feel pretty badly about it.

Boys of Pitt Waking Up Rip

By GEORGE SEIBEL

What would Rip Van Winkle say if he could see the Cap and Gown production of "Hello Again," which begins in the Nixon Theater tonight? Well, Rip will have a chance to say it, for he comes to the Nixon Saturday morning, with the Clare Tree Major Children's Theater.

Mr. Seibel

"Hello Again" will be another glittering illustration of the speed with which times and people change nowadays. The real Rip, waking up, would think he had got to another planet. Rip, you remember, was the gentleman who slept 20 years because he drank something stronger than coffee.

Joe Jefferson used to play "Rip Van Winkle," and once a mattress manufacturer offered to supply him with a comfortable couch to lie on. The only return he expected was to have Rip come down to the footlights after waking up and announce that "I wouldn't have slept that long if I hadn't been reposing on one of X Y Z's downy mattresses."

But Rip Van Winkle's story, as told by Washington Irving, is one of our truly American folk tales, and the play gradually evolved out of the legend, and the sketch has enduring fascination. Why don't some of our ambitious juveniles throw away their safety razors and play Rip? They could use the same wig and make-up later in "King Lear." It'll be worth going to the performance of "Rip Van Winkle" Saturday morning just to see what mattress they advertise.

THE RISE OF ALINE

And that brings to mind Aline MacMahon, our little McKeesport girl who has at last become a Hollywood star in "Heat Lightning." She would have kept Rip from going to sleep, I'm sure, for the first time I saw her she recited "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight." After which her mother put her to bed.

But little Aline has developed into one of the most intelligent actresses on stage or screen, and her uncles in Pittsburgh are proud of her. So would her aunt be, the late Sophie Irene Loeb. Her father is a newspaperman, long connected with the Associated Press in New York City.

MORE OF GORDON DAVIOT

It is amazing how the history of the stage is an endless chain. Last week I talked with A. G. Andrews, whom stage folk always call "Bogey" Andrews, for some unknown and forgotten reason, and we exchanged memories of Richard Mansfield. He played the valet to Beau Brummel and the tutor in "Heidelberg"—Mansfield liked to have him on the stage with himself. I also talked with Dennis King about this Gordon Daviot who wrote "Richard of Bordeaux." We did not succeed in settling definitely whether her name is Elizabeth MacIntosh or Agnes—I'm for Agnes, that's more Scotch!

Her fourth play has just been put on in London and is called "The Laughing Woman." Her first play was written for Marie Tempest, who did not play it, but encouraged the writer to keep on. She also wrote a drama about "Mary Stuart," as every Scotch dramatist has a right to do. She can write a play in two weeks—and that was all the time she took for her Stuart drama. Up in Inverness, where she lives, it is still light at 10 o'clock p. m., even without daylight saving, so the dramatist can work long hours if the bagpipe band will let him.

And here's a dark secret about Miss Gordon Daviot MacIntosh. She has been reputed and reported to be a school teacher, with history as her department of learning. She was really an instructor in physical culture, and her title in school was "games mistress." But that's her past—she writes plays now, and spends most of her time in London. While nothing is yet known about her new play, "The Laughing Woman," it might be about a lady dramatist whose play runs more than 400 nights.

New Policy

Greta Garbo in "Queen Christina," will inaugurate a new policy in the Cameraphone, East Liberty, beginning Saturday. John Gilbert plays opposite the star. The theater will be closed today and Friday for extensive renovation.

Olden Days In Studios Recalled

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, April 19.—Hello! Quite by accident the other day, I stumbled across some ancient items—pages from Hollywood's past, and so, as a novelty today, let us brush away the cinematic cobwebs and go back about 12 or 13 years in this strange land of celluloid.

If this column were dated April of 1921 and 1922, it would read thus:

Well, folks—great doings on the blvd. today. The street cars kicking up a flock of dust coming out Sunset blvd., but we're getting the side avenues paved this week. Well, to get along with the latest news.

Charley Ray had the cameras grinding on "A Tailor Made Man." Little Jacqueline Logan was the leading lady. Cute, too . . . And over at the Vitagraph Studio, Alice Calhoun was positively thrilled 'cause she had Warner Baxter for a leading man in "Blue Blood."

Away out in that former lemon grove was the old Maestro Studio. Wallace Beery and Adolphe Menjou had been engaged for roles with Nazimova in "The Doll's House" . . . and in the other direction, King Baggot was directing Marie Prevost in "Kissed" at Universal City.

And away on the other side of town, Anita Stewart was starring in "The Woman He Married." Darrell Foss was her leading man.

A dozen years ago—those were the hot items of the day. Funny isn't it? . . . Those fond echoes of yesterday.

Sam Wood, the megaphonist, tells one about the fellow who tried to pull a confidence game on Roscoe Ates. The crook was arrested and thrown in jail . . . In fact, he found himself behind the Ates ball!

Movietown meanderings . . . Madeleine Carroll, Fox's British importation, describes the movie village as: "Hollywood lives in a glasshouse—without shades!" . . . Phil Regan, the ex-cop and warbler of Brooklyn, is cooing in Joan Marsh's ear—and she's listening well! . . . Fredirck Hazlitt Brennan, the author who grinds out fiction like so many bananas—in bunches, you silly!—has sold another to Warners'. This time it is "The Perfect Week-End," which will probably co-star Pat O'Brien and Joan Blondell.

Max Marcin finally got all the mothballs out of his ancient play, "Cheating Cheaters," and effected a sale to Universal. Max will also direct the revamped ditty with an all-star cast.

You have probably forgotten all about Jack Harvey, former actor and producer. He's been trying to win in Hollywood for the past 10 years, and just as things were breaking—well, Mrs. Harvey died last Friday night.

Sidney Blackmer, Sidney Fox, Polly Moran and Irene Franklin all have a chance to exercise their lungs for vocal numbers in "Down to Their Last Yacht" . . . Manny Seff, author of "Blessed Event," had a blessed event which tipped the scales at eight pounds in a girlish way . . . Chick Chandler has taken his bee raising seriously, and had a special class hive constructed—so he could watch the busy little bees biz . . . Bill Seiter, Laura La Plante's ex, is courting Marian Nixon, Eddie Hillman's ex . . . Barbara Fritchie's black eye was from polo practice . . . Byron Gay, the old-time song writer, is coming back to Hollywood to try tunefilms.

Comedy

Evelyn Venable is the romantic interest in "David Harum," comedy starring Will Rogers, based on popular book, opening Saturday in the Family Theater.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

Seats are now on sale in the Nixon box office for "The Dream of My People," screen travelogue of Palestine with English dialogue, showing the new life of the Holy Land. In it the voice of the late Cantor Rosenblatt is heard amidst the atmosphere of the home-building enterprise of the Jewish people. The picture will be shown for the first time in the Nixon Monday evening and twice daily thereafter, 2:30 and 8:30 o'clock.

There'll be a snake dance in the Variety next week—but not by the Hopi indians. It will be done by "Bonita," European music hall dancer, who uses a live serpent in her act—and a coating of bronze paint. "Kuddlin' Kuties" is the title of the new burlesque, in which "Bonita" will appear, and it will open Sunday midnight.

* * *

Myron Fagan's new play, "Memory," which will have its premiere in Los Angeles May 7, with Helen Morgan as its star, will have Kay Hammond, Bryant Washburn and Jackie Searle of the movies in the cast.

All in a Day

Odds and Ends

ON A recent evening, with the anniversary of the sinking of the Titanic prominently mentioned in the papers, a group of reporters was discussing experiences on this and other maritime stories. Arthur Mefford recalled the time some eight years ago, when a small liner was disabled off Cape Cod—and officials of the line in New York refused to supply the reporters with a passenger list.

Another vessel, carrying a number of rescued passengers, was scheduled to arrive at Quarantine during the afternoon. But, as was the case with the Titanic, no definite reports had been issued—and the newspapers could print nothing but guesswork unless the steamship officials opened up.

Everything would be learned, of course, when the rescued persons arrived. But Mefford and the other reporters were trying to beat the gun. They demanded an interview with the general manager of the line, but that was as far as they got. He sent back word that he would see no one, and say nothing.

Mefford finally hit upon an idea. He would walk into the steamship office, storm past the stenographers, kick his way into the general manager's office, demand a passenger list—and be tossed out. Two other reporters would then send a note of apology for Mefford's actions. This, they felt, might soften the general manager—and he might give them what they wanted.

Mefford's entire idea worked splendidly, even to being kicked out. The general manager, on the verge of apoplexy because of Mefford's intrusion, had two special officers toss the reporter into the street. But as he came flying out, he winked at the other reporters.

"Okay, boys," he grinned. "I've done my part. Now you send in your note and see what happens. I'll wait for you in that little restaurant around the corner."

Mefford waited and waited in that little restaurant. Finally, growing nervous, he emerged—only to find that all the other reporters were on their way to meet the incoming rescue ship. And it wasn't until that night that he learned what had actually happened.

The general manager, highly pleased with the reporters' apology for Mefford's actions, had not only handed them the requested passenger list—but had furnished them with a boat at the company's expense to meet the survivors down the bay.

And they had raced off, leaving behind the man who had dug up the whole idea . . .

ONE of the town's sweetest romances has gone to smash because of a most unusual set of circumstances.

The man is a racing official, extremely well liked. The girl is a night club songstress, one of the best in her line. During the racing season last year, it was only natural for the girl to go to the track whenever possible. Not only did she enjoy the racing, but she could be near the man she liked. That's not a bad combination.

Enter the unusual. In her night life work, the girl had met many men who were race track habitues. Gamblers, fixers—all types. Very naturally, when they saw her at the track, they spoke to the songstress and often sat with her.

The girl was entirely innocent of any wrong-doing, but the big shots couldn't see it that way. They told her boy friend that, as a racing official, he could't afford to be seen too often with a girl who knew so many shady individuals. He'd either stop, or else.

WOMEN VOTERS HEAR VIEWS OF CANDIDATES

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—(AP.)—Platforms of 16 candidates for United States Senator and Governor are before the women of Pennsylvania for their consideration.

The candidates gathered at an open forum sponsored by the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters yesterday and, by the time the din of political oratory had ceased, planks had been nailed down on virtually every issue.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Republican aspirant for the Senate seat now held by David A. Reed, spoke out for closed bank deposit payments to depositors, federal utility regulation, minimum wages, jobless relief, election reform, federal school aid and abolition of the "fee" system of tax collections.

Roland S. Morris, Democratic candidate for the Senate, pledged support of President Roosevelt's policies, the Wagner labor board bill, bank deposit payments, abolition of child labor, tariff revision, world court adherence and government control of armament making and shipping.

Morris' chief rival, Joseph F. Guffey, and Pinchot's major opponent, Senator Reed, did not attend the forum. Three other Senate candidates did: Robert G. Taylor, running in Republican and Democratic races; John P. McVarish, Republican, and Dr. F. J. Fithian, Prohibitionist. All spoke briefly.

Attorney General William A. Schnader, who later said he had "heard nothing" of published reports that his gubernatorial candidacy will be backed by Andrew W. Mellon, Joseph R. Grundy, William S. Vare and Gen. Edward Martin, declined to "make any promises I cannot fulfill."

Gen. Edward C. Shannon failed to appear at last night's forum. So did George H. Earle and Judge Charles D. Copeland, Democratic candidates for the Governor's chair.

A demand to "give back to the people the right to select their own candidates" came from Benjamin G. Eynon, former state motor vehicle registrar and another gubernatorial aspirant.

Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., rival of Schnader and Eynon, charged the government with responsibility to protect its citizens from disease, accident, poverty through loss of employment, ill health, old age, poor environment and inadequate education.

Repeal of the liquor control act, the blue laws and the state ban on horse racing was pledged by Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell who seeks the Democratic nomination for Governor.

State Secretary of Agriculture John A. McSparran, whose name is on both major party tickets for Governor, said he will work for government economy, tax relief for realty and better state milk control.

Other gubernatorial candidates who addressed the 300 women were Charles J. Margiotti, Charles A. Dravo, Congressman Edward L. Stokes and Jay W. Sechler, Republicans, and Dr. Jesse H. Holmes, Socialist.

STEEDLE FACES SUMMONS

Controller D. J. Buckley, of McKees Rocks, today planned to have constables serve summonses upon State Representative Joseph G. Steedle, former burgess, and three other borough officials, demanding the surrender of the borough records for audit by Monday morning. Unless the books are surrendered at that time, Buckley threatened to order the arrest of the officials.

If the records are available to him, Buckley said, he will be enabled to speed the audit, which, he expects, will reveal gross waste and mismanagement. This, he says, has kept borough taxes high for years and has resulted in a deficit of $455,000 in the borough sinking fund, which contains but $25,000.

Steedle has been asked several times for the records, Buckley said, adding that the request also had been extended to Borough Treasurer H. D. Supinger, Borough Clerk George W. Gast and E. A. Sefler, former borough solicitor.

May Permit Women To Join Boosters

A special meeting of the Boosters' Club of Pittsburgh Lodge No. 46, L. O. O. M. will be held in Moose Temple tomorrow night, to discuss the advisability of admitting members of the Women of the Mooseheart Legion to membership in the club.

Arke Candidate In Fourth District

Favoring distribution of liquor to licensed wholesale dealers, Joseph E. Arke, insurance man, is a candidate for the Legislature in the Fourth District. Arke wants Sunday amusements, public ownership of utilities and social legislation.

Campaign Posters Disregard Warning

Pearson and Fisher Cards on Light or 'Phone Poles

In disregard of formal warning by the Civic Club of Allegheny County posters advertising the campaigns of at least two candidates for state Senate have appeared on telephone and light poles in the North Side and North Boroughs district.

For many blocks along East street can be seen the posters of Clarence A. Pearson, candidate for state Senate in the Forty-second District. Most of them are affixed to light poles.

Throughout several townships including important crossroads telephone poles have been plastered with the posters of Homer L. Fisher, candidate for Senate in the Fortieth District.

The Civic Club made a personal appeal to each candidate to refrain from the illegal desecration of either public or private property along highways with unsightly political advertising matter. Most of the hundreds of candidates have refrained from the use of such advertising matter.

United War Vets Arrange Meeting

A meeting of the Twenty-third Unit, United American Veterans' Association, is scheduled for tomorrow night at Latimer Jr. High School, Tripoli and James streets. H. D. Gold is chairman.

ASSEMBLYMAN ASKS RETURN

Entire support of the National Recovery Administration, as now administered, is advocated by William L. Brown, up for re-election in the Thirteenth Legislative District.

Pointing to a large measure of achievement in social legislation during his term of office, Brown advocates pushing the program still further.

He favors state-wide permanent registration, relief for farmers, unemployment insurance, liberalization of the workmen's compensation laws to afford equal opportunity for employment to those above as well as under 45.

The Shepherds of the Delectable Mountains ..... R. Vaughan Williams

The Pittsburgh A Capella Choir, under direction of Harvey B. Gaul, gave its second annual concert last night in Schenley ball room.

Because of its youth, I feel this choir has not yet acquired sufficient individuality to label its character, but one feature on does immediately sense, as with all choruses which Mr. Gaul directs, that he has already imbued all his singers with his own musical feelings and given them so soon quite an elastic phrase.

Mr. Lissfelt

Strangely enough the chorus was far more certain without the acccompanying strings, as in the Holst "Psalm," and attained excellent effects in the ancient songs of Bach and Palestrina. The trying Brahms' songs were a compliment to the efforts of the choir.

Later in the program a vocal ensemble from the Tuesday Musical Club joined in singing R. Vaughan Williams' "The Shepherd of the Delectable Mountains," directed by Ferdinand Fillion.

Helene Kremer, pianist, was soloist of the evening. Her Bach concerto was somewhat driven and determined, a little lacking in its genial humor. Better was her Russian music, some little played works of Stcherbatcheff, miniatures in the Schumann style, and Prokofieff's first sonata. Broad contrasts and more lyric singing tone marked her approach to this music. J. FRED LISSFELT.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

TARENTUM MAN SEEKS OFFICE

Characterizing himself as a Republican with independent ideas, Albert B. Davidson is running for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

A member of the Tarentum Borough Council 16 years and a former member of the House of Representatives, Davidson proposes a constitutional convention for revision of the state Constitution.

He wants a reduction of the gasoline tax, and return of part of the money collected by the motor license fund to cities, boroughs and townships.

Abolishment of tax on estates under $10,000, and of the four mill tax on municipal bonds, a more liberal soldiers' bonus, and permanent registration throughout the state are also on his program.

First Holy Land Film Stars Cantor

"The Dream of My People," first talking picture made in the Holy Land, will open at the Nixon Theater Monday, under sponsorship of the Mizrachi Junior Women of Pittsburgh. Featuring the late Cantor Joseph Rosenblatt, the picture shows life in Palistine.

ORCHIDS GIVEN CHURCH AIDE, NURSE

Unselfish devotion to friends and neighbors sends today's "Winchell orchids" to Miss Goldie M. Kirker, a nurse, of 15 Berry street, Baden, Pa., and Miss Minnie F. Edmundson, church visitor of Third United Presbyterian Church.

Miss Kirker gave up a trained nurse's position in a Pittsburgh hospital to attend, without pay, a sick friend in Providence Hospital, Beaver Falls.

For seven weeks Miss Kirker nursed the friend, 24 hours a day, and every week sent the patient's family a check covering expenses.

Recently, Miss Kirker also saved the life of a two-year-old child of a neighbor, who was stricken with convulsions. She revived the child by artificial respiration while a physician was summoned.

Miss Edmundson was nominated by her friends, because she "does twice as much as her position demands."

During the depression, Miss Edmundson has given financial help to many families in the congregation, helped them adjust themselves and has shouldered their responsibilities—all this without one word of complaint. One letter nominating her for an orchid stated:

"She gives her time, strength, love and efforts in the service of others."

The orchids were provided by members here of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association and are named for Walter Winchell, the Sun-Telegraph's Broadway columnist.

SCHWAB'S OLD TEACHER DIES

Ambrose Laughlin, 87, Franciscan brother and one-time teacher of mathematics in the parochial schools of the North Side, died yesterday at St. Francis College, Loretto, Pa., after an illness of three months.

Brother Ambrose, the oldest third order regular Franciscan in America, taught in the schools of Pittsburgh, Germantown, Altoona and Johnstown, before becoming a professor in mathematics at St. Francis College.

Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate whose home is in Loretto, was once a pupil of Laughlin. The funeral will be held in the College Chapel Friday, with Bishop John J. McCort, of the Altoona Diocese, in charge.

LUCKIES are All-Ways kind to your throat

so round, so firm, so fully packed—no loose ends that's why you'll find Luckies do not dry out

We think you'd be impressed if you saw Luckies being made. You'd see those clean, silky center leaves—and you really wouldn't have to be a tobacco expert to know why farmers get higher prices for them. They are the mildest leaves—they taste better.

You'd be impressed by Lucky Strike's famous process—"It's toasted"—designed for your throat protection. And we know that you'll be truly fascinated when you see how Luckies are rolled round and firm, and fully packed with long golden strands of choice tobaccos. That's why Luckies "keep in condition"—why you'll find that Luckies do not dry out—an important point to every smoker. And you'll get the full meaning of our statement that Luckies are always in all-ways kind to your throat.

e as Much Chic in a Cape Ensemble

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Twice as much chic—that's the fashion secret of this cape ensemble. On the street, one likes a wrap of some sort, and a snappy detachable cape will do the trick! When removed there's a truly smart frock. We've made a large sketch of the frock so that you can study its chic lines. The raglan sleeves have an inverted pleat for added interest, the neckline is cut square and is finished with a crisp bow pulled through slashes. Pleats lend delightful animation to the skirt. Print or monotone would be good—in one of the new novelty cottons, in crepe, linen or silk.

Pattern 1827 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 4⅜ yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coin preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE LATEST EDITION OF THE PATTERN BOOK features all the best seasonal styles for adults and children. Send for your copy of this interesting, helpful book and be chic. PRICE OF BOOK 15 CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER 25 CENTS.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Second Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a young divorcee and I am about to be married again. I would like to know the correct form of invitation to send to my near friends and relations. It is going to be a very simple wedding. I'll have no guests at the church, but I am going to have a breakfast after the wedding, and I would like to know the best form of inviting the few people I am inviting. Should the invitations be written or printed?

CONSTANT READER

Write your invitations in the form of a personal note. For such an informal wedding, with so few guests, it would not be in good form, not consistent, to have formal invitations.

Your note would read something like this:

Dear Jane:

Tom and I are going to be married on Tuesday, the first of June, at twelve o'clock at the United Church. We aren't going to have any guests at the marriage at the church, but we do want to have our close relatives and close friends with us after the ceremony, at an informal breakfast at my home. So you and Jack will be with us, won't you, to give us your best wishes? Will you both make us happy by coming to my home at about half after twelve?

Dearest love to you both.
Devotedly,
Mary.

Flowers for Miss Seventeen

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Is there a certain kind of flower that should be sent for birthdays? The person I have in mind is a young girl of 17. Would roses be proper?

2—Should an uncertain guest at dinner watch his host for proper table manners?

BILL.

1—There is no certain flower that especially "should" be sent for birthdays. But gardenias have become the most popular flower to send as a corsage. And they are especially appropriate for a corsage for a young lady of 17. Gardenias are always becoming; their glistening whiteness harmonizes with all kinds of costumes and colors; their beautiful leaves are all that is necessary for background decoration, that is, they need no ferns or other greenery; and they are inexpensive.

If you especially wish to send roses, and still wish to send a corsage, the tiny pink sweetheart-roses are delightfully appropriate as a corsage for a young lady of 17. They may be used alone . . . and this is best, I think . . . or they may be combined with lilies-of-the-valley. Or if you prefer to send a box of flowers, instead of a corsage, any kind of roses is appropriate.

2—Yes . . . either the host or hostess!

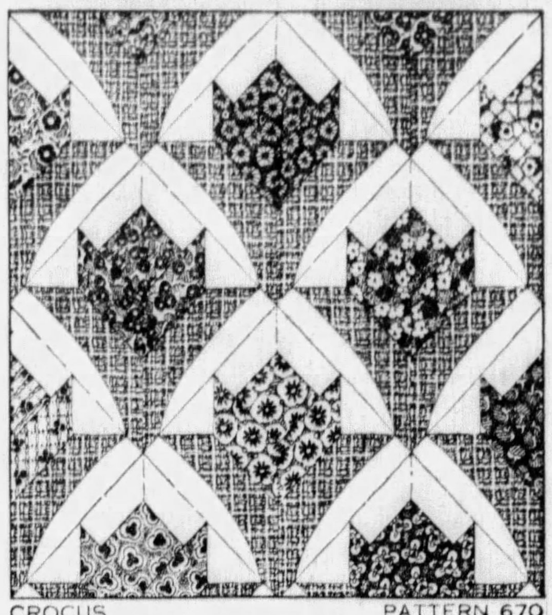
Presbytery Leader Foe of Pearl Buck

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—(AP.)—Pledged to support the Board of Foreign Missions' acceptance of the resignation of Pearl Buck, missionary to China and author, who criticized her church, Dr. Herbert Booth Smith will head the largest delegation of any presbytery of the Presbyterian Church to the General Assembly in Cleveland May 24.

The local presbytery, which will send 26 delegates, also said Dr. Smith would be a candidate for the moderatorship.

LAURA WHEELER DESIGNS



CROCUS PATTERN 670

Simple Colorful Quilt

With what delight we discover the gay yellow and lovely purple flowers of the crocus, that first spring flower! Crocus, in a very simple block, reproduces the flower and offers the needlewoman the opportunity of making a quilt as colorful as a scattered patch of crocus. The flowers could be made all of the same color if preferred instead of in different materials as shown. This quilt will add a decoratie touch to any bedroom and at the same time be distinctive in design.

Pattern 670 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

ZARO AGHA SHY ON GLAND TEST

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 19.—(AP.)—Dr. Serge Voronoff, famous French gland specialist, has requested that a medical test be made in an attempt to determine Zaro Agha's real age, but the reluctance of Turkey's Methuselah may prevent. Zaro claims to be 160 years old.

Dr. Voronoff, who has conducted many experiments in rejuvenation by the transplantation of glands, asked a Turkish physician, Dr. Sabit Behdjet, to examine Zaro, using his specialized method, and then report the result.

The old man so far has remained adamant, however, evidently fearing to risk the experiment.

JUNIOR PATROL

It's fine if you have a good sense of humor, fellows!

Not so long ago we printed some jokes here in the mail box and lots of our members seemed to like them.

How about sending in some more jokes, fellows! Or maybe you can write some jokes of your own. Try it anyway.

Down in Washington, our country's capital, the Japanese cherry trees are in bloom, fellows. People come from miles around to see them, they are so beautiful. Only a few of the trees and bushes and flowers around here are blooming yet, but they soon will be. And so we are saying now that we hope our Junior Patrol members will help to keep the trees beautiful.

Don't tear off branches, fellows, just because they are covered with beautiful blossoms. Breaking off branches spoils the beauty of the tree, and the blossoms don't grow and become fruit as they might if they were left one. Then, too, we all know that we shouldn't damage property that belongs to somebody else. Never break branches off trees that don't belong to you unless you ask the owner for his permission.

Thousands have Ended their Bowel Worries

by taking this advice!

Can constipation safely be relieved? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say the many thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not likely to cure your constipation with salts, pills, tablets or any of the habit-forming cathartics. But you can safely relieve this condition by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

THE LIQUID TEST:

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Simple, isn't it? And it works! The right liquid laxative brings thorough bowel action without using force. An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, and perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna, a natural laxative; the dose can be measured, and the action thus regulated to suit your individual need.

If there are children in your household, don't give them any fad form of laxative, but use a healthful, helpful preparation like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Its very taste will tell you it is wholesome, and agreeable to the stomach. Delightful taste, and delightful action; there is no discomfort at the time, or after. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, all ready to take.

A Frank Statement Concerning Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

We believe the use of pills and tablets containing mineral drugs is rapidly giving way to gentle regulation of the bowels with a liquid laxative.

And we know it is a safe preparation for children and expectant mothers because it does not cause bowel strain or irritate the kidneys.

THE GIRL WHO HAD NEVER BEEN KISSED

HOW IT WORKS

Now, thanks to a great scientific discovery you can quickly make dull, dingy teeth lustrous, sparkling—shades whiter. All you need do is start using antiseptic KOLYNOS—a half-inch on a dry brush morning and night. You'll be surprised at the way this wonderful dental cream cleans and brightens teeth.

KOLYNOS acts differently. It contains finest cleansing and polishing agents plus an important ingredient dentists say is necessary to remove the "bacteria plaque" that makes teeth so dingy and unattractive looking.

This extra cleansing KOLYNOS gives teeth is impossible to obtain by ordinary brushing methods. That is why KOLYNOS will clean and whiten your teeth so much better and faster than anything else you can use. Try it. You'll say it's wonderful.

KOLYNOS DENTAL CREAM

A MAN MUST EAT EVEN ON WASHDAY

READ MRS. JENKINS' LETTER

Mrs. Howard S. Jenkins
Bastrop, Texas

"Thanks to Oxydol, washday has become a normal day in our household, and my family is no longer made conscious of its drudgery with makeshift meals and the unnatural disposition of a too tired mother."

(AN ACTUAL EXPERIENCE FROM REAL LIFE)

Wash Day Like Any Other Day Now

. . . Clothes are Whiter—Brighter—Last Longer!

IF you, too, want the far faster, far whiter way in washing that Mrs. Jenkins has found—then you are urged to try this latest discovery of the Procter & Gamble experts, makers of famous Ivory—the New and Improved OXYDOL!

It does 3 things no other soap can do or has ever done;

Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Hence, gives you your afternoon free!

Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by the scientific whiteness-measuring Tintometer test. Whiter EVEN than other granulated soaps (heretofore considered "whitest washing") can do in TWO washings!

Yet, due to its utterly new and improved formula, colors won't fade; fabric won't wear out! Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. Yet, despite its amazing cleaning power, it leaves hands soft, finger nails lustrous and uncracked.

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt. OXYDOL SOAKS dirt out in 15 minutes. So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

The New and Improved OXYDOL will make thick "soft water suds" in any water, hard or soft. Without added "softener" or washing preparations. This is why:

It is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it's sold.

Water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. And the OXYDOL you get here contains just the right amount of softener to fit it.

You can see the results in the suds. OXYDOL multiplies 500 TIMES in suds—suds as rich as whipped dairy cream! Which means at least twice as much "soap action" as from old-style soaps.

Equally important is the fact that OXYDOL, by dissolving completely, rinses out completely. Thus banishes "soap streaks" from ironing.

And OXYDOL is economical. In buying many ordinary granulated or flake soaps you may have to spend as much as 8¢ to 30¢ more to get the same amount of soap. By buying OXYDOL, you get, in some cases, as much as one-third more soap for the same money.

Make This Test

Get OXYDOL today from your grocer and make this two-way test: (1) With a ruler, measure OXYDOL's thick suds and compare with the suds made by your usual soap—note how long they last; (2) watch the clock to prove to yourself that OXYDOL does soak out the dirt in 15 minutes!

EIGHT EVICTION RIOTERS FREED AFTER TILT WITH M'NAIR

3 GIRLS RACING HAND IN HAND HIT BY AUTO

2 Other Children Hurt When They Run Into Machines

Three South Side children were reported recovering in South Side Hospital today from injuries sustained late yesterday when they were struck by an automobile in Carson street at South Ninth street.

They are Patricia Clark, 4, and Helen Ploschonski, 5, of 54 South Ninth street, and Olga Chorney, 5, of 818 Cabot way. Holding hands, they were racing across Carson street when they were struck by the automobile of Joseph Sokol, 23, of 810 Selby way, according to police.

AUTOS COLLIDE

Albert Biegenho, 25, of Verona, was injured seriously late yesterday when his automobile collided with another at Broad and Whitfield streets. The other car, according to police, was driven by Andrew Dugo, 28, of 5011 Penn avenue.

Dugo's brother, Verner, 19, and Adele Ventura, 18, of 621 Marie street, also were injured. The drivers were arrested on reckless driving charges, police reported.

William Zelie, 6, of 6529 Lyric street, was injured when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mansfield Cole, 21, Negro, of 7246 Mt. Vernon street, according to a police report.

DASHES INTO MACHINE

Gloria Lapiana, 5, of 535 Findley street, was injured when she ran into the side of an automobile driven by John McCool, 23, of 7030 Chaucer street, in Mt. Vernon street, yesterday, according to a police report.

Mary Froelich, 3, of 155 Forty-fourth street, was injured yesterday when she ran into the side of an automobile driven by Carl Johnston, 26, of 5203 Stanton avenue, according to a police report. The accident occurred at Forty-fourth and Foster streets.

Michael Kupiciek, 15, of 1015 Freyburg street, was injured late yesterday when the truck on which he was stealing a ride was bumped by an automobile in traffic at Forbes street and Sixth avenue, according to a police report. George Alker, 23, of 132 South Twenty-fifth street, driver of the automobile, was arrested. The truck on which Kupiciek was riding was driven by Samuel Rubino, of 905 East street, police reported.

PRISONER HURT IN POLICE CELL

Robert Hill, 34, Negro, of Shomin street, was in Allegheny General Hospital with lacerations and a possible skull fracture, sustained, police said, when he resisted the efforts of three Central Station policemen to take him out of his cell.

Police said he slipped and struck his head against the cell bars.

Hill had been arrested an hour earlier at Second avenue and Cherry alley when Patrolman Martin Lappe found him, he reported, with two sweaters and suspenders in his possession. Hill attempted to resist arrest and Lappe, drawing his gun, compelled the prisoner to handcuff his own hands.

Name Supervisor For Slum-Razing

Lee T. Sellars has been appointed supervisor in the City Division of Housing and Sanitary Inspection in order to continue the city's slum-razing program. The job pays $166 a month. He recently resigned as a laborer in the Bureau of Sanitation, but has been given the new job by Health Director Ray P. Moyer.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 19.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The famous "Wirt Dinner," proved one thing, that is that these highbrows can't remember what happened at their dinners, any more than us dumb ones can remember what happens at ours. What difference does it make what was said at a dinner anyhow. If its a real dinner and everybody is going good, there wont be anything said anyhow.

Will Rogers

You know there is two places where what a person says should not be held against 'em in a court of law, one is at a dinner, and the other on the witness stand of a Washington investigation. Both affairs are purely social, and should be covered only by the society editor.

Yours,
WILL.

URGE ILL-NEEDY PRESCRIPTION RULE EASING

Doctors Recommend New Procedure to Relief Director

An investigation by the medical relief advisory committee of the Allegheny County Medical Society has determined that the ill-needy here in a "relatively small number of cases have experienced difficulty and delay in obtaining relief prescriptions, their report today states.

Under present rules there is a limit of two prescriptions for each medical case unless special permission is obtained for more orders.

Moving energetically to remedy conditions, the doctors recommend to Dr. Harold Miller, state medical relief director, and to George P. Mills, Allegheny County relief director, a new prescription procedure.

FUND LACK INVESTIGATED

They ask that a prescription authorization accompany each medical order with a second authorization to be issued upon the physician's request and more after that upon an explanation of the need.

Charges made a week ago by the Employe Pharmacists' Association that the State Emergency Relief Board has failed to provide sufficient funds for drugs are without foundation, the committee reports.

Dr. Miller, the doctors explain, points out that payments for prescriptions are made from the general relief fund. This means they say, that there will be money for drugs as long as a general relief fund exists.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROBLEM

To put 60 unemployed pharmacists back to work, the Employe Pharmacists' Association last week suggested a set-up of state operated drug dispensaries for the needy. In reply, the committee's report reads:

"The proposal that state operated drug stores be organized seems to be an illogical solution to a problem in which the entire difficulty is one of administrative procedure and not one involving the present set-up of retail drug outlets."

The committee confined its investigation to the question of adequate medical care, including necessary medication, according to Lester H. Perry, executive secretary of the Allegheny County Medical Association.

ECONOMY BOARD AT CITY HALL

The Efficiency and Economy Commission of Pittsburgh, appointed by the Western Pennsylvania Branch of the National Economy League to study municipal expenditures, moved into City Hall today.

The Mayor's budget advisor, Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, was on hand to introduce the secretary of the commission, Henry J. Horn, to department heads.

On Monday the commission is to meet with Mayor McNair and Council to discuss the survey. The commission intends to invite industrial experts to study the operation of the city's government and suggest money-saving changes. The commission has been assigned the fifth-floor office in City Hall formerly occupied by Mrs. Smith.

WRITE COUNCIL ON RENT TAX, MAYOR URGES

Free Housing Mail Poll Suggested at East Liberty Meet

And now it looks as if City Council is in for a third post card poll with Mayor McNair as the promoter.

His Honor suggested the poll last night in making an urgent appeal for his 10 per cent ground rent tax and free housing plan before the Filangiere Club in Larimer Avenue School.

The Mayor said:

"Council doesn't act because the people don't tell them what they want. If they got half as many postcards as I did in the daylight poll, they'd pass both measures tomorrow."

Immediately candidates Harry A. Eigenrauch, Jr., for State Senate in the Forty-fourth District, and Frank Policastro, for Congress in the Thirty-third District, began a campaign to get out the postcard vote.

Both candidates were indorsed by McNair at the meeting. They, along with McNair, out for governorship, were indorsed by the audience of some 200.

McNair, however, failed in the featured event of the evening, the presentation of a model of McNair Manor to the high school student who could explain Gov. Pinchot's platform.

There were no high school students present.

So McNair did a little explaining himself:

"Pinchot says he's for an honest tariff—there never was an honest tariff—was there ever an honest thief?"

Turning his guns next on Charles J. Margiotti, out for Republican nomination for Governor, McNair wisecracked:

"Margiotti says he's heart and soul for the people. Well, that's easy. Is there any candidate who dares say he's against the people."

A little sidelight on the Mayor was provided by his secretary, Theodore L. Moritz, who said that McNair, while viewing the idle crowd in the City-County Building entrance, once suggested:

"Wouldn't it be nice if we had benches out here on the sidewalk where people could sit and sip their beer and wine."

COMPLETE PITT DRIVE GROUPS

Five major groups soon will be actively at work in the effort to raise $1,650,000 for the University of Pittsburgh's Cathedral of Learning, Homer D. Williams announced today.

Three—Primary Gifts, Corporations and Citizens committees—are already at work or being organized. Arthur E. Braun, chairman of the first, and Joseph C. Trees, chairman of the second, are holding meetings twice a week. Thomas Fitzgerald, chairman of the Citizens Committee, is enlisting vice chairmen, who in turn will select group leaders for the general campaign to follow soon.

Hundreds of women will aid Pitt in completing its building, it developed today as plans matured for organization of women of the district.

Johnston Names Public Works Aide

Appointment of William B. Shafer, 5525 Kentucky avenue, as assistant superintendent of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers at a salary of $2,500 yearly, was announced today by Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston.

Shafer, a former superintendent on CWA projects, succeeds Frank E. Richards, who resigned today, according to Johnston.

Worker Hurt in Fall From Garage Roof

Falling from the roof of a garage on which he was working, William Nebo, of Maple street, Homestead, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries. He was taken to Homestead Hospital.

Gypsy Vanishes, So Does Housewife's $509

Particularly is the gypsy wanted by Mrs. Viola Druisor, of 206 West Fourteenth street, Homestead whose $509 vanished as mysteriously as the gypsy and her magic powder.

Mrs. Druisor told Homestead police the soothsayer called on her yesterday afternoon and impressed upon her her powers of gazing into the future and warding off illness.

Not feeling so well, Mrs. Druisor said she listened and obeyed. While the gypsy took her magic powder from an envelope and produced sweet smelling perfume on the kitchen stove (incense to you), she calmly wrapped what Mrs. Druiser thought was her $509 in a red handkerchief, left the handkerchief with the woman and departed to return in an hour.

When the hour passed, Mrs. Druiser became apprehensive, opened the handkerchief and found a bundle of paper.

30 North Side Women Refuse McNair Manors

Those Virginia Drinks Must Do Queer Things

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

We don't know what they mix down in the old dominion. But a drink of it will make a Virginia creeper start up the Washington monument a mile a minute.

There's only one real revolutionist in the world. That's Trotzky. He's never been in Virginia. Trotzky hates all governments. Including the ones he starts himself.

We want to know about this drinking party in a dry state. Virginia has local option on alcohol. That means you can apply it locally. It seems they do.

The whole thing was an optical illusion. The party thought the world was in revolution just because the room was going around.

Mayor Quits Eviction Protest Delegates In Angry Mood

Seeking to pacify a large group of North Side women demanding that the police not interfere in demonstrations at evictions, Mayor McNair has offered to build them each a little McNair Manor of their own.

No one has yet accepted his offer.

The group came to see the Mayor yesterday to protest the evictions in the Woods Run district and to ask his intercession for three women jailed in connection with the riot there.

The Mayor, after calling police to obtain a release for the women on their own recognizance, decided to try his housing idea on a group of about 30 gathered about his desk. He began thus:

"How many here, if I gave them a lot for a little McNair Manor and had it built for them, would live in it?"

There was a show of a few hands.

Said the emphatic spokesman:

"Mayor, that house wasn't built for a stout woman."

A wave of laughter and loud talk filled the room. The Mayor persisted in his offer, saying:

"I say the city will give you a deed to a lot. What more do you want?"

He called to Theodore L. Moritz, secretary and police magistrate, to take names of those who had held up hands, but they refused to be identified.

One of the women asked that the Mayor indorse unemployment insurance. The Mayor shouted:

"A lot of baloney."

At this particular point both the Mayor and his office furnishings appeared in danger. The Mayor rose in anger and left the room. As he went out he said:

"Since you won't accept a house, goodby, all of you."

Gradually the angry muttering died down and the crowd shuffled its way over the luxurious rug toward the outer office.

MAYOR MAKES 'RED CHARGE' AT HEARING

Single Tax Plea Fails To Impress Leader Of Jobless

Four women and four men, arrested yesterday in the Woods Run eviction riot, were discharged in Morals Court today after a heated argument between Mayor McNair and one of the prisoners.

After Edward Pretshold, 40, had identified himself as secretary of the Unemployed Council's eviction committee, the Mayor, who sat alongside Magistrate J. W. McGowan, accused the council of being Communistic.

Presthold denied this. The argument became heated. McNair retorted:

"You ought to be preaching the single tax."

Presthold:

McNair:

NORTH SIDE BATTLE

Pretshold was one of nine arrested in the fighting which took place when George and Nancy Chubeck were evicted from their flat at 3007 Preble avenue yesterday. One hundred police battled 500 embittered North Siders. The ninth prisoner, Ray Bellic, 40, of Ontario street, was wounded in the leg by a bullet from the pistol of Plainclothesman John Scanlon, who was himself beaten. Bellic will be arraigned later.

When the women prisoners were jailed Mayor McNair obtained their release on recognizance. Today, when all were released, Magistrate McGowan warned them not to interfere with deputy sheriffs.

FIND NEW HOME

Assistant Police Supt. Andrew Charles informed the magistrate that the police had obtained another house for the Chubecks and had paid the $5 moving bill.

Chubeck and his wife were among the prisoners discharged today. The others were Edward and Adelle Pretshold, of Brighton road; John Kushik, 40, and daughters, Mary and Katherine, of Doerr street; Tony Wuboya, of Preble avenue.

The eviction riot yesterday followed revelations earlier in the week that approximately 66,000 Allegheny County families face eviction for non-payment of rent due to the lack of funds of the County Relief Board or other welfare agencies.

It served, relief leaders declared today, to put additional stress on the present "unfair" conditions existing in the relief-rent situation, not only to landlords but to tenants as well.

Relief officials declared that the relief-rent problem proved the necessity for an early special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature to set up effective welfare machinery.

RELIEF BOARD PLEA

Members of the State Relief Board will be greeted at their meeting today with a deluge of telegrams and letters urging they request Gov. Gifford Pinchot to call the special session.

Under existing conditions, families on relief are given only one month's rent after receipt of final notice for eviction. Under County Relief Board rules, the money must be paid to the new landlord instead of the evicting property owner.

SING SPIRITUALS AT EVICTION

While a group of friends sang Negro spirituals and scores of neighbors listened, a Negro family of seven was evicted from its home at 1213 Hazel street today and moved, without disorder, into another house.

When information of the eviction became known, the Unemployed Council intervened with the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, which arranged to transfer the evicted family to new quarters.

About 200 persons gathered for the eviction, but stood idly by while 10 others mounted the porch and sang.

Wharf Proposed as Site For McNair's 'Soapbox'

The Point or the wharf has been suggested as an alternate location for Mayor McNair's shrines of free speech by a group of North Side businessmen.

The present plan for the shrines would place them in West Diamond street near the spot where the Mayor was once arrested at a political meeting, and at the bandstand in West Park.

Council has asked the police department for recommendations for the best locations for the forums. A delegation asked them yesterday not to allow the use of the shrines because of the type of persons who would attend the meetings.

The Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, pointed out that Union Church services are held in July and August near the proposed location of one of the shrines. He said:

"Why not locate it at the wharf or the Point, where the folks could learn some history."

Others in the group making the protest were Frank E. Tencate, William McElderry, J. G. Shaw and H. O. Horner. McElderry represented the estate of Martha A. Jamison, which donated the bandstand on which the speaking is scheduled.

NEWS SERVICE JUBILEE ON AIR

WASHINGTON, April 19.—A message from President Roosevelt on freedom of the press will be presented for the first time in two programs to be broadcast Saturday in connection with the twenty-fifth anniversary of International News Service.

The message will be read by Harry von Zell, noted announcer of the "March of Time," before he presents Joseph V. Connolly, president of International News Service, over the WABC-Columbia network at 4:45 p. m. Mr. Connolly will speak on the subject of "The Twenty-five Years That Changed the World," and tell some of the factors which have made the period between 1909-1934 the most eventful quarter-century in the world's history, in the opinion of historians.

The message will also be presented at 6:30 p. m., when Floyd Gibbons talks over the WEAF-NBC coast-to-coast chain and lists the 25 greatest news stories of the last 25 years, as chosen by Arthur Brisbane, noted editor and columnist. Mr. Gibbons has arranged for William A. Curley, editor of the New York Evening Journal, to speak briefly at the end of this program in behalf of the 400 International News Service client newspapers.

'BAKER HEIRS' MAIL SEIZED

Postoffice Inspector L. C. Kennedy today had possession of postcard notices to so-called "Baker heirs" of Philadelphia property, inviting them to attend a meeting held Tuesday night in North School, Duquesne way.

He declined to say what he intended to do with them, but asserted that an investigation has been under way in Philadelphia to determine if postal frauds were committed by some of those at the head of various groups interested in the "Baker heir" activities.

G. H. Dennison, manager of the Better Business Bureau, said he had received a letter from Philip Dewey, state secretary of the interior, characterizing the "Baker heir" claims to downtown Philadelphia property, estimated worth more than a billion dollars, as a "gigantic fraud."

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION
In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

Employers Asked To Help Graduates

The Department of Vocational Guidance, co-operating with the Junior Division, United States Employment Service, is making an appeal for work in behalf of high school, trade school and college graduates, it was learned today through J. D. Stask, Pittsburgh public school official.

Stask points out no provisions have been made for the hopeful young men and women just out of school and he is asking employers to help young graduates, many of whom are the sole support of families.

Government Seeks To Recover Refund

A suit was filed in Federal Court by the government against Mrs. Jane McElveen Patton, of Pittsburgh, seeking to recover $1,270.78, of which $1,182.91 was alleged to have been erroneously refunded her by the Commissioner of Internat Revenue on March 18, 1932. The balance sought covers interest from the latter date.

The amount represents income taxes for 1929, on income from a residuary trust fund created by her late husband, Frank B. Patton, according to the statement of claim.

MR. LEWIS T. MACINTOSH, 1878 E. 9th St., Brooklyn, N. Y., who made two trips from New York to Philadelphia—and learned a lesson in thrift.

HE LEARNED ABOUT THRIFT on U. S. Highway #1

Want to burn less oil and get better lubrication? Want to cut your oil costs from 10% to 50%? Then read Mr. MacIntosh's surprising story . . .

"I'M a salesman," says Mr. MacIntosh, "and I use my car plenty."

"I recently made two trips from New York to Philadelphia. On my first trip I used a well-known 25c oil—and had to add my first quart in just 75 miles.

"On my second trip I used Gulf-lube, and got all the way to Philadelphia—41% farther—before my oil level dropped a quart. That's a saving!"

Right! But cutting oil costs is nothing new to Gulf-lube! For last year the American Automobile Ass'n tested 4 famous 25c oils in borrowed, average cars—and Gulf-lube out-lasted every oil in every car!

JUMPING OFF PLACE—George Washington Bridge, New York. From New York, Mr. MacIntosh started both of his trips to Philadelphia, on which he tested Gulf-lube against another well-known 25c oil.

"CRADLE OF LIBERTY"—Independence Hall, Philadelphia. Using Gulf-lube, Mr. MacIntosh got all the way to Philadelphia—41% more miles—before a quart of oil was consumed!

WHERE WASHINGTON CROSSED the Delaware—but not on this modern bridge. On Mr. MacIntosh's first trip, using his regular 25c oil, he reached this point (near Morrisville, N. J.) before his oil level dropped a quart.

New Oil test detects motor dirt! Gulf has a new oil test that instantly shows whether or not your oil is dangerously dirty! No cost. No obligation. Ask about it. At all Gulf Stations.

PITT CATHEDRAL 'VISIBILITY PATROL' . . . . THEY SEE HOW FAR AWAY THEN CAN SEE IT

MAPPING TOWER VANTAGE SPOTS

A group of University of Pittsburgh students prepared today to answer that question. By automobile they planned a "visibility tour" to map the points on main highways in the Pittsburgh district from which the Cathedral can be sighted.

Some of these spots are believed to be 30 miles and more away. When they have been charted, the students will hand their map to university officials.

YOUTH FREED, JAILED AGAIN

Released only last week from an Ohio reformatory, Stanley Secrist, 24, of Reynoldsville, Pa., was sentenced to two years in federal prison by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker today on a plea of guilty to a charge of looting the mails.

Secrist was arrested by postal authorities in March, 1932, for stealing two letters from rural mail boxes near his home. It was found that he was then a fugitive from the Ohio reformatory from which he had escaped in 1927.

The youth was sent back to serve his Ohio term and then returned here last Saturday on the federal charge after completing his reformatory sentence.

Dormont Girl In Leading Role

Miss Maxine Foster, of 3100 Pinehurst avenue, Dormont, has the leading role in "The Meal Ticket," a three-act comedy to be presented by the senior class of Dormont High School. The play is to be held in the school auditorium on Hillsdale avenue at 8 p. m. tomorrow. Russell Evans has the other role.

Socialists to Hold Rally on May Day

May Day, labor's international holiday, will be celebrated April 29 in West Park bandstand, North Side. Speakers will be Max Winter, former Socialist vice mayor of Vienna, and Darlington Hoopes, Socialist member of the State Legislature from Berks County.

The meeting will be held under the joint auspices of the Young Peoples' Socialist League and the Socialist party of Allegheny County.

Man Held in West Not Store Bandit

A report that Benjamin Stokes, leader of the fatal Boggs & Buhl holdup here in 1921, was arrested in Yakima, Wash., was spiked by police today. A tip was received from the coast town that a prisoner being held there resembled Stokes, but further description forwarded here by officials revealed he was not the man, according to Homicide Lieut. Frank Ferris.

SAINT-GAUDENS VIEWS NAZI ART

BERLIN, April 19.—(AP.)—The art of painting in Germany has not yet been affected by the Nazi revolution, says Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts at the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh. He declared today:

"If the general trend of German life is to be in the direction of heroic art, this has not been observed in the realm of painting.

"Nor is there any special indication that the community spirit favoring wiping out class distinction, for which the Nazi government stands, has made itself manifest in art. Artists go on painting as they did before.

"My impression is that the Nazi government up to this time has been too busy with other problems to get around to art. I find German art getting a little more gracious, very introspective and more objective than in previous years, but I do not believe this had anything to do with the revolution."

Saint-Gaudens is on his annual tour of Europe to select European paintings for the institute's annual exhibition. He explained that the German exhibits would consist of the works of both Nazi and non-Nazi painters.

DENTISTS, AIDES MEET SAME DAY

Instead of playing while the "boss" is away, dental hygienists of Western Pennsylvania will hold their annual convention in Pittsburgh this year at the same time the Dental Association holds its annual meeting—May 1, 2, 3.

The hygienists, chiefly dentists' assistants and oral hygiene instructors in schools, will have headquarters in the William Penn Hotel.

BUILDING GAINS REPORTED NEAR

The new activity in construction is not far away, in the belief of Hugh Potter, of Houston, Tex., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, in an address at the annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board in Hotel Schenley.

Potter also predicted the establishment of a mortgage refinancing agency by the government in the form of a federal discount mortgage bank. Long-term financing through such channels will restore confidence to the real estate business, he said.

Pardon Plea Made For Holdup Man

Application for a pardon for John J. Majewski, sentenced to a 10-to-20-year prison term in October, 1929, after conviction of the holdup of two East End drug stores, was heard yesterday by the Pardon Board at Harrisburg, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

One of the City's Biggest Bankers Told Us This Week

"You are to be congratulated for the work you are doing in promulgating the idea of thrift, and inculcating regularity in payment of obligations. Your budget system is ideal for this purpose".

Them's pretty big words, Mr. Banker, but we get your thought, and it is absolutely sound. We sell at ONE price—whether it be for cash, on thirty-day charge, or the budget. Our prices, furthermore, are competitive—in that we will refund the money of any purchaser who can buy goods of comparable quality at a lesser price. That is because of the fact that we're aligned with some 108 other stores in buying our merchandise, and buy it as cheaply as does any buying group in the country. Remember, then, that at Harris' there are:

3 WAYS TO BUY Your New Spring Clothes

No. 1. Cash. No. 2. Regular Monthly (or department store) charge. No. 3. Budget Charge (with many months to settle your bill).

And those of you who are burdened with huge monthly bills, or who prefer to keep your cash in bank, and pay out of income, should open a Budget Charge with us. For this purpose we print below one of our standard forms, which you can fill out and mail to us.

The Budget account enables you to take a much longer time in payment of your obligations, at NO EXTRA COST. Do it now, while you think of it—fill out this application and enjoy, with thousands of others, the advantages of SYSTEMATIC saving. We will not let you OVERspend. You WILL keep your purchases within your means. That's the FIRST step in getting your finances ORGANIZED and under control.

How to judge Scotch whisky

The expert tests Scotch whisky by the nose and by the palate. To tell a good whisky by the nose is rather difficult, unless you are an expert, but most people can rely on their palate, and if you have a sensitive palate you should have no difficulty in detecting the fine qualities of WHITE HORSE.

"Marrying" of WHITE HORSE

In the process of blending WHITE HORSE only the choicest makes of Scotch whisky are selected. These are matured for many years in sherry-wood before blending. After the first blending operation WHITE HORSE is allowed to lie in wood for a further period, in order to allow the whisky to become properly "married". In course of time, the contents of the casks are reblended and again allowed to lie in the wood. The American public will without doubt appreciate all this time and care involved in the blending and reblending, or "marrying" of WHITE HORSE whisky before it is bottled. There is no variation in the quality of WHITE HORSE whether you obtain it in Glasgow, London, New York or San Francisco, and a more mellow, generous and refreshing spirit is not to be had. This Real Old Scotch, which is the senior Whisky of Scotland, will sustain the tone and dignity of any Club, or home however luxurious or modest.

The last word in springiness! That new scent that one of the well-known English firms is putting out done up in a little raffia-wrapped bottle...green and white. About a half ounce of Devon Lily perfume . . . a true lily of the valley odeur that made us think we had our face in a patch of the plant themselves! $1.00.

"Here comes the bride" is no idle jest these days! You can find remains of rice and orange blossoms on most church steps 'round now . . . and being in tune with the times we dug about and discovered something that will be welcomed for some of the many bridal festivities.

Bridge scores and tallies . . . matching . . . and in white and silver are the latest. The tallies at 4 for 12c . . . the scores at 10c . . . making your whole table cost but 22c! The score being revised contract and auction, of course. And we're told that this is something bride-entertainers go long distances to find!

Have you seen Lanvin's new mask jewelry? It's in silver or gold metal . . . comes in clips or bracelets . . . and is just the shape of a long mask with slits cut for eyes! Quite a novel idea when your frock shines through the slits! Costing $1.00.

Brand new! Blouses, little dears! Blouses! Snooty ones that went ritzing around at $12 once-upon-a-time! And are now being taken down from their erstwhile high-horse and priced at $3.00!

There are silk knits! Crepes! Whites, and pale shades! One pale green moire with folded bandings at the neck and trick rhinestone buttons! A stunning oxblood-red crepe with high neck and mirrored button! Just the sort that lots of us business girls like . . . and others, too! At $3.00 . . . we say again! Check this on your memo pad!

And with blouses on the brain (if not on our backs) it's the most natural thing in the world for us to keep right on until we end up on the suit subject.

Especially being as how we know where real Harris tweed suits are growing these days for only $22.50 and $27.50. There being but two of the regular suit type (short coated) and but one of the swagger coat type...and each one of the three being a BIG BARGAIN for those of you who toddle in there FIRST and grab them. The short coats are size 16 ...at $22.50...the swagger, an 18, at $27.50. And each of them is knocked down and out for these special prices as a clearaway in a cash sale. Brown shades in that cedar-ish cast.

A bright and bullying ribbon, which to fly from your masthead as you sail the fashion sea! A veritable Jolly Roger of a ribbon . . . for a hat . . . a glove-ruffle . . . or a mere bow. And you can get it in inch . . . inch-and-a-quarter . . . and wider measures. Polkadotted thickly as little polkadotters like it! In cire or grosgrain . . . navy, red and brown with white spatterings. As low at 23c the yard!

HARDY STRAWS AND SOFT FELTS FOR WEAR WITH TWEEDS

By PRUNELLA WOOD

WHAT HAVE the man-hatters done for the feminine contingent this spring? Plenty, and they have done it very well, too. For we can find sailor hats of the rough straw variety that we used to wear year in and year out with our shirtwaist frocks; there are plenty of stiff straw hats that have brims not at all nautical; and, my word, the felts! They are of the pull-on variety, the kind of lids that set off a brand new coiffure for all it is worth, or pull a shade of charity over the remnants of what was once a fresh arrangement. And they stand up in all kinds of weather, a man-minded gift to feminine styles.

IN SELECTING a brace of these hats for general wear with suits, top coats, and tailored frocks on warmer days, it is a tip in time to remember that a hard straw hat simply will not give an inch to the crowding of a high fur or cloth collar. They were made for one angle over the face, and they get a cock-eyed expression if they get pushed around--sort of outraged, as it were.

* * *

SO THE SOFT FELT, or the soft straw which takes its masculine trimness of lines less seriously, is the one to wear during winter weather wardrobe hangovers, and the sweeping stiff-brimmed hats can be saved for wear over throats that are open or swathed with soft scarfs.

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd., Inc.)

UNIONTOWN WOMAN'S APPLE RECIPE AWARDED $5 PRIZE

With the number of recipes in your Prudence Penny file increasing daily, you must be finding it a difficult task to differentiate among the various types of recipes. Yet you want them so arranged that finding the desired recipe is a simple matter requiring only a moment's notice.

Perhaps you have devised some special way of caring for your clippings. One of the housewives writes in of the method she has adopted. Don't you want to see if it won't prove equally useful to you. She says:

"My husband purchased at a book store an indexed note book, about seven by ten inches in size, for me to keep my recipes in. Under C's I paste cakes and when the C space has all been used, I make a note on some of the unused letters such as Z or U. You would be surprised to see how easy it is to find the particular recipe wanted by this method."

Don't be satisfied with clipping other women's recipes. Send in your own to Prudence Penny at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and in return you may be the winner of a $5 or a $1 prize. No recipes are returned.

LA MARQUISE APPLES.

Pare and core six medium sized apples. Meanwhile simmer one cup sugar and one-half cup water together for five minutes. Then arrange the apples in this syrup and cook them gently for ten minutes, turning frequently. Next place the partially cooked apples in a greased casserole and fill the center of each with currant jelly. Place one-half teaspoon butter on top of each apple. Prepare a custard mixture by scalding two cups milk, pouring it over three slightly beaten eggs and adding one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla and six macaroons crumbled fine. Pour this custard around the apples, set in a pan of warm water and bake in a slow oven, 325 degrees F., until the custard is set when tested with a silver knife. Serve hot with each jelly-filled apple surrounded by its share of the baked custard.

HONIG POTEZE
(Honey Nut Rolls.)

One yeast cake.
One-fourth cup lukewarm water.
One cup lukewarm milk.
One-fourth cup butter.
Three cups sifted flour.
Grated rind one lemon.
One-fourth cup sugar.
Honey.
Ground nut meats.

Soften yeast cake in water and add scalded and cooled milk. Add enough flour to make soft dough. Add butter, lemon rind, sugar and salt. Let rise until double in bulk. Roll or stretch into thin sheet. Spread with honey and cover with thick layer of ground nut meats. Roll like a jelly roll and slice. Let rise 15 minutes and bake in moderate over (350 F.) 20 minutes.

CORN AND BEEF LOAF

One-half pound lean pork, ground.
One egg, beaten.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon pepper or less.
One-half cup bread crumbs.
One large can corn.
One medium onion, grated.
Three strips bacon (optional).
Oven temperature 325-350 degrees F.
Baking time one hour.

Combine twice ground beef rump and lean pork with the bread crumbs, beaten egg, salt, pepper and grated onion. Stir in the contents of a large can of corn (two cups or more). Form into a roll and slip into a greased square loaf pan. Lay the strips of bacon across the top. Bake in a moderate oven. Serve hot with a sauce or cold with a spicy relish. Serves 8 to 10.

MRS. ALFRED HOAG,

PINEAPPLE FEATHER CAKE

One-half cup butter.
One and one-half cups sugar.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One cup crushed pineapple and juice.
Two and one-half cups cake flour.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-fourth cup water.
Three egg whites.

Cream, butter and sugar.

Add the pineapple, juice and all, just as it comes from the can. Add vanilla and then the sifted ingredients alternately with the water (in small portions), blending well after each addition. Fold in the stiffly-beaten egg whites. Bake in two eight-inch round greased cake pans, and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 35 or 40 minutes. Cool and ice with white boiled icing, piling it generously over the cake.

MISS LAURELDA FISCUS,
205 Ohio Street, Avalon.
JELLIED CRAB MEAT SALAD

Eight-ounce can crab meat.
One teaspoon dry mustard.
Two teaspoons flour.
One and one-half teaspoon powdered sugar.
One teaspoon melted butter.
One egg yolk.
One-third cup hot vinegar.
One-half tablespoon gelatin.
Four tablespoons water.
One teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.
One cup whipping cream.
One cucumber.
Crisp lettuce leaves.

Mix mustard, salt, flour, sugar and paprika in double boiler. Add butter, egg and the vinegar slowly. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, then add the gelatin, which has been softened in the four tablespoons of water. Stir until gelatine is dissolved, then add half the cream beaten stiff. Season the crab meat with salt, paprika and lemon juice, and add to the dressing with the remainder of the cream, also beaten stiff. Turn into individual moulds wet with ice water. Chill for two or three hours. When ready to serve turn out on lettuce leaves and garnish with thin slices of cucumber. Serve rest of cucumber chopped fine and seasoned with salt, pepper and vinegar.

Do as your dentist does . . .

USE POWDER

- 100% Cleansing Properties Twice that of tooth paste
- No Grit—No Pumice Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel
- Lasts Longer—Costs Less Outlasts tooth paste 2 to 1

POWDER CLEANS AND WHITENS TEETH—as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

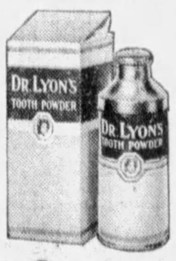
As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used. Dr. Lyon's cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay. Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.



Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

WAGE INCREASE MOVEMENT STARTS

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 19.—In times of depression, people aim to conserve what they have, and the urge for expansion and growth is thwarted.

Mr. Rukeyser

Months ago, the baneful process of cutting down in personnel and reducing wage rates was halted.

Then there was a movement toward re-employment and wage increases.

Even so the process of promotion and advancements was still strangled.

In this connection, the announcement by the New York Telephone Company that it would resume its plan of making periodical wage increases, which had been in effect prior to May 1, 1931, is an encouraging straw. For the present, the resumption of a system of promotions will not apply to the employes of the supervisory and management levels.

In individual and corporate affairs, depression is a period of retarded growth.

When an equilibrium has been restored, business is frequently carried forward by the pent up energy of the normal growth factor, which has been held in abeyance.

TIME LAG

An eminent business doctor, in chatting with me, remarked at the time lag in respect to the moral sense of government and business. He indicated his belief that for a considerable period after the war, business ethics were rising more rapidly than those of government. Now he thinks that in the last year the government has proceeded more rapidly.

However, a reader of this column, W. F. A., of Brooklyn, states the obverse side of this question. He writes:

"I was very much interested in your recent article, in which you quoted the President as urging higher ethical standards in business. I think one of the greatest deterrents to progress today is what is to me a decided undertone in the lack of confidence in the contract of the United States government, and I do not see how a higher standard of private business is to be established without leadership on the part of the government in having its contracts inviolate."

HELPS SPENDING

The big season in Florida and the active demand for passage on pleasure cruises suggest a shift—perhaps temporary—in the attitude of folk toward saving and spending. The "soak the rich" propaganda has perhaps induced some to spend capital.

This epicurean tendency has favorable immediate short term effects in raising the gross volume of business and employment.

Admittedly, there are social dangers in over-saving and underspending.

At the same time, individuals are foolish if they overemphasize the present and neglect through insurance and investments to provide against the contingencies of old age, sickness, unemployment, and premature death.

In spite of the political business baiting and muddle-headed attacks on investment, I personally am continuing to carry all the life insurance I can afford—and would also rather assume investment risks than to face the larger hazard of being impecunious.

The inflationists resent the suggestion that Congress should pack up and go home. They want the national legislature to stay in session to keep prodding the Executive to keep him from being taken into camp by the "sound money" addicts.

GOLD STOCKS TAKE SHARP DOWNTURN

NEW YORK, April 19.—(AP.)—Stocks turned irregular today in the face of further weaknesses of grains and a rather sharp drop in Canadian gold mining equities.

Wheat lost about 2 cents a bushel and was around its lowest levels since last October. Cotton was somewhat heavy, in sympathy with cereals, and rubber eased. Silver futures were a trifle higher. Bonds, especially secondary issues, continued in demand. Foreign exchanges were narrow.

Auburn Automobile was active with a loss of more than 4 points, coincident with a company statement which showed a much heavier net loss for the first part of the year than in the same 1933 period. General Motors improved slightly and Crysler was about unchanged. Some of the alcohols were off a point or more and Liggett & Myers B and American Tomacco B reacted around a point each. Most of the leaders, such as American Telephone, du Pont, Western Union, United States Steel and Sears Roebuck were hesitant. The farm stocks sagged with grains.

The relapse of the dominion metal group was directly attributable to the imposition of a tax of 10 per cent on gold deposited at the mint or exported. The tax became effective today.

Some profit taking in the tobaccos, recently in demand on the recommendation of a 40 per cent tax slash by a House Ways and Means Sub-committee, followed reports from the capital that there was doubt legislation for such reduction could be passed this session.

The more hopeful attitude toward the rails was in line with continued improvement in traffic and earnings and the belief that the administration will be successful in bringing about a compromise on the present wage controversy. The President, who heard the executives' side of the case yesterday, will talk with union officials tomorrow.

ASK FEDERAL OIL CONTROL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The petroleum administrative board of the NRA today studied a statement issued by the consumers' advisory board urging greatly increased federal control over the oil industry as a means of averting "widespread demoralization."

The report warned that "complete demoralization of the retail price structure and the wiping out of the independent refiner are apparently facing the petroleum industry in many parts of the country."

The petroleum code was criticized in detail as tending to foster monopoly and as costing the consumers "several hundred millions of dollars" in unjustifiable charges for gasoline and other oil products.

The report added:

"Failure of the industry in the recent past to produce an adequate program for self regulation indicates that only an impartial agency of the type which the government can provide is in a position simultaneously to guard against monopolistic tendencies and to take effective action against demoralizing influences."

WHEAT PRICES BREAK LIMIT

CHICAGO, April 18.—Wheat crashed downward late today 5 cents a bushel, the extreme limit that existing regulations allow in any 24-hour period.

A statement ascribed to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that domestic and world prices of wheat would work closer together during the present year led to general liquidating sales on the part of holders of wheat on a market bare of any aggressive demand. Wild fluctuations followed the 5-cent fall of the market, with heavy stop-loss selling a feature.

This was the eighth successive day of declining prices for wheat in Chicago.

FRENCH TRADE DECREASES

PARIS, April 19.—For the first three months of 1934, exports amounted to 4,513,000,000 francs, compared with 4,558,000,000 francs in the similar period of 1933, according to the ministry of commerce. Imports for the first quarter totaled 6,656,000,000 francs, as against 7,811,000,000 francs in the like 1933 period.

BERLIN, April 19.—German foreign trade yielded a surplus of exports in March. Exports totaled 401,000,000 marks and imports 398,000,000, a surplus of 3,000,000 marks. These figures compare with exports of 343,000,000 marks and imports of 378,000,000 marks in February, and with exports of 426,000,000 marks and imports of 362,000,000 marks, in March, 1933.

The increase in exports was due to gains in manufactured goods exports.

ROOKIE LAVAGETTO HAILED AS HERO BY BUCCANEERS

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Timely Sock Aids Cookie. Inspires Self-Confidence. Drab Days for Pitchers. • Clarke Praises Recruit. City's Early Bike Races. Title Fight in Holland.

The importance of Cookie Lavagetto's game-winning home run yesterday against Burleigh Grimes, a pitcher, incidentally, who was on a major league roster at Detroit a year and a half before the Pirate rookie was born, was not confined to the victory it brought to the Buccaneers. It was also a huge item to Lavagetto as a confidence breeder, which should have great influence in helping him up the big league grade. A youngster is apt to lose heart if he does not hit major pitching in his first few championship games, developing a fear that he will not be able to cope with the hurlers in fast company. Such discouragement soon affects his work and impairs his chances of making good.

Cookie Lavagetto

The new member of the Corsair cast has escaped that, for the time being at least. A rookie must have faith in himself to succeed, must feel that he is as good as the pitchers he is facing, and Lavagetto's knockout wallop, his first major league hit, with which he broke up yesterday's game under the pressure of a tied score in the eighth inning, ought to put the Pirate recruit on the right road. He still has a steep hill to climb, and it must be borne in mind that enemy pitchers are working blindly on him and have not yet had time to discover his weaknesses, if he has any, but at present the outlook for Cookie is decidedly favorable.

ONLY 10 OUT OF 32 PITCHERS GO ROUTE

That Larry French, like Meine the preceding day, failed to hold up on the mound against the Cardinals and had to be lifted, gives no cause for worry about the Pirate pitching staff when you consider that most other hurling departments in the majors have met the same fate. Out of 32 starting pitchers in 16 games on the first two days of the season, only 10 lasted the distance, while 22 were derricked.

Only two clubs out of 16, the Giants and Cubs, got through their first two games without changing flingers. Only six other teams weathered even one game with a single slabman. Seven other clubs besides the Pirates had to change hurlers on both days. A total of 67 pitchers used and 25 home runs made in the first 16 games indicates that Pittsburgh's chuckers were by no means alone in taking it on the chin.

LAVAGETTO TERMED PLAYER BY INSTINCT

Among the baseball men outside the Pittsburgh club who see a coming star in Cookie Lavagetto, and believe he will hang right on to become a fixture in the position entrusted to him by Manager Gibson at the start of the season, is Fred Clarke, former Pirate pilot. Clarke, who watched Lavagetto closely in a practice game at Oklahoma City, sends along a boost for him from a different angle. He says the youngster is a ball player by instinct, not merely a mechanical success.

Fred Clarke

By this he means, Clarke explains, that Lavagetto knows just about where a batted ball will go. Fred observed that in none of his fielding chances did Cookie remain flat-footed to determine the course or speed of the ball, but was off with the crack of the bat, and every time in the right direction—to right, to left, in close for a slow hopper or back for a fly to short right. With that instinct behind his mechanical fielding ability and his batting power, Clarke thinks the 19-year-old Pirate can't miss becoming a great ball player when he has added experience to his equipment.

MASON RECALLS OLD SIX-DAY RACES HERE

James M. Mason writes from Chicago that the recent six-day bicycle race here brought back memories of the days when he handled winning riders in other Pittsburgh races of the kind.

"The present generation is inclined to scoff," he continues, "when a fellow tries to compare the past with today, but I'd like to see the present so-called bike champions in competition with Frank (Dutch) Waller, whom I handled in Pittsburgh's first six-day race 40 years ago, promoted by Pat Powers. Big Jim Kennedy and Tim Hurst. Louie Gimm, who had won a Cleveland-to-Pittsburgh road race, was looked on as the probable victor in the six-day event. The race was close for the first five days, with Gimm and Waller about even. Then Gimm's trainer came to me and asked if I thought a little brandy would hurt his man. I told him I thought not, and gave him some I kept in my kit but never used. After Gimm got a little of the brandy it was good-bye to his chances, and Waller came along and gained many miles by Saturday morning, the final day of the race. Hurst wanted me to take Waller off the track until Gimm could get a little closer, but I refused and Waller won by a large number of miles.

"I handled Waller later when he won the last singles six-day race in New York, and, believe it or not, he made about 25 miles more than are now reeled off by many two-man teams, though hostile fans went so far as to throw tacks in front of him, with the object of giving him a puncture and making him lose time to change wheels. In 1899 I looked after Waller and Frank Miller in the first two-man race in New York, and they won with a total of 2,733.4 miles, one of the best records ever made. What I aim to show is that with better bikes and better tracks, present-day riders are not doing as well as Waller did. I had Waller in another six-day race in Pittsburgh, at the Exposition Building, promoted by George Moreland for the Cathedral or Second Brigade Band. Waller and Harry Elkes were even up until the final day of the race, when Pop Elkes, father of Harry, came to me with a proposition to split first and second money if they finished one-two. I refused and it cost us money, as Elkes beat Waller out by half a lap and all that we received was second money."

HOLLAND MAY BE SCENE OF TITLE FIGHT

World championship fights in one class or another have been staged in England, Ireland, Australia, France, Spain, Italy, Canada, Mexico and other countries, with the great majority, of course, taking place in the United States, and now it is proposed that Holland be added to the list. Dutch promoters plan to hold a big show at which Bep Van Klaveren, native son, will appear in a battle for the world welterweight title.

Bep Van Klaveren

The first advances, naturally, were made to Jimmy McLarnin, present holder of the 147-pound championship. McLarnin and his manager, Pop Foster, had scoffed at the suggestion of a meeting with Van Klaveren in this country, asserting that Bep was not enough of a boxoffice card to make such a fight worth while. The Holland syndicate, however, assures McLarnin that it will guarantee a match worth his while by making a better offer than he can get in this country. McLarnin and Foster decline to enter into any negotiations until the Barney Ross fight is out of the way, which brings from the Dutch showmen the announcement that if McLarnin loses the title to Ross next month they will go after Barney.

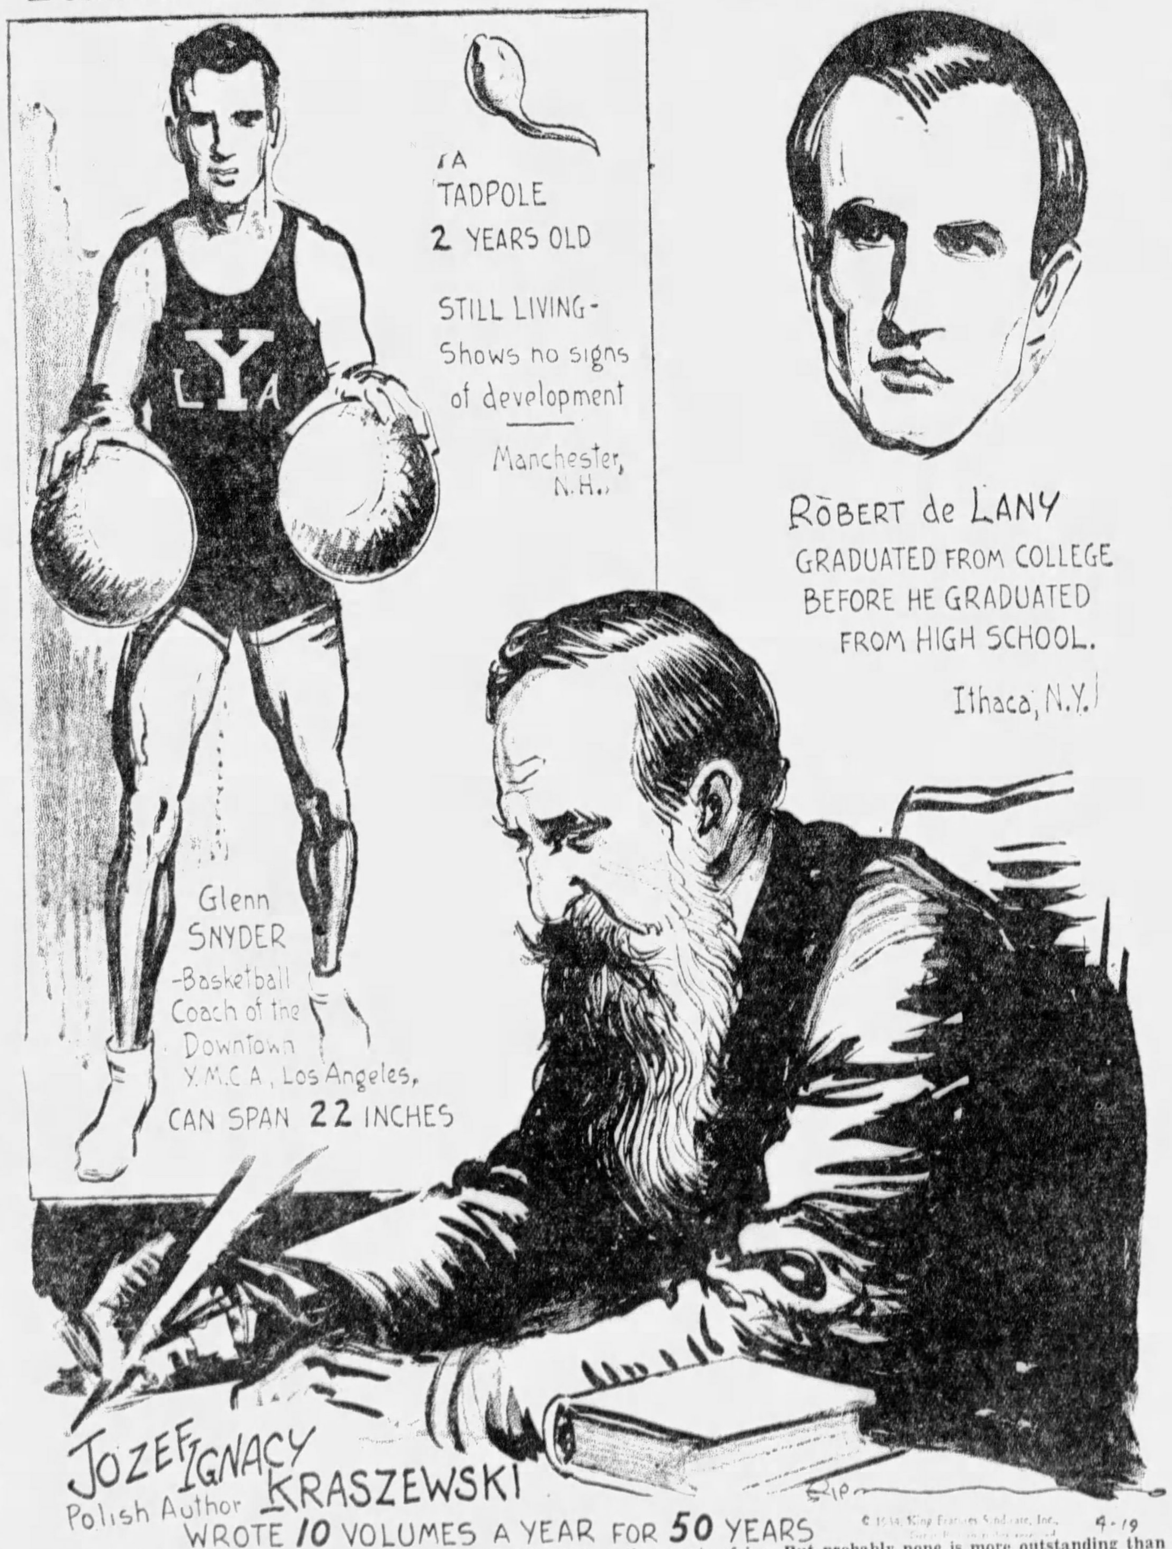
Believe It Or Not By Ripley

(Reg. by U. S. Patent Office)



EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: ALL CHICAGO IN ONE BUILDING—An idea of the stupendous size of the Merchandise Mart, located on the Chicago River front, is gained from the fact that it has more than 93 acres, or more than 4,000,000 square feet, of floor space under its roof—enough to shelter every man, woman and child in the city of Chicago, our second largest city. Chicago's population in 1930 was 3,376,438—of whom each could have more than one square foot of space in the mart. BYRD'S ELECTRIC FAN—The equipment list for the Byrd Antarctic Expedition contains some curious articles, which to the layman would seem to have no value whatever to the men in that waste of ice. But probably none is more outstanding than the electric fan. The fan is used to circulate air for the drying of motion picture film. NOT A MARRYING FAMILY—Mrs. L. McCarty, of Sioux City, Ia., was the mother of 11 children, and not one of them ever married. This "not the marrying kind" family is all the more curious because of the fact that the nine daughters and two sons were all popular and well-liked in their younger days, but just seemed to prefer single blessedness. One son became a priest, the other an insurance man. Of the nine daughters, two became teachers, two became sisters of charity, one entered business and four took up housekeeping.

YOUNG STAR'S HOMER BEATS CARDS, 7-6

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

ST. LOUIS, April 19.—Echoes born of a rookie's courageous home run were still reverberating like a wedding bell in the Pirate camp today. The joy among the Buccos was the outgrowth of Cookie Lavagetto's maiden hit of his major league career, a round-tripper in the eighth inning that gave the Gibson clan a thrilling 7 to 6 victory over the saucy Cardinals on the local lot yesterday.

Cookie was a popular kid in the Pirate camp long before he sank the redoubtable Burleigh Grimes with his four-sacker. Now he is being lionized. The 19-year-old Coast Leaguer ran into misfortune in the opener when Redbird fielders sprang in front of his liners. He had gone hitless again in the second encounter, but the swarthy skinned youth had a grim countenance as he went up to face the spitball king with the battle deadlocked in the eighth inning.

GRIMES IN FORM

Grimes looked like the Burleigh of his greatest days as he went to the mound in the relief role in the sixth. Nary a hit could the Buccos make as he poured fast

TECH WINS EASTERN CHAMPIONSHIP IN HEARST SHOOT

NATIONAL TITLE ANNEXED BY WASHINGTON

By LIEUT. COL. JESS KRUEGER
Universal Service.

CHICAGO, April 19. — National and sectional winners of the thirteenth annual William Randolph Hearst rifle trophy matches were announced today by Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, commanding officer of the Sixth Corps area and official judge of the competition for the War Department.

The Far East and Far West took the major honors. The University of Washington, in Seattle, won the championship of the senior units; Manlius School, at Manlius, N. Y., took first prize among military academies, and Porterville Union High School, of Porterville, Cal., took the chief honors among junior schools.

More than 500 teams from educational institutions throughout the United States and its territories participated. Six universities having Naval Reserve units of the R. O. T. C. also took part. More than 10,000 targets were checked by the staff headed by Maj. E. J. Carr, working day and night to verify the results and enable presentation of the handsome cups, trophies and medals before the close of school. Every one of the 50,000 shots was carefully scrutinized. The list of national, sectional and individual champions for 1934, and the scores out of a possible 1,000:

The following are the three highest scores of the four sections of the three divisions:

TORONTO WINS ON FORFEIT

NEW YORK, April 19.—(AP.)—While crowds that were about all the club owners could desire filled the parks, the International Baseball League opened its fifty-first season yesterday with a round of exciting games.

The biggest throng turned out at Newark to see the Bears, who finished first in the standing last year but lost out in the playoffs, drop a 12-5 slugfest to the Buffalo Bisons, eventual winners of the pennant. About 13,000 were on hand.

The climax of the day's thrills came at Albany where Umpire Roy Van Graflan ordered the opening game forfeited to Toronto after the home team had taken the lead in the tenth inning. It was a stormy game from start to finish and the Leafs protested several times that their rivals were batting in the wrong order. At the end of nine innings they were tied, 8-8. In the tenth the teams brought the count up to 13-11 before two Albany players were retired. Then fans started heaving cushions and Van Graflan forfeited the game to Toronto by the usual 9-0 score.

Syracuse, returning to the league after several years absence, to replace Jersey City, saw 10,000 fans fill the uncompleted stands to see the Chiefs take a 2 to 1 decision from Montreal.

The Rochester Red Wings spoiled the opening for 5,000 Baltimore fans by trouncing the Orioles, 9 to 6.

SPEIGAL HOLDS ELLING EVEN

FAIRMONT, W. Va., April 19.—(AP.)—Joey Speigal, 147, of Uniontown, Pa., who never has been beaten in the local ring, was held to an eight-round draw last night by Max Elling, 150, of Pittsburgh. Speigal appeared tired from a match in Cleveland Tuesday night.

Frankie Reilly, 146, of Fairmont, and Tommy Swift, 153, of Uniontown, battled to a draw in the second six-rounder.

CLUBS TO GET BIG TOURNEYS

The Pittsburgh Field Club and Stanton Heights appear certain to be awarded two of the district's major golf tournaments this year.

The West Penn open and amateur are scheduled to be awarded the Field Club, which did not get any of the sectional qualifying events or state tourneys, and Stanton Heights is in line for the junior championship. The open is scheduled to be held August 13 and the amateur August 15, 16 and 17. The junior is booked for July 23, 24 and 25.

Paul Runyan, brilliant pro star, leading money winner of the winter campaign in the West and South, will play in an exhibition match here next month, the site and date to be set later. Vincent Eldred, chairman of the tournament committee of the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association, made the announcement last night.

BABE RUTH, FOXX OPEN HOME RUN WARFARE

GIANTS, NATS CONTINUE TO SET PACES

Associated Press.

With the major league baseball season only two days old, the home run marathon between Babe Ruth, the old clouting king and the young pretender to the throne of swat, Jimmy Foxx, already is well under way.

The first wallops by this pair of rivals as they met at Philadelphia yesterday provided the high spots of the second day of the campaign.

Foxx, the home run ruler for the past two seasons, connected for his first 1934 homer in the second inning of the diamond Donnybrok which saw the Yankees square the series with an 11 to 5 triumph over the Athletics. He repeated the feat in the fourth frame, again with empty bases.

BABE HITS ONE

The Babe bided his time until the eighth, then outdid his rival's efforts by poling a mighty clout across the street to a porch roof, bouncing the ball into an open window of a house. By that time Bill Dickey had settled the game by driving home six runs with a homer, two doubles and a single.

Chick Hafey, of Cincinnati, and Zeke Bonura, the White Sox rookie first baseman, also fabricated two homers while Chuck Klein hit his second of the year and Joe Medwick joined him at the head of the parade.

Neither Hafey nor Bonura could bring victory by his feat. The Reds got only four blows off Guy Bush aside from Hafey's pair and yielded to the Cubs 8 to 4.

Bonura's circuit crashes accounted for three of the White Sox runs against Detroit but Goose Goslin and Gerry Walker brought home five tallies by the same method and the Tigers won 6 to 5. Al Simmons, of the White Sox, needs two more hits to reach 2,000. He reached 1,998 yesterday.

GIANTS, NATS WIN

Along with the Tigers and the Cubs, the New York Giants and Washington Senators, last year's world series rivals, cropped up as two-time winners. The Gian's downed the Phillies for the second time, 6-2, on the strength of Fred Fitzsimmon's five-hit hurling and Blondy Ryan's four-for-four hitting.

Irvin (Bump) Hadley, of the St. Louis Browns, and Fred Frankhouse and Huck Betts, of the Boston Braves, in combination were the other five-hit flingers. The former had the honor of pitching the first American League shutout. The Browns also were blanked until the ninth, when Georeg Puccinelli, Bruce Campbell and Oscar Melillo solved Monte Pearson for the hits that brought a 2-0 victory over Cleveland.

Frankhouse and Betts pitched the Braves to a 3-to-2 triumph over Brooklyn's Dodgers. The Dodgers have three outfielders on the shelf because of injuries. They are Hack Wilson, Dan Taylor and Ralph Boyle.

Teams in Tie For Bike Lead

MONTREAL, April 19.—(AP.)—Alfred LeTourner and Henri LePage had pedalled their way into a tie with the Canadian pace setters, William (Torchy) Peden and Jules Audy for first place in the Montreal six day bike race early today.

Then Buck went on to gain fame in the boxing ring and now he's a handsome motorcycle man for the Swissvale Police Department, and he's going to lead Miss O'Brien to the altar on May 2. Uncle of the bride will perform the ceremony. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

PITCHER STILL MISSING

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—Forty hours of ceaseless investigating by Philadelphia and New York detectives today failed to shed any light on the whereabouts of Frank Pearce, pitching ace of the Philadelphia National League baseball club.

Frank Pearce

Scouting a suicide theory, detectives admitted they have been unable to unearth a single clue that would aid them in the baffling case. They said, however, they believe, like the player's teammates, that recurrence of an illness that afflicted Pearce last season might have made him a victim of amnesia.

Pearce, a native of Anchorage, Ky., has been missing since Tuesday.

CITY LEAGUERS ADD CLUBS

By TOM BIRKS

Originally organized as a six and then reduced to a five, the City League has become a seven-club organization and plans to operate as such this season. Two additional clubs were admitted to membership at a meeting of the circuit at the Hotel Henry last night. Beltzhoover and the Mt. Oliver Business Men's nines joining Homewood, Books, Chelsea, Dormont and Parmelee.

Art Rooney, representing the Chelsea outfit, asked and received permission to change the name of the club to the J. J. Vaughans.

Red Robinson and Dick Cooley represented the Pittsburgh Umpires' Association. The arbiters' offer was accepted. This and the adoption of an official ball for the league constituted the business of the meeting.

The following representatives were present: George Falconer, Billy Fuchs, Dinty Moore, Walter Early, Art Rooney, Harp and Packy Vaughan, Bill Dalzell, Ray Miller, George Rounds, Ed Buch and Carl Frey.

Practically all of the managers presented their playing nights, and President Sweeny will start on the makeup of the schedule. Parmelee will play at Frick Park, the Vaughans at the Salt Works, Beltzhoover at McKinley Park and Mt. Oliver at Arlington Avenue. This park is in the course of construction.

Joe Hadly, southpaw rightfielder of the Book Club last season has been signed by the Dormont Club. He replaces Doc Tice, who has joined the Hazleton Club of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

HICKMAN, ONCE BIG LEAGUE STAR, DIES

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 19.—(AP.)—Charles T. Hickman, sheriff of Monongala County and a big league ball player in the days of Hap Lajoie, was found dead in his bedroom today. He was 58.

Hickman died from a heart attack while seated in a rocker, his feet resting on another chair. His son, Charles, Jr., 14, found him there an hour later.

His political career carried him into office three times as Mayor of Morgantown, once as recorder and once as a magistrate. He took office as sheriff on January 1, 1933.

As a baseball player he starred with the great Cleveland infield that included the colorful Lajoie, Bradley and Turner. Hickman played first base. He was a powerful hitter, turning in a .369 average in 1902 and batting .330 in 1909.

His span for major league baseball began in 1897, when he become the property of the Boston Braves and ended with the Cleveland Club in 1908. At various times during that period, however, he played with six other teams.

Born at Dunkard, Pa., in Greene County, Hickman attended West Virginia University and started his baseball days with a team at New Castle, Pa., in 1896.

The Boston Nationals purchased him as a pitcher, the position he played with the university team. Later his strength as a hitter was recognized and John McGraw hired him as third baseman of the New York Giants in 1900. He went to the Boston Americans in 1901, to Cleveland in 1902, to Detroit in 1904, Washington in 1905, The Chicago Nationals in 1907, and returned to Cleveland in 1908. He played with Toledo in the American Association in 1909 and 1911.

He quit a year later and became a scout for Cleveland, holding the job 14 years. From 1913 to 1917 he coached the West Virginia University team.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday.

SOLTERS' HOMER DEFEATS NATS

BOSTON, April 19.—(AP.)—Julius (Moose) Solters, rookie from Baltimore, smacked one of General Crowder's slants over the fence for a home run in the ninth inning today to give the Red Sox a 5-to-4 victory over Washington in the morning Patriots' Day game.

The smash came after Solters was in the hole for a 3-2 count, and after he had missed a home run by inches when he hit Crowder's first offering. The score:

ANSON GREEN TO BOX JEBY

his man when objections were raised to having him sent immediately against Yarosz on the ground that he never had fought a main bout while Yarosz is generally recognized as the uncrowned middleweight champion. If Green should win over Jeby, who recently gave Yarosz a hard battle in Duquesne Garden, he may engage in a second battle against a seasoned foe to prove his worth as a contender.

GETS 20 PER CENT PURSE

Jeby is getting 30 per cent of the gross receipts plus three round trip tickets from New York, while Green will receive 20 per cent for his end. For meeting Yarosz without any preparation Anson would have had to sign for virtually training expenses while Yarosz demanded $7,500 with a privilege of 40 per cent.

Green was catapulted into the limelight by his thrilling one-punch knockout victory over Al Rossi, of Newark, N. J., on the Yarosz-Jeby card. Previously he had dropped Dan Hassett, of Philadelphia, a couple of times in a bout in Motor Square Garden. In between, however, he was beaten by Tommy Rios, who last Monday bowed to Yarosz in Canton, O.

Until his last three bouts, Green's opposition had been limited mainly to local boxers in the preliminary ranks, and he had had only indifferent success with them. His punch attracted the attention of the fans in the Hassett and Rossi fights, and an unnatural steamup for a meeting with Yarosz was begun, based on the possibility that he might knock out the Monaca star, who never has been stopped and has lost only a few decisions in almost 80 bouts. When the records of the two men were compared in the matter of experience and all-round ability, much of this enthusiasm cooled off immediately, and it was apparent that it would be necessary to give Green an opportunity to build himself up naturally for a Yarosz match.

MATCH SANCTIONED

Athletic Commissioner Dr. W. D. McClelland this afternoon gave his approval to the Jeby-Green bout, saying:

"I think this is the proper solution of the problem. Green, whom I consider a great prospect, must prove his right to meet Yarosz in order to guarantee the public that he has more than a trust-to-luck-this-punch-lands chance to win. If he gets safely past such a strong opponent as Jeby, he will receive every consideration. If he does not, we will know we have avoided committing a serious blunder in not matching him with Yarosz at this time."

STEINER LEADS IN MARATHON

BOSTON, April 19.—(AP.)—Bill Steiner, chunky New York runner, led the field in the Boston Athletic Association marathon at the half-way mark in Wellesley today.

He was clocked in 1:11:25 with Komonen still in second place, but with Kelley by his side. They were but one second behind Steiner.

Molley held to his place as did Debruyn. Pawson, however, made better use of the downhill coast by cutting in ahead of Burnside.

TIMELY HOMER BY LAVAGETTO BEATS CARDS

Meantime his Redbird mates had flown into a deadlock with the Pirates, and everybody knows that Grimes is a tough hombre under such conditions.

Well, Burleigh was in championship form, anyhow. He had taken Gus Suhr out of the picture to start the eighth, before Cookie came up swinging like a Dempsey. Grimes seemed to realize the kid was dangerous and he was giving him both barrels at the time of the disaster.

CHAGNON STRONG

Heroic as was Cookie he was willing to share the honors of the day with one of his mates, especially with Leon Chagnon. Chagnon did not hit any four-sackers, a feat accomplished by Pie Traynor and Gus Suhr, but Leon gave a midsummer display of relief pitching which will be talked about for many weeks to come in Pirate gatherings.

The danger was far from over when Cookie slapped out his round-tripper. Larry French, who was eventually credited with a victory, was weakening after a remarkable start. French retired the first 10 batters to face him but his support cracked and he went up in the air with his mates for the nonce.

Joe Medwick nicked Larry for a double as the last half of the eighth got under way. Boss Gibson had enough of French for the day and Chagnon was called from the bullpen. After Leon walked Collins to put the winning tally on base, he and Traynor put on a thrilling force play on Delancey's bunt and the husky pitcher then stopped Durocher and Pinchhitter Moore to retire the side.

IN DEEP WATER

Chagnon was in even deeper in the ninth. Frisch singled with one out and went up to second on a wild pitch. Martin put the winning marker on the sacks with a walk. Chagnon was in a three-and-one hole with Rothrock, but Traynor retired the batter by a fine catch of a foul and Medwick hit into a forced play to end the game.

The tough series will close this afternoon with a battle of southpaws. Ralph Birkofer will fight it out with Bill Hallahan. Art Veltman will receive Birkofer. The Pirates will open a three-game series in Cincinnati tomorrow.

Paul Dean, Jerome's kid brother, made his big league start against the Buccos yesterday. But Pie Traynor and Suhr shook him from aft and beam with a pair of homers and Bill Walker relieved the big rookie.

The Pirates had a four-run lead as Paul left, but the home team scored three in the fourth after Traynor had tossed one wide to second. Vaughan failed to come up with a hard grounder in the seventh when the Redbirds effected a deadlock.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XLVIII.

Young David, very grown up and excited in his first tuxedo, came rushing into Pippin's room.

"Here—tie this necktie."

Dadee was 17, tall, with a pale, aquiline face like his father's and the same humorous glint in his eyes. They were gray eyes flecked with amber.

Dadee was in love. Pippin knew it. It recalled her own young fervor when she was forever dashing over to Kathleen's in the burning secret hope of meeting Kevin. She hoped Dadee would not take it too seriously.

He was the sweetest of her brothers, with a sensitive imagination and despite his quiet manner, possessed of a strong, almost ruthless personality. In this, too, he was like his father.

"Hurry up, Pippin."

"Is Christine always on time, Dadee? Is she very sweet?"

Scores Mamie

"Hey, Bruce," said his older brother, "feed my mice and clean out the cage and I'll give you a dime."

"A dime? Guess you think I'm a cheap skate. I got nothing to do on a Friday night! Clean out the cage and feed them and you'll give me a dime! Don't you want me to sing to them, too? Maybe they'll be lonesome!"

Bruce halted abruptly with a guilty look. A sudden series of funny squeaks came from the direction of his pocket. He started to run.

"Hey! Come back here! Have you got Mamie in your pocket?"

"Lemme alone! You'll scare her!"

The young miscreant shook off his brother and brought forth from his pocket a large white mouse. The little creature looked about, the bright twinkling pink eyes focused in terror.

"Now, see what you did! You went and scared her to death! I'll clean out the cage. I'll feed all the rest of them, if you let me take Mamie to school next week."

"Say, what do you think I am? I've been working on these mice for two years. I can't afford to risk Mamie's life." Dadee looked at his sister. "I've absolutely proved the Mendelian laws!"

"Gosh," said she, "what a break for Mendel! He'll certainly turn over in his grave with joy."

David, Jr., had been working with mice and sweet peas from the time he was a youngster. In the last two years he had become very scientific in his researches. He had black mice and gray mice and albinos traced through several dozen generations. Recently he had developed a family of waltzing mice. These were the delight of his heart.

Delight in Mice

They were also the delight of young Bruce and the boys in the neighborhood. Bruce would do almost anything to get Mamie from his brother. She was his pet and boon companion. She ate from his hand. She ran up his sleeve or perched on his shoulder. She also answered when he spoke—at least he swore she did.

He now set the little creature down on Pippin's bed, having first looked around to be sure the cat was not in evidence. He took a harmonica from his pocket and began to play.

'Maybe you can breed these mice, Dadee, but there's nobody can make Mamie dance like I can! Now you watch her."

He ran the harmonica across his lips and very gently tickled Mamie's head. He played a few strains. The mouse ran about, twisting her body as she did. It was very funny.

Said Dadee: "That's the way she walks. She's a waltzer."

Bruce gave him a contemptuous glance and ceased his music. Immediately the gay, prancing little creature became still. She perched on her hind quarters, her little pink toes curled under her and looked at Bruce intently.

"Now—you see! She wants ME to play to her. If you would just breed me about 100 of these mice, I could make a lotta money. Say, that's an idea. When we get poor, I could probably work my way through college training mice and giving shows. Well—can I take her to school next week?"

"Say—suppose she got hurt? Suppose she curls up and dies on me? The work of years is gone! I'll tell you, Bruce—there's a new batch coming along any day now. If I get the waltzers I expect, you can have Mamie for keeps. But you've got to clean the cage twice a week the rest of your life."

Agrees to Bargain

"You mean really for keeps? All my own and not bossed by you? All right—it's a bargain! You heard him, Pippin. Say, Mom, come in here and be a witness—I get Mamie for keeps, as soon as more waltzers get born. You all heard now and it's cross your heart to die!"

Dadee grinned at his sister. She picked a thread from the lapel of his coat: "Shylock—the rest of his life!"

"Can't you picture him doing it? How do I look?" He turned suddenly from his own image and glanced at Pippin. "Big night for you, too? You look great in blue. Are you giving Gregg the gate? Girls are pretty cruel, aren't they?"

"Quick on the trigger, aren't you?"

"No! It's the real thing this time. What a dream!"

When Pippin was alone, she surveyed herself and felt quiet.

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. She then returns to college and has Vivian Drake as a room mate. Vivian's love affair with Sherry wanes. Vivian disappears and sends a suicide note. Kevin returns. Edward's family and Pippin disapprove of his choice of a bride. Kevin kisses Pippin while on skiing party.

Now Go On

The dress was sky-blue, very simple and clinging to her shadowy form. She looked her best and she knew it, but Dadee's words troubled her. She didn't want to be cruel . . . didn't want to think of Gregg unhappy. Now, brimming with her own joy, she wanted all the world to smile. Kevin was taking her to the opera.

She visualized herself walking into the foyer; people turning because he was tall and such a flash about him. He wouldn't notice; he would lower his head and see only her—

At eight o'clock he hadn't arrived. At eight-thirty the phone rang. His voice was low, harassed, full of regrets.

Pippin Disappointed

"I'm awfully sorry, Pippin. I'm stuck here . . . an emergency—couldn't you and Chickie go? I'll meet you there later—I'll be another hour, anyway."

"It's all right," she said softly, "Why, I don't care. I'll wait. Don't worry about me."

She put up the receiver, blinked and said: "Damn—oh damn."

David came from his study: "Did I hear someone swear?"

"Probably an echo from your life—it's a wonder I don't crack out with oaths in church."

Her father grinned: "Were you damning Kevin?"

"Yes I was. It's only the fourth time in 10 days he's disappointed me. Another one of your considerate little emergencies!"

"Now see here, girl, what do you suppose would have happened to me if your mother had 'cussed' me out the fourth time I failed her? Do you suppose a doctor can predict when a man will fall and break his bones?"

He had hold of her shoulder. Pippin wiggled free.

"Don't show your teeth at me, big boy! I'm glad you realize you're the most spoiled male on the face of the earth. And after all, you weren't here and you don't know how many times Helena may have said: 'Damn these doctors!' I suppose she was saying what a noble, courageous fellow you were the night you left her sitting in the automobile while you blandly waved a taxi and got yourself home, forgetting you'd brought your little helpmate with you when you got tangled up with an emergency. She didn't figure. You didn't even know you were married."

Like Tam O' Shanter

David said: "Your mother has never made me feel I was married in that sense. In the opinion of other women, I suppose she's had a horrible life."

"Yeah, and loves it! There's much in common, darling, between you and Tam O'Shanter. He only needed a few good old Scotch highballs to make him forget the little cottage on the hillside. All you need is a busted jugular vein and we don't exist."

"Haven't you a good book to read, Pippin?"

"I have all the good books I want to read. I suppose it doesn't enter your satisfied head and heart that an attractive young female like myself might enjoy going out with a flashing gentleman now and then?"

She turned with a sweet smile to her father's face: "You've got me all wrong, big boy. I don't want to interfere with him. I was nice and sweet over the phone. I guess you know I'm pretty well trained, having lived with you for twenty odd years. I'd hate him if he neglected his work—even if he let me interfere. I like people who are wild with ambitions. He'll probably be the second best surgeon in the world. But every time he disappoints me, I'm going to say 'Damn it!' He doesn't hear and he won't know. Now do you think your good little assistant is safe?"

She went downstairs and gave the opera tickets to the maid.

Then she sat in the little room off the hall, listening for the bell and waiting.

GRANT'S FIRST ADMINISTRATION—HIS CABINET—SCANDALS—MOBILIER—TWEED RING

President Ulysses S. Grant's administration is remembered in international affairs by the Washington Treaty settling the "Alabama Claims." These had risen from damage by British vessels, to United States shipping during the Civil War. Best known of the pirating British vessels was the Alabama, finally destroyed by the U. S. Kearsage. This treaty accepted $15,000,000 awarded by an international commission, paid by Britain within a year to the United States. Internal affairs: Completion of the Transcontinental Railroad system by construction of the Union and Pacific Railroads, highly subsidized by the government. In connection with the stimulated financing of railroads with money- and land-grants by the government, the "Credit Mobilier" scandal, involving officials, legislators (bribed with stocks sold to them below market prices) shocked the nation. Another discrediting symptom of activities of unscrupulous politicians was the Tweed Ring ruling with bribery and fraud in New York City. As reaction to the highly centralizing administration of Pres. Grant, the Liberal Republicans rose as third party, joined by former leaders of the old Republican party, who were dissatisfied with the severe reconstruction policy in the South and with the machine politicians. FIGHT FOR RIGHTS IN ENGLAND—CHARTISTS' DEMONSTRATION

The striving for more liberty in the mid 19th century swept not only the European continent, but had its repercussions also in England, expressed in the Chartist movement. "Chartism" was a "radical" social movement in England (1838-1848) among people deprived of suffrage and was expressed in the "People's Charter." It demanded universal suffrage, equal electoral districts, vote by ballot, annual paid parliament and no qualifications but election for members. After great demonstrations and riots, legislative reforms and expanding trade—resulting in better earnings—stilled this social tumult. (World History)

MANUFACTURE OF CALCIUM CARBIDE IN ELECTRIC FURNACE

Calcium carbide (CaC2), a brittle, dark gray crystalline solide, is obtained from lime (CaO) and coke in the electric arc furnace (above). The furnace is lined with fire brick and filled with ground lime and coke. The bottom is lined with carbon, serving as one electrode, the others being lowered by a crane until arc is struck. In the evolved heat (over 4,000° C. temp.) calcium carbide is formed directly: CaO + 3C = CaC2+CO.

Calcium carbide, with water, gives acetylene (C2H2), a gas: CaC2 + 2H2O =C2H2+Ca(OH)2. Acetylene burns in the air with a luminous, smoky flame; used as illuminant. With oxygen, it gives a very hot flame of nearly 3,500° C. temp.: 2C2H2 + 5O2 = 4CO2 + 2H2O + 604,660 cal.

The oxy-acetylene torch, based on that principle, is a most useful chemical tool for welding and cutting metals. Right: Welding of a pipe line by oxy-acetylene torch. (Chemistry)

"MAN DIES: NOR IS THERE HOPE IN DUST"

"In Memoriam" is a series of poems written between 1833 and 1850 by Alfred Tennyson in memory of a close friend, Arthur H. Hallam, who died in his youth. It gives reflections about death ascending finally to the faith in immortality and resignation to the will of God. He sees a "crowning race" to come:

"Whereof this man that with me trod
This planet, was a noble type,
Appearing ere the times were ripe.
This friend of mine, who lives in God,

That God, which ever lives and loves,
One God, one law, one element,
And one far-off divine event,
To which the whole creation moves." (English Literature)

COUNTING THE BLOOD CORPUSCLES

Normal blood of man contains about 5 millions red blood corpuscles in one cubic millimeter, that of a woman about 4½ millions. The number of white cells vary in health between 6,000-12,000 per cu. mm. blood (1 cu. mm. = 1/16,387 cu. in.).

The number of blood corpuscles is determined by counting; the apparatus used is called hemocythometer (above). Blood is obtained by puncturing capillaries of finger or ear. Counting red cells, capillary tube is filled with blood by suction up to mark 0.5; then with salt solution up to mark 101 (dilution 1:200). The glass-counting chamber has central disc A, having 1 sq. mm. divided into 400 equal squares, upon which a small drop of diluted blood is placed. Frame B is 0.1 mm. higher than A, to keep the bloodlayer above ruled surface exactly 0.1 mm. thick; than under coverplate C, the volume of diluted blood above each square will be 1/400 x 1/10=1/4,000 cu. mm. Counting under the microscope R red cells together in 80 squares, the total number of red cells in one cu. mm. undiluted blood will be R x 4,000 x 200/80 =10,000 x R. Counting white cells (stained) the dilution is 1:20. Counting W over the whole sq. mm., the blood contains, 10 x 20 x W = 200xW white blood corpuscles per cu. mm.

Substantial deviation from the normal indicates disease.

Breaking Ground for Old Cities

With the snow gone and paid for all the scientists are getting set to do some well subsidized exploring.

The Smithsonian Institution would like to have a couple of good mummies. It lost two by graduation last season.

The sovereign if somewhat weatherbeaten state of Montana will search for the world's most ancient citizen in the Beartooth buttes. He is supposed to have been very prehistoric with a skull like a button. He lived in the land of barking baritones. He ate his neighbors and was ferocious. When you find a man like that it is fun to put him back.

We also have some advance data on the hitch-hiking turtle. This rare animal is the property of a big eastern university. The hitch-hiking turtle floats north on sea weed. When he reaches the Arctic he trades the sea weed in for an iceberg and floats back to the Gulf of Mexico. The Gulf of Mexico is the boiler room of the Atlantic Ocean. It melts the iceberg. This deprives the turtle of vehicular traffic. Using his flippers as thumbs he tries to beat his way in any direction. The curator of ushers at Radio City will join the expedition.

The Soviet will build a big balloon to break all records. The main trouble with balloons is that they rise five miles and come back six.

Prof. Beebe hasn't done much since he explored the sea bottom in a diving bell. He discovered many rare things that hurt your bare feet when you step on them. It's all very exciting but not nearly so dangerous as going to sleep in a bath tub.

The University of Pennsylvania Expedition was very successful last summer in Mesopotamia. It unearthed a buried city, put in a traffic light system and shoveled the dirt back on it again. It discovered too late that city bonds are not legal savings bank investments in Mesopotamia.

Down in Mexico they still have the Inca ruins where young scientists can prep for Egypt and the Far East. The Inca ruins are fairly well dug up now but you can't grow a beard under more favorable circumstances.

No one but professors go on these trips. The students might take them too seriously.

Not Fooled

The Bulwinkle Committee's Fake Investigation Brings an Interesting Repercussion

With clear allusion to the recent exposure by the Hearst papers of the Communist propaganda in American schools, former Justice George N. Clark, of the Supreme Court of Michigan, speaking at Detroit on Saturday night exclaimed:

"Thank goodness, some American newspapers have the courage to inform the public how the Communistic influence is seeping into our schools."

The series of articles which was concluded recently in the Hearst papers not only revealed the systematic effort now in progress to poison the minds of youthful Americans with false and distorted views of their government, but they gave the names of those promoting this propaganda, showed the methods employed, presented facsimiles of the circulars being disseminated through out schools, and with particularity and detail exhibited the scandal in its entirety.

Justice Clark was speaking to an audience of 1,400 people at a banquet of the Wayne County Republican Committee:

"I appeal to you," he said, "as good Americans, to stand by America and true American principles. Don't follow the 'pinks'—those who have a voice in the government, like the so-called brain-trusters—who show red tendencies."

This is an interesting repercussion of the fake investigation staged by the Bulwinkle committee of the House into the manifestly sincere and well-intended warnings of Dr. William A. Wirt.

The Democratic politicians can concoct their little program to disconcert and discredit a good American for doing what he conceives to be his duty to the country. They may check his utterances, break up his testimony with calculated interruption, and indulge generally in the clumsy browbeating to which congressional committees are so prone, BUT THEY DO NOT FOOL THE PEOPLE.

A judgment is forming in the clear and honest thoughts of Americans which is anything but favorable to the "Frankfurter lawyers," the Richbergs, the Jerome Franks, and the Tugwells of the administration. They have had their run-around, spoken their little pieces, put on their school-boy themes and theses, with a lot of twaddle about "INTEGRATION" and "SYNTHESES" and "CORRELATIVES" and all those little strutting, but empty verbalisms, which stun a class-room but leave a sensible man either amused or wholly unimpressed.

They have had their day. Their sun is setting. They have done their stuff. The American people have sized them up.

As the editor said, who returned the young lady's verses—THEY ARE NOT GOOD, BUT ON THE CONTRARY THEY ARE BAD.

Such is the judgment—not yet very vocal, but destined to become more so—which is spreading through the land.

There are MILLIONS OF PLAIN ORDINARY AMERICANS WHO THINK as Judge Clark thinks. Pretty soon there will be many more WHO SPEAK AS HE SPEAKS.

YOU CANNOT FOOL ALL THE PEOPLE ALL OF THE TIME. THIS IS STILL A MAXIM OF AMERICAN LIFE.

Houses for the Destitute

The Question as to Who Shall Pay For Their Shelter Becomes Acute

The funds with which the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board has been paying the rent of many destitute families will be exhausted at the end of this week, and it is said that unless the State Relief Board comes to the rescue 66,000 families on relief will run the risk of eviction.

The State Relief Board has refused up until now to allow public funds to be used for the payment of rent. All money grants for that purpose have come from the Community Fund through private contributions. But the Community Fund has come to the end of its resources.

In this critical situation a decision will have to be reached, and it appears that if distress and disorder like the riot on the North Side yesterday are to be averted the decision will have to be in favor of the use of public funds for the payment of rent.

Sixty-six thousand families cannot be set out on the street; and it is unfair to ask landlords, who have interest and maintenance payments and taxes to meet, to take care of these people free of charge.

It was decided recently that it was unfair to physicians to make them bear the burden and expense of taking care of the indigent sick, and arrangements were made to pay the physicians for such services out of public funds. The same principle applies to landlords.

Pennsylvania will have to fall into line with Ohio and New York, in both of which rents are regularly paid for relief families out of state and Federal funds.

New Industries for City

Council Has Done Well in Deciding to Aid the Industrial Development Commission

One of Mayor W. N. McNair's campaign promises which made a specially favorable impression was that if elected he would undertake to bring new industries to Pittsburgh.

It is gratifying to find the City Council working to the same end.

A resolution providing for an appropriation for the Industrial Development Commission has been held up in the Finance Committee until further information is available as to what can be done, but it is stated that through a transfer of funds $30,000 will be made available for a campaign to attract new industries.

Private contributions are to be sought for a fund of $100,000 to be used in an effort to persuade companies utilizing steel as raw material to establish plants in or near Pittsburgh.

This is a move which, if energetically followed up, has interesting possibilities. It might very easily bring to the community an annual return many times in excess of the investment in the campaign. It is to be hoped that Council's interest will persist.

Young at 73

And How She Can Sing!

Mme. Schumann-Heink is another proof that woman's youth is a matter of spirit and energy—not years.

At 73, with a long and active life of work behind her, the famous singer is now embarking on another world tour which will carry her as far as Australia, South Africa and Japan. She will be "on the road" for two years, one of them on jaunts which will take her into every nook and cranny of this country.

Many more happy and active years to you, Mme. Schumann-Heink, and the large and enthusiastic audiences to which your beautiful voice entitles you!

Putting Up a Front

(Copyright, 1934.)

And if the default becomes known the welching debtor cannot usually borrow from anybody, for a debtor who welches once is pretty sure to welch twice.

France, having welched on the war debt, wants to borrow again—and a Dutch syndicate, representing France, invited Americans to participate in the loan.

Wisely, the American Government forbade.

Did that discourage France? Not at all.

Right away came dispatches from Paris saying that France would obtain PLENTY of American dollars by having OTHER COUNTRIES borrow the money FOR FRANCE.

But Uncle Sam will be able to see through that game, and it won't get far.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 19.—Gilbert White, deserting his Paris studio until European skies brighten, brings a gay splotch to the New York scene with his picturesque raiment and wit. One of the best raconteurs of Europe, he affects the wide black hat of the Latin Quarter, black bow and a Buffalo Bill coiffure.

Among his chores, aside from several portraits on his visit, will be the completion of murals in Washington and then a swing around the country which will include a stay at Charleston, S. C., a visit to his brother Stewart Edward in Santa Barbara and a roundup at Charles and Kathleen Norris' at Palo Alto.

With him is his French wife Dodo, celebrated Parisian beauty. The Whites are the core of the American art colony in Paree. Their salon in the rue Jadin collects perhaps the most notable gatherings of world figures to be found in any foreign capital.

White's metier, away from his easel, is the perpetual business of impersonation. A kind soul among those he likes, he is the most indefatigable heckler of phoneys living. With an insolent lift of a shaggy eye-brow, a shrug or a double edged phrase, he deflates them completely.

Another American deserter from the Parisian scene is the fair-haired Erskine Gwynne, long known around the Place Vendome as a play-boy. He has been in New York for several months and always found where life is merriest. A blood relative of the Vanderbilt clan, his chubby innocence belies his flair for the giddyap tempo. Wherever he is, he suggests the minister's son sitting in the front pew completely absorbed by a doleful sermon. Whereas he is up to his neck in caper.

Nothing makes a fellow so conspicuous as a splatter of paint on a shoe. Mine was a bright red, how picked up I do not know. Just as no one looks at a waiter's face, so New York, head down, gazes at everybody's feet. A few dabs of gasolene in a shoe shine parlor removed the offending smear. "You're the fourth today," said the shiner. An arch fiend at large! Old Paint in the last round-up.

No one in the theatrical profession is more beloved than Eddie Peabody, the banjoist. A one-gallused square-toed country boy, whose manner suggests Chic Sales, he is in close confidence of Rudy Vallee, Gary Cooper, May Robson, Marie Dressler and scores of the same ilk. He neither drinks, smokes nor will accept any engagement that interferes with regular attendance at church. He was grandma raised, wears mittens in extremely cold weather, and is as well known at Monte Carlo, London and Paris as in New York and Hollywood. When not trouping he and his wife Maud, who not only travels with him but at his insistence is in his dressing room at each theater, conduct a large orange plantation near Riverside, Cal.

The progress of the movie from nickelodeon to such cathedrals of artifice as Music Hall and the Capitol is best expressed I think by the elegance of the movie critics at an auspicious first showing. Movie critics are not only near the salary class of the drama critics, but three I saw at a George Arliss premiere were in white ties and toppers and two of the lady critics in evening frocks. And I noticed that two drove away in private cars. Also the news photographers are at movie first nights in droves to flashlight the famous.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Wild Song

The lark has caroled, the jay has called,
The mocking bird's note still rings,
And the garden echoes with silver tones
Of each feathered friend that sings.

But what is that far note, floating back
From the woodland across the stream?
It is clear and sweet as song must be
In the trackless realms of dream.

O, finch and linnet, I love you well
For the gladness you give the hours;
But strangely often my thought returns
To that songster in forest bowers.

So wild and haunting is his refrain
That my spirit is shaken and stirred
By the beauty outpoured, by the rapture and pain
From the heart of that unseen bird.

Gay birds flash down to my garden place
With a whir of their painted wings;
But my fancy gropes through the woodland deeps
For the unknown bird that sings.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

How Long Since You Changed Your Picture of Yourself?

She's forty-nine, and, suddenly, very bitter.

It isn't the years. She's sure she wouldn't mind the years. Everyone has to grow old—outside. Youth's just a word. You're as young as you feel. So being 49 wouldn't matter if people only understood that she really hasn't changed inside—that she is actually as young as she was at 19.

But there's the thing that hurts. People don't understand. Won't even try to understand. Even her dearest friends—her own husband and children—won't try to understand.

It's all so strange! Terrifying! Often and oftener, now, she has that queer sensation—as if she were lost—lost in a dream—as if she were shut off from all the world, and nobody knew her.

But why? Why should years make this difference? Why can't people see the True Her as plainly as she sees herself? There she is, just as she was when a girl. The same little girl. Not changed a particle. Oh, why can't they all see that she's just the same?

Yes, maybe she has changed a little outside. Of course she has grown more careful. Perhaps a little slower, more reserved. She doesn't rush into things the way she used to. She doesn't work herself to a frazzle. And thank goodness, she doesn't let people pull things over her eyes the way she did once. She's learned how to take care of herself. People think twice before they try to put anything over on her.

But that's all outside. Inside she hasn't changed a bit. Not a bit. Why, she's just as friendly and affectionate as she ever was. Good-natured, too, and generous. She'd do anything for anybody. And she likes the same simple things.

Queer, how life changes some people. Gives them all sorts of tiresome new tastes, set notions, disagreeable habits. But, thank goodness, life hasn't changed her like that. She's the same, sweet, simple girl she was 30 years ago, back in dear old Greenfield. The same honest, brave, warm-hearted girl.

Standing before her bedroom mirror, she looks, and looks. A few wrinkles and gray hairs, perhaps. A little stouter. But outside of that, not the least difference. There, looking back at her, is that lost girl's face—soft lips half parted in eager wonder, eyes starry with their secret delight.

Then, slowly, the eyes redden, brim with difficult, angry tears. The mouth droops, hardens.

For it's all so cruel! Life's so cruel! People are so cruel! Nobody understands. Nobody wants to understand. They treat her as if she were a queer, unkind stranger—just another mean old woman. They treat her like that! After all she's done for them! And they won't see—they won't even try to see—that she's just the same as she always was, inside!

Am I writing about a particular person? Yes, stranger, I am. I'm writing about millions of particular persons. About you, and you, and you—and about me, myself. About the whole human race—FOR WE'RE ALL LIKE THAT!

We all carry a picture of ourselves in our minds and, as the years gather, we grow more and more bitter at other people because they don't see that picture—because they insist on seeing quite a different picture. But the simple sad truth is—THEY CAN'T SEE THE PICTURE OF OURSELVES WHICH WE SEE, FOR IT NO LONGER EXISTS, SAVE IN OUR OWN IMAGINATION.

The girl that you were once; that I was once—the man that you were 20 years ago—we think they still live on, under the alien flesh and habits which time has laid upon us. We love to think that. We cling passionately to that belief in our own unchanged young courage, unaltered faith and generosity. It's our one comforting escape and excuse for all our blunders.

BUT IT'S NOT A REAL ESCAPE OR EXCUSE—FOR THOSE YOUNG SELVES NO LONGER EXIST. Little by little we've lost the selves we were—maimed ourselves—sold ourselves out by shameful surrenders, ignoble evasions. We like to think that we're "only a little more careful," whereas we're just more lazy, cowardly, stupid, greedy and unkind.

Couldn't we still stay young—as "young at 60 as we were at 16?" Yes, we could, BUT WE CAN'T DO IT BY LYING TO OURSELVES. WE CAN ONLY DO IT BY FACING OURSELVES AS WE REALLY ARE—AND GETTING BUSY ON THE PEOPLE WE'VE BECOME!

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Fill each blank:

1. "It is a good ——— that follows his own instructions." "Merchant of Venice." Shakespeare.
2. "A ——— in the morning
   Is the Shepherd's warning." "Old Weather Rhyme."
3. "Absence of ——— is not rest
   A mind quite vacant is a mind distress'd." Cowper, "Retirement."
4. "Accidents will ——— in the best regulated families." Dickens, "David Copperfield."
5. "A good south ——— sprung up behind
   The albatross did follow
   And every day for food or play
   Came to the mariner's hollo." Coleridge, "The Ancient Mariner."

Match correctly:

6. Joseph Warren	Italian barytone.
7. William Blake	Norwegian novelist.
8. George Russell	Hero of Bunker Hill.
9. Knut Hamsun	Irish poet.
10. Pasquale Amato	English poet.

Do you know:

11. What is a spillway?
12. In what organ is glycogen found?
13. What is a cul-de-sac?
14. What is the destructive insect that attacks the cotton plant?
15. What is an opus?

Answers to today's tests:

1. Divine. 2. Rainbow. 3. Occupation. 4. Happen. 5. Wind. 6. Hero of Bunker Hill. 7. English poet. 8. Irish poet. 9. Norwegian novelist. 10. Italian Barytone. 11. A passage for extra water in a reservoir. 12. Liver. 13. A blind alley. 14. Boll weevil. 15. A musical composition.

The Mystery of the Cosmic Ray Has the World's Scientists Engaged in a Heated Dispute

By Edwin C. Hill

ANOTHER round has opened in the scientific battle of the century which centers on the cosmic ray, the origin and composition of which have the American Nobel prize winners, Dr. Robert Millikan and Dr. Arthur Compton, at swords points, and the physicists of the world divided into two camps. All within a few days we read three important announcements having to do with this mysterious ray. What is it, whence does it come, and is it the most important link yet discovered in the quest for a solution of the greatest of all mysteries, the Creation?

Another explorer of the heavens, Dr. Thomas H. Johnson, is on his way from Panama to Peru, where he will pry into the activities of cosmic rays at the Equator, and next fall the search will be extended to the vicinity of the South Pole, or perhaps at the very pole itself, with Admiral Byrd lending the hand here.

Cosmic rays are so much like other forms of radiation, such as radium, light, heat and X-rays, that scientists believe that they are of the same family, although they are much more penetrating. They shower down on the earth from above, and have been found to penetrate 20 feet of lead, 200 feet of water and 800 feet of earth. Their discovery followed close on radium 20 years ago when scientists were intrigued with the marvels of the elements which, they found, were electrifying the very air which we breathe.

Photons Is Name Given by Millikan

BUT SOME inquisitive souls among the learned men of Europe started going up into the Alps, to the top of Eiffel Tower, and even higher up in balloons, all to come back with the question:

"If, as has been proved, the gamma ray of radium can penetrate only a few hundred feet above sea level, what are these radiations which we find up in the clouds and beyond?"

There was immediately a rush of scientists to the mountain tops and the deeps, not to dodge the question, certainly, but to try to answer it.

Sure enough, out there is space were these new and powerful rays traveling with the speed of light. Dr. Millikan, who is president of the California Institute of Technology, advanced his finding that the rays are bullets of light of extremely short wave length, known scientifically as photons. Dr. Compton, of the University of Chicago, holds that they are highly charged particles of electricity, known as electrons.

There is the rub, or the bone of contention, or the apple of discord, which the cosmic ray has forced upon the court of the scientists. The Millikan school deduces that new matter is being created up there among the stars, to take the place of dead, cold worlds; that the universe is immortal; Millikan, himself, using these words:

"The Creator is still on the job."

Against this, one finds the annihilation hypothesis of Sir James Jeans, of Cambridge University. To him and to other leaders in this field, the universe is running down; matter is constantly melting into radiation, and such is the destiny of the universe.

Abbe LeMaitre Has Another Theory

ABBE GEORGES LeMAITRE, of Belgium, is inclined to think both photons and electrons may be found in the cosmic ray which he links with his famous hypothesis of the Creation—namely, that some two billion years ago an atom exploded and photons, electrons and protons began their dash off into space, which still goes on, so that the universe continues to expand like a soap bubble.

If the cosmic rays are electric particles they should be found in greater quantities around the earth's lines of magnetic force, which are the poles. Hence the Compton measurements in a dozen places around the world, and especially his plan for research to be done by the Byrd expedition. If the rays are electrons, they will be more intense at the South Pole than at the Equator; if they are bullets of light, or photons, they will be the same at all points on the globe.

Next—Where do they come from? LeMaitre says: "From the stars." And he continues with this explanation:

"The stars are born without atmosphere. The atmosphere evolved after the escape of the cosmic rays. And the cosmic rays are the outstanding features of the formation of a star. The star, being born from the atom, shoots forth the cosmic rays, which are glimpses of the primeval fireworks of the formation of a star from an atom, coming to us after their long journey through free space."

More Buildings, Grounds Need of Naval Academy

By James T. Williams, Jr.

EVERY YEAR the President and the Congress appoint a board of visitors to inspect and report upon the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. A similar board visits the United States Military Academy at West Point and inspects and reports upon that institution.

When the board of visitors begins its annual inspection of the Naval Academy at Annapolis on April 23, it will find how badly needed are additional grounds and buildings for that institution.

At the present time the buildings most needed at Annapolis are the following:

An auditorium capable of accommodating the entire student body of the academy, and suitable for lectures, graduating exercises and other meetings at which it is desirable for all the midshipmen to be present. So small is the auditorium now in use that not more than two of the four classes of midshipmen can be seated at one time and even this number taxes the capacity of the hall.

The present administration building was large enough when the midshipmen numbered only five or six hundred. As the numbers now total some sixteen hundred, the administrative activities of the academy require a larger building.

Library Also Is Inadequate

ANOTHER most important institution in the life of the academy is the library. It is much too small to meet present needs. There is not nearly enough space to store and handle books. The space available for the library is much too small to accommodate what ought to be the needs of all the midshipmen.

Additional recitation rooms are badly needed now that the midshipmen have increased in numbers to more than twice the strength of the academy when the present buildings were completed.

Additional laboratory space is needed, especially by the departments of electrical engineering and marine engineering. Additional buildings are also needed for the use of the supply department and for the athletic activities of the academy.

There is no recreation building for the midshipmen where they may spend their hours off duty. And a planetarium, it is said, would be most useful in the teaching of nautical astronomy. This building might be open to the public under conditions similar to those which make the Adler Planetarium in Chicago available to the public.

Academy Grounds Require Expansion

FOR A LONG time the Navy Department has known that the Naval Academy grounds needed expansion. They are now indented by an area of three city blocks which should have been acquired years ago by the government for the use of the academy. Acquisition of this area is essential if new buildings needed are to be constructed.

In 1945 the Naval Academy will round out one hundred years of service to the nation. It was founded while George Bancroft was Secretary of the Navy, in the administration of President Polk. No more appropriate observance of this coming centennial could be suggested than building up the academy to meet the needs of the Navy of the nation of these times.

Now is the time to begin the centennial building program for the Naval Academy if the new buildings and grounds are to be in use eleven years hence. Now construction started now would help to provide employment for the jobless. This can be done by the allocation of funds for this purpose by the Public Works Administration or by direct congressional appropriation. And a recommendation to this effect by the Board of Visitors at its forthcoming meeting would not only meet with public approval but it ought to appeal to an administration rejoicing in the name of Roosevelt.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Are you envious of persons who can do things in a public way that bring to them prominence and commendation?

Do you belittle their efforts as easily acquired and of little value?

Do you manifest by your actions that you are bored when they appear?

In many ways, do you appear ridiculous and lacking in the necessary culture to enjoy what is presented for your edification or instruction?

Perhaps, you may have more latent ability than those performing.

But if you have not developed it, you have no right to criticize those who have won distinction through hard work and study.

If your laziness prevents you from the acclaim you might wish, it is your own fault. You do not receive the plaudits accorded those who present what they have to give, because you are lazy.

You would be given the recognition if you had something worthwhile to offer and your presentation deserved it.
